New Witnesses Called In Pantages Trial

Los Angeles, Sept. 11.—(U.P.)—The state called new witnesses today in the trial of Mrs. Lois Pantages to support the damaging testimony of a contractor and a railroad machinist that the theatrical millionaire's wife was intoxicated and was driving recklessly when her automobile killed Joe

Rokumoto, Japanese gardener.

The contractor was Harry J. Lederbrink. He said that he had encountered Mrs. Pantages two blocks from the corner where she collided with Rokumoto's automobile and that she was zig-zagging at one corner and blocking traffic because of a stalled engine at another.

His offer to assist her was greeted by an oath, Lederbrink testified.

Then, he said, he met her a third time at the scene of the crash.

"Was Mrs. Pantages, in your opinion, under the influence of intoxicating liquor?" Deputy District Attorney James Costello asked.

"Yes, sir," Lederbrink replied.

The machinist witness was Cyril Holmes. He testified that Mrs. Pantages drove down Sunset boulevard in a zig-zag fashion and finally sent her automobile careening to the wrong side of the street and into the machine occupied by the gardener and his five children.

Chicago Bombers Throw Number 34 Today

Chicago, Sept. 11.—(U.P.)—Chicago bomb tossers remembered the fourteenth anniversary of one of their explosions today by blowing up the same building again.

Fourteen years ago a building on the Westside was damaged by the explosion of a crude bomb. Charles Renzico, owner and occupant, escaped injury in the last only to be shot down in a later gang killing. With his death the building was sold to Frank Gilberto, who opened up a grocery store on the ground floor.

Gilberto, speaking to friends who occupied the floors above his store, recalled last night that the anniversary of the bombing was approaching. An hour later his store was wrecked by a black powder bomb. No one was injured.

The bomb was the 34th of the year

Manchurian Situation Is Still Regarded As Grave

Mukden, Manchuria, Sept. 11.—(U.P.)—The situation along the Manchurian Siberian border continued grave today, with the Chinese desperately concentrating against a menacing Russian force along a wide front.

Communication with important border points was severed, and only intermittent reports came through. The chief centers of fighting were at Manchuli, Pogranitchnaya, and Suifenh.

The Chinese were defending the Manchuli sector against determined attacks by artillery, armored cars and airplanes.

The fate of Pogranitchnaya was unknown. Most of the residents had evacuated after the city had been heavily damaged by airplanes.

Belated dispatches from Suifenh said the Chinese still held the town under a determined soviet assault and under heavy artillery fire.
