R. B. COOLEY CALLS HORSE SHOW ONE OF GREATEST

mares or foals as exhibited here Thursday. The aged stallion class is larger than the same class exhibit at the state fair and I am confident that if a number of these horses were taken to the state fair that the owners would be well repaid for the inconvenience and expense connected with them. There is no better form of advertising than the showing of these horses and the owners should exhibit them over the state.

The horse show was one of the big features of the street fair and thousands of people were attracted to the barns on East Monroe street where the animals were quartered. More than 100 head of thoroughbred animals were on exhibition, including stallions, mares, colts and ponies. George Krick was superintendent of the show, assisted by G. F. Eichhorn and Roy Johnson and a number of others who helped to get the horse breeders in this county interested in the show.

New York, Sept. 13—(UP)—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh will leave Miami, Fla., on Sept. 20 for a flight over 16 tropical countries.

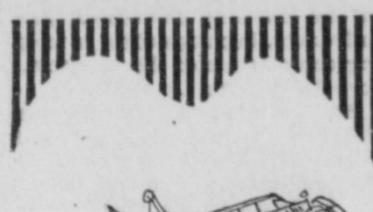

The 7,000-good-will tour, which also will be an inspection of the pan-American airways lines, will be an almost exact reversal of the "Circle Course" which Lindbergh flew 18 months ago in the Spirit of St. Louis. This time he officially will open the air mail service between the United States and Dutch Guiana.

FIND BAY RUM IS BEVERAGE

pal Judge Joseph E. Mershon: "We, the jury, find that bay rum is an intoxicating liquor fit for beverage purposes and should be condemned as such."

The verdict means that the state, unless the defense is successful in an appeal, is privileged to condemn the 3,000 odd bottles of bay rum which it seized in the Woolworth Five and Ten Cent store last May. Kark Burkman, assistant county attorney explained that the verdict applied only to the confiscation in the one store and to the specific brand of bay rum sold there.

William Riley, chief of defense counsel, immediately announced that an appeal of the municipal court's decision would be taken to the district court of the state.

Riley's announcement was followed by a statement from the prosecution that action would be begun in the district court to prohibit the sale of bay rum under the state liquor nuisance law. The scope of such an action was not explained by the prosecution thus the limit to which the state expects to carry its campaign against bay rum was undetermined.

The trial lasted five days and was featured by testimony of several witnesses who described in detail the effect of the bay rum they purchased from the Woolworth store. Witnesses testified that a few bottles were sufficient to produce a "pleasant jag" but the morning after affect, they said, was considerably more disagreeable than the "hangovers" of various other beverages.

Officers Are Selected For County W. C. T. U.

The fall meeting of the Adams County Women's Christian Temperance Union was held at Geneva, Thursday. The meeting was an all-day affair, and during the afternoon session the election of officers was held. The officers, as announced today, are as follows: President, Mrs. C. E. Hocker of Decatur; vice-president, Mrs. Hester Vorhes of Geneva; secretary, Mrs. M. M. Baumgartner of Berne, and treasurer, Mrs. B. J. Rice of Decatur.

The session was interesting throughout, and a good program was planned for the coming year. Mrs. Hocker, as president, appointed Mrs. Chris Lehman of Berne and Mrs. Alpha Chew of Geneva to work on the membership committee, and an effort will be made to secure a large number of new members during the year.

SHEARER PROBE IS POSTPONED

Other Business Crowds Investigation Back; Some Want Complete Probe

Paul R. Mallon, UP Staff Correspondent

Washington, Sept. 13.—(UPI)—The international situation monopolized Senate interest today as investigation of the Shearer naval lobby case was cautiously deferred, as warning were heard about the prospective disarmament visit of Premier MacDonald and a dispute arose over the quarantine provisions against foreign nations in the pending tariff bill.

Delay in opening the Shearer inquiry caused considerable cloakroom discussion because of the ticklish situation involved in the proposed score of the subcommittee hearings. One group wants to tear into the whole question of the expensive peace lobbies maintained in Washington as well as those of the big navy propagandists, while the other group desires to confine the investigation solely to the question of what influence was wielded in the unsuccessful Geneva disarmament conference of 1927 by William B. Shearer, the naval expert, employed by American ship-builders.

Under the restricted terms of the resolution authorizing the investigation, it is expected to be confined at the outset to Shearer's Geneva activities, but some senators believe it will be impossible to stop the investigation at that point.

They believe the evidence will necessitate investigation of what Shearer did in the halls of congress during the recent cruiser bill fight and in previous navy legislation disputes.

From that point there is but a step to a complete investigation of all the peace and war lobbies of Washington and the money they are spending to influence legislation. The wider inquiry has been suggested by Secretary of State Stimson.
