COURT ACTION CAUSES FEAR

opinions of the recent incidents in more forceful terms. The incidents have aroused a rising tide of anti-American sentiment in many sections of public opinion, high and low.

The press was particularly bitter over the Dominguez case, coming on the heels of the fatal shooting of two Mexican youths recently at Ardmore, Okla., one a relative of President Pascual Ortiz Rubio.

The newspaper La Prensa, in a typical editorial headed "United States—Land of Yankee Savages," said: "In its long history of imperialism, of covetous aggressions, of pretended racial superiority, the United States not only has tried to strangle China, but also took possession on the basis of its savage right of strength of whatever weak countries incited its appetite for gold."

"It not only has mutilated our territory but has instituted a lynch system outside its written laws and now is giving proof of an anti-Mexicanism which no moral code nor international standard ought to tolerate."

La Prensa's editorial added that "many of our compatriots for the mere suspicion of crime have been executed." Referring to Judge Green's objections to Dominguez's intervention in the Chicago case, La Prensa said that a Texas congressman had less right to intervene in the case of William Jefferson Meers from El Paso, recently sentenced to death at Chihuahua for killing a Mexican whom he mistook for another.

"This assassin should have been shot," La Prensa said. "Moreover, was as a census on Yankee savages who come as vagrants into Mexico in order to apply the law with full vigor—it's an eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth."

El Universal likewise condemned the action of Judge Green at length, both for sentencing Dominguez and also for the prosecution of an unemployed Mexican as a vagrant. The writer of the editorial — apparently unfamiliar with American vagrancy laws — asked the same procedure be taken with the "6,000,000 unemployed Americans."

BOUND TO BE READ
By H. ALLEN SMITH
United Press Book Editor

One of the most enjoyable books I have picked up in weeks is "The Oregon Trail," by Francis Parkman, an American classic that has been reissued in handsome format by Farrar & Rinehart.

Parkman left college in the 1840's and went into the wild west, and the book he wrote upon returning will no doubt always stand as the most thrilling, yet factual, of all the stories of the Indian and buffalo country.

This new edition has an introduction by Mark Van Doren and the printers have done a fine job. Boys who relish tales of adventure and who find them in questionable fiction should be given this book, for it is more exciting reading than they are likely to find elsewhere.

"Speed" is the name of a new book by Capt. Frank Hawks, published by Brewer, Warren & Putnam. Everybody in America and Europe knows Frank Hawks by now. He is unquestionably the fastest fellow we have, and he is fast consistently. In this book he recounts the story of his youth (he's a native of Iowa), of his transcontinental flights, his great glider journey from ocean to ocean, his speed sprints and his tour of the southwest with Will Rogers. The book ends with his departure for Europe where, as we all know, he has been cutting all kinds of rapid capers. Aviation enthusiasts will get a great kick out of "Speed."

The sorriest novel I believe I ever laid my hands on is "Hot News," by Emile Gauvreau (Mac-auley). Gauvreau, managing editor of a New York tabloid newspaper, sets out to expose tabloid journalism in his book and succeeds in exposing himself as a writer. His book is dull, flat, exaggerated and strewn with platitudes. Gauvreau is a good newspaperman, no doubt, but he hasn't succeeded in writing a novel.

"Living Philosophies" (Simon & Schuster) is a symposium of essays from the leading thinkers of our day, and the best symposium of them all, to my mind. Included in the volume are Albert Einstein, Sir James Jeans, Theodore Dreiser, Joseph Wood Krutch, George Jean Nathan, Robert A. Milliken, J. B. S. Haldane, Bertrand Russell, John Dewey, H. G. Wells, H. L. Mencken, Sir Arthur Keith, James Truslow Adams, Julia Peterkin, Lewis Mumford, Irving Babbitt, Hilaire Belloc and Dean Inge.

265 Congratulated Him
Madrid.—(U.P.)—When Don Alfonso of Bourbon celebrated his birthday, 265 congratulatory telegrams were filed at the telegraph office here. On the occasion of the silver wedding anniversary of Don Alfonso and Donna Victoria Eugenia, the number of telegrams sent was 12.

ROOM SHORTAGE WORRIES RENO

Reno, Nev., July 9.—(U.P.)—House and apartment hunting in Reno has become one of the most popular—or, rather, unpopular—diversions of the divorcees since the six-weeks divorce and wide-open gambling laws went into effect.

Housing facilities have become acute, simply because there are not enough houses or apartments to supply the demand.

Tent cities have sprung up in the outskirts, every room in every hotel is occupied. Virtually every apartment house has waiting lists.

Hotels are placing cots in corridors and "flophouses" have sprung up over night.

The Southern Pacific railroad places all available Pullmans on sidetracks near Reno on week-ends, to lodge over night tourists.

The Chamber of Commerce is making a valiant effort to remedy the situation, which will become acute during the racing season here this month.

But the problem confronting the week-enders and pleasure seekers is simple compared to that of the poor divorcees. They come here for six weeks and have to stick out, whether they like it or not.

Saved By Merry-makers
Seattle.—(U.P.)—Hilarity of the nearly resulted in the death of Ed Lee, 20, whose cries for help were drowned by the noise of merry-makers on a beach. He was dragged from the water as he was for the third time, after his car had overturned.
