Lures Fish To Jump
Into Net; It Works

Sevierville, Tenn., July 2.—(UP)—R. H. Yett holds the prize for the best fish story of the season so far. Here it is:

"While up at Mt. LeConte, I fished in Uncle Steve Whaley's fish pond. There was a ten foot fall and I was fishing below the fall. I had a net below the fall and standing at the top with a hook hanging over the water. The fish would jump for the hook and go over the falls into the net."

"I caught about 100 fish this way."

Matter of Nerves

Ticking depends upon the sensitiveness of the nervous system. Susceptibility to ticking is also partially under the control of the will. If no restraint is exercised, hypersensitiveness is apt to result. Considerable resistance can be developed.

Got His Birds Mixed

One evening at the dinner table the family was discussing the visit of the stork to a neighboring family. Mother was contemplating a visit to the home to see the new arrival, a baby boy, and to take it a gift. Bobby, age four, who had been listening with interest, suddenly inquired: "Well, mother, why don't you ask the hawk to bring me a baby brother, too?"

Land Hurt by Dam

The bottomland of Egypt is not as fertile as it was before the Assuan dam was built. The mud that was carried down the Nile by natural flooding is stopped by the dam. It settles back of the dam, and the clear water which irrigates the land below lacks the fertilizing element.

Never Has Any Luck
With His Tenants

St. Louis, Mo., July 2.—(UP)—Edward Wells, 45, never had any luck with his tenants, so he's going back to the Indiana state prison at Michigan City, to serve out his sentence of two to 21 years.

When he was sentenced in Indiana for criminally assaulting a 14-year-old girl, he accused her parents of faking the charge in a scheme to defraud him of property they rented from him.

Wells escaped from the prison, came to St. Louis, married and, as Edward Smith, became a respected citizen. But he forgot his former experience with tenants and told one here of his escape. The tenant told authorities and Wells was arrested.

British Have Hopes
For Armament Reduction

London, July 2.—(UP)—Conversations which have begun between Prime Minister MacDonald and U. S. Ambassador Dawes are the basis of British hopes for action toward an early reduction of international armaments. It was declared in King George's speech at the formal opening of the British parliament today.

Because of the king's recent illness he was unable to deliver the speech in person. It was read instead by Lord Sankey, lord chancellor of Great Britain before a joint session of the houses of parliament in the house of lords.

It was the first speech from the throne ever drafted by a Labor government in Great Britain. British customs provides that while the government drafts the speech, it must be signed by the king.

Charges Radium Is Controlled By Monopoly

New York, July 2.—(UP)—Radium is controlled by a monopoly which sets a price for its use beyond the means of cancer victims, Dr. Richard B. Moore, head of the science department of Purdue university, charges in a letter quoted in the July number of Industrial Engineering and Chemistry issued today. Moore declares that although the retail price of a gram of radium in the United States is $70,000 the element is produced for $10,000.

The sentence calls for 25 years in the state prison.

Farmer Boy's Love-Letter

"Do you carrot all for me? My heart beats for you and my love is as soft as a squash. But I'm strong as an onion, for you're a peach. With your turnip nose and your radish hair you are the apple of my eye. If you cantaloupe with me, lettuce marry anyhow, for I know weed make a pear."—Exchange.

As He Understood It

Pronunciation of "Gums"

The word "gums," meaning the fleshy tissues in which the teeth are imbedded, is correctly pronounced "gumz," with the "u" short as in "chewing gum." The pronunciation "goonz" is regarded as incorrect.

Ain't Science Wonderful?

Veterinarians have discovered, according to Farm and Fireside, how to remove the bark from a dog and the bleat from a goat. It remains only for them to eliminate the mosquito's bite and the bee's sting to make country life practically 100 per cent perfect.

"King's English"

It is the king's English just as it is the king's army, the king's navy and the king's country. Everything in the tight little isle is subject to him, in theory at least. The expression is proverbial. It is sometimes credited to Shakespeare because of his use of it in the first act of "The Merry Wives of Windsor," but it antedates him.

Where Slate Comes From

The slate made use of in this country is almost entirely supplied from a belt extending from Maine down through Vermont, New York, Pennsylvania, Maryland and Virginia. Pennsylvania is the largest producer of slate (exclusive of slate granules) in the United States and also produces a greater variety of slate products than any other state, although Maine and Vermont both outrank it in output of electrical slate.

Copied English Name

The great English Derby is run at Epsom Downs. Col. M. Lewis Clark patterned the Kentucky Derby after the English Derby. He was the nephew of John and Henry Churchill, who owned the tract of land upon which the Churchill Downs race course is situated. Hence it was so named.

REFRIGERATION
GAS CONDEMNEDMethyl Chloride Gas, Used
In Some Machines, Blamed
For Several Deaths

Chicago, July 2.—(UP)—Acting upon the recommendation of a coroner's jury of pathologists and chemists which investigated the death of Mrs. Viola Clarke, 28-year-old artist, the city health department moved today to eliminate the danger of poisonings by methyl chloride gas from artificial refrigerators.

The jury held that methyl chloride gas was responsible for the death of Mrs. Clarke. Health authorities asserted 15 other recent deaths in the city were caused by the same gas which is used in the cooling unit of some mechanical refrigerators.

Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of the journal of the American Medical association and one of the jurors, commented that the jury "took cognizance of the fact that hundreds of thousands of refrigerators have been installed over the country and that they operate with apparent slight mortality."

Death of the guinea pigs, placed in Mrs. Clarke's apartment and exposed to the refrigerator fumes, also was considered by the jury. Coroner Herman Bundesen testified that gas in large quantities was escaping from a leak in the refrigerator.

Leaders of the mechanical refrigerator industry opposed the verdict contending that their own experiments with the gas had "convinced them it was harmless" in respect to the quantity which might escape through defects in the refrigerators. Richard W. Kritzer, vice-president of the Peerless Ice Machine company, testified that more than 60,000 refrigerators in Chicago use methyl chloride gas. Further testimony revealed that only five of 22 makes use sulphur dioxide which gives off a warning odor when escaping.

Youth, 17, Acquitted
Of Manslaughter Charge

Indianapolis, July 2.—(UP)—Richard Lowther, 17-year-old high school youth charged with involuntary manslaughter, was acquitted today in criminal court because state's witnesses created doubt of the defendant's guilt in the mind of Fred Bates Johnson, special judge.

Lowther was on trial for the deaths of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Underwood, of Jamestown, Ind., as the result of an automobile accident Jan. 7. Underwood was killed instantly, and Mrs. Underwood died three months later, without recovering her mental faculties.

Indianapolis, July 2.—(UP)—Complaints regarding the food served widows of Civil War veterans at the state soldiers home, Lafayette, have been brought to the attention of C. F. Zillmer, commandant, by one of the women there and today her complaint was brought to the attention of Governor Harry G. Leslie.

Mrs. Ceatta R. Oliver, resident of the home for the last 17 years, made the formal complaint to Zillmer.

In her complaint to the commandant, Mrs. Oliver said the food was served cold with skimmed milk, that leftovers from the cafeteria are served in the widows' ward, that meat is tough and of insufficient quantity and that mush and hominy are the chief foods.

City Painter Sketches

Knoxville, Tenn., July 2.—(UP)—H. D. Acuff, local truck driver, was fined for reckless driving through unique evidence introduced by N.T. Lowe who is on the city payroll as a painter and also has police power.

Lowe, while engaged in painting, turned from his labors to see Acuff run his truck over the foot of Woodrow Jernigan, 16.
