TWO BRITISH SUBS COLLIDE

that details were unavailable and promised relatives of officers and men of the submarines that they would be informed as further information is available.

Although all arrangements are being expedited to salvage the sunken submarine, many experts are pessimistic regarding success of rescue attempts.

The destroyer Thanet, which left Plymouth today for Arran was instructed by radio to rush to the scene of the disaster.

The spot where the submarine lies is passed regularly by the passenger liners plying between New York and Liverpool.

Naval authorities assumed that the L-12 was traveling on the surface at the time of the collision, thus accounting for the loss of the chief signalman, who probably was on lookout duty.

The commander in chief of the British Atlantic fleet, at present at Torbay, ordered all dances scheduled on all ships of the fleet during the week cancelled.

Prussian Diet Approves Concordat With Holy See

Berlin, July 9.—(UP)—The Prussian diet at the end of an uproarious debate, punctuated with anti-religious shouts of communist members, today approved the concordat with the Holy See by a vote of 243 to 172.

Ernst Stendel, leader of Gustav Stresemann's folks party in the diet, bitterly opposed the concordat and demanded that Prussia simultaneously conclude a treaty with the Protestant church. The diet rejected Nationalist and Economist party motions to this effect.

When the Catholic deputy, Joseph Hess, declared during the debate that the concordat proves Prussia's religious tolerance, the Communists shouted in a body "Jesuit robbers!"

The Nationalist deputy, Franz Goldau, declared he was voting for the concordat because it safeguarded the Nationalists' interests. Thereupon the Nationalists announced Goldau was ousted from the party.

Watson Speeds Up Work On New Tariff Measure

Washington, July 9.—(UP)—The Senate finance committee will have complete drafting the tariff bill when the senate reconvenes August 19 and the bill may be passed about the end of November, Senator Watson, republican leader, predicted today.

Confession In "Torch Murder" Case Is Altered

Toulon, Ill., July 9.—(UP)—The "torch murder" confession of Laura Weaver, 21, was altered today to reveal the age-old story of a woman's "past" as the true basis of the murder of Wilmer T. Kitzelman.

The woman was bound over to the October term of court and held without bond today, in a preliminary hearing before Magistrate H. C. Stavin. It was announced that C. W. Hadley, of Rock Island, had been retained to conduct her defense.

Miss Weaver, a six-foot, 230-pound giant of the farm, confessed in a new statement that she strangled her middle-aged lover and burned his body because he had threatened to disclose her "past" to her wealthy and respected father.

Judge Slick Criticizes Tactics Of Dry Agents

South Bend, July 9.—(UP)—A slap at the tactics of government liquor "informers" was taken here by Judge Thomas W. Slick, in U. S. district court, when he fined Walter Schultz, 30, Fort Wayne, $1 without costs on his plea of guilty to selling whisky, and ordered his confiscated automobile returned.

Judge Slick punctuated his action with the remark: "I certainly do not approve of the tactics of these informers, paid or otherwise, and I do not approve of the tactics whereby these informers are sent out to solicit persons to violate the law." The judge told G. L. Rulison, assistant district attorney that if Schultz had not volunteered to plead guilty he would never have allowed the case to go to trial.

Excitement in Rome

Rome, July 9.—(UP)—All of Rome awaited in tense excitement today for the faintest whisper of news concerning the Rome-bound American monoplane, Pathfinder, with Roger Q. Williams and Lewis A. Yancey of New York.

The air ministry exhausted all its resources in attempting to gain information of the plane's progress. Shortly after noon an official communique was put out by the air ministry. It read:

"Since the Pathfinder is not equipped with radio and the fliers did not state which landing place they intended to use, the air ministry has arranged that from 8 p. m. today the Rome airports of Montecello, Littorio and Ciampino shall be fully illuminated and have all signalling services sold last month.

working. "Special luminous flares will be used at Montecello and especially powerful electric searchlights at Littorio.
