LOS ANGELES MAN PERFECTS HOMING PLANE

Believed Invention Will Prevent Fliers Losing Way

By Percy C. Richards,
UP Staff Correspondent.

Los Angeles, April 4.—(U.P.)—The homing plane, a modern counterpart of the homing pigeon, has been perfected by Gerhard Fisher, consulting radio engineer for Western Air Express, and placed at this disposal of naval and military authorities.

The invention is a development of direction finding in the radio field and readily converts any plane whether of the commercial or fighting type, into a veritable homing "bird."

This radio "pathfinder" will obviate such occurrences as happened during the recent Pacific naval maneuvers when two pursuit squadrons were lost for a short time.

The pilot will have to do in future is to tune in on his direction finding set and a little needle will indicate his course back to the mother ship, or airport from which he came, or wants to go to.

Any deviation is immediately recorded on the dial by the swinging of the needle off the direction originally indicated.

Recent tests have proven that the set can pick up stations from the ground at a distance of 1,000 miles, while an air test worked a distance of 350 miles. Fisher says, however, that the distance while operating in the air can be increased.

The set weighs in all 18 pounds and insofar as its use commercially is concerned requires no improvements other than what new inventions will bring forth.

Adaptability to fighting planes, however, has to be perfected. As the set is constructed now, the aerial would be in the way of machine gun bullets. Fisher is working on a device that will make the unit adaptable to this type plane.

Accounting for Folk Tales

A theory reported to the Folk Lore society is that folk tales of giants stalking on seven-league boots probably arose from the custom on using stilts in the marshy parts of Europe, a custom which awed and frightened strangers.

CHILD HEALTH CONFERENCE TO BE HELD HERE

Mrs. Faye Smith Knapp, county probation officer that he will attend the conference and deliver an address and Bishop Noll will attend it at all possible. Several leading doctors of Fort Wayne will also attend the conference.

The purpose of the conference is to interest the public, school teachers, parents, county and city officials, members of service and civic organizations and the public in general in child health and problems relating to children.

The conference will bring before the public information concerning the program of child health and protection promoted by the White House conference, called by President Hoover last November and by Governor Harry Leslie in Indiana last January.

Following the state conference, which was attended by several Adams county people, it was urged that individual conferences be held in every county in the state. Several of the counties, including Allen county, have already held the conferences. Huntington county is to hold its meeting next week and Bishop Noll will probably attend both conferences, coming here from Huntington for the evening session.

A general committee, planning the program and places for holding the meeting is composed of Mrs. Knapp, C. E. Striker, county superintendent of schools; M. F.

Worthman, city superintendent of schools; W. Guy Brown, principal of the Decatur high school; Dr. R. E. Daniels, Mrs. Maybelle Myers, county treasury officer and Mrs. C. V. Connel.

FUNERAL PYRE IS PREPARED

in a burial ditch back of the cemetery, five on the public dump; three near the water works and two in Crater lake behind the presidential palace.

The strain on the refugees as well as the Marine forces and the National Guards was demonstrated last night by seven shootings. A guard at the water tanks which formerly supplied the city, shot four persons attempting to take polluted water. The natives had been warned repeatedly against using the water, but the shortage forced them to extremes—with the resultant danger of an epidemic.

Earlier, another guard shot three looters who were fleeing from the ruins of the city. One of them had $7,000 on his person.

The evacuation of the last groups of American women and children was resumed. The transport Chautmont at Corinto, where they were taken, will carry about 150 of them to the Canal Zone. The others will be taken to the United States by other ships.

"I have never seen a city so utterly destroyed as Managua," said Swift after his first survey of the capital.

He commented on the orderly and voluntary evacuation of the populace. Only about 15,000 refugees from the city are left in this vicinity and they are being cared for by the relief committee which Swift organized after conferences with American Minister Matthew Hanna and President Jose M. Montecada.

Swift said there would be no need for more nurses, although there are about 2,000 wounded among the refugees. Many of the natives who have not gone to other cities have returned to their damaged homes, where they are living in distressing circumstances.

Swift said there was no danger, so far as he could see, of an epidemic, due to the precautions already taken. He pointed out that the present dry season was not likely to prove harmful to natives living in the fields or in damaged homes, and that such conditions could continue without danger until the rainy season in May or June.

"The problem can be solved then," he said, expressing the opinion that Managua probably would never be rebuilt.

Rear Admiral Arthur St. Clair Smith, from the cruiser Rochester, arrived by airplane and conferred with officials here about supplies.
