Ruling Affects Autos

Seized With Liquor

South Bend, Ind., July 20—(UP)—Judge Thomas W. Slick, in a decision in federal court here ruled that automobiles seized with contraband liquor should be dealt with under prohibition laws instead of an old internal revenue statute, which will effect persons hold liens on machines such as finance companies.

As a result, lien holders would have an opportunity to recover equities from sales of cars by the government. The case in which the decision was made is regarded as a test, and counsel for the government announced it would take an appeal.

Judge Slick, announcing his decision in the case of Arthur J. Gladeau, ordered thirteen gallons of whiskey found in an automobile destroyed. Then a finance company which had sold the automobile on installment payments entered a claim, asserting that at the time of sale Gladeau was a deputy sheriff, and it was without knowledge he intended to use the car in illicit liquor dealing. The company claimed proceedings to sell the machine under the old statute were improper and was upheld by the court.

New York July 20—(UP)—Sound and talking apparatus for the making of motion pictures will be carried on an aeronautical expedition for the first time when the South American Trade Extension takes off in its giant twin-engine Skikorsky amphibian this fall. Special color and sound apparatus of aluminum weighing less than 500 pounds is now being prepared for the flight.

The flight sponsored by the American Manufacturers Export Association and other prominent Pan-American organizations, is being projected to increase good will between the United States and its southern neighbors. This tour of 22 Latin and South American countries, will take approximately five months and will visit 24 of the most important trade centers in these countries.

Taking pictures in natural color of the civic, industrial, and commercial life of the United States are now being prepared for the South American tour. According to W. O. Brown who is in charge of flight preparations, the talking lectures accompanying the United States films will be made by prominent American business men who are authorities on South American conditions. All lectures will be made in Spanish, Portuguese and English so that they may be understood by the audiences in the various countries where they are projected. A sound specialist will accompany the crew in the plane and will make pictures of South America. These pictures will be shown throughout the United States on a similar tour following the one in South America.

South American pictures will include films taken in many parts of the country which have never before been accessible to the cameraman. The Amazon, the Andes and hidden Indian settlements will be filmed in addition to reels showing the business and civic life throughout Latin America.

Following the North American tour the pictures will be available for schools, colleges churches and other organizations interested in Latin America.
