COURT HOUSE

Sues On Note

The Petroleum Hardware Company through its attorney Nathan Nelson has brought suit against Ralph Smithey in Adams circuit court. The suit, in two counts is entitled "Suit on note and book account." The plaintiff alleges that in 1925 the defendant gave a note for $250 and later purchased goods from plaintiff's store and charged same to a book account. Plaintiff therefore asks judgment in the sum of $447.83. The complaint was filed and the summons made returnable September 16.

of the castle, you can almost hear the clank of armor and pounding of hoofs as some proud knight would ride up to the castle through the narrow, well guarded pathway. The castle is of course filled with ancient vases, china tapestries, furniture paintings and sculpture and is so wonderful.

After visiting Shottery, Anne Hathaways home, we returned to Birmingham. Nothing at all remarkable. A about Shottery except Shakespeare's wife was born there.

Wednesday, the 14th of August we went to Oxford and made a walking tour of Oxford and the colleges. There is now a summer vacation at the college. There are 21 separate colleges at Oxford. We only went through five of them but they are all practically alike. There is one where Charles I held court while he was besieged by Cromwell. Every student is obliged to go to chapel, 4 days every week, or he is expelled after several warnings. The hours for closing the college in the evening is 9 P. M. and each hour after that is penalized by fines from 6 cents to 25 cents. The American Rhodes Scholars are said to have broken several sprint records getting to the gate before 12 P. M. which is the deadline. The Americans are the latest to come in the porter told me. After visiting various chapels, which all have beautiful walls and ceilings covered by wood carving, and the college gardens and buildings we went to London and came to the Royal Hotel. The accommodations are fine and each scout has a separate room. There are about 250 scouts in London at this time. All of our party is in excellent health and are enjoying the trip.

My next note will be from London after our 4 day visit is ended there. I hope to have something exciting and out of the ordinary to tell you next time.

Sincerely, JAMES M. BURK
