Railroad Plans Publicity
For Towns On Route

Decatur, Ill., Sept. 1. —(U.P.)—Cities and places along the Wabash railroad route will be publicized in a series of short articles to be printed on the road's dining car menus, officials of the road have announced.

The series was inaugurated recently with a brief sketch telling how the railroad got its name. According to the story the name was adopted in 1877 and was derived from an Indian word "Wab" meaning white which was given the Wabash river.

Tribes living along the banks of the river were all of Algonquin stock and were called "ouabachi" by early explorers. From that name the word Wabash was finally derived.

Heat Cuts Jail Residents
Stockholm.—(U.P.)—Swedish jails now hold 1,984 inmates, as compared with 2,113 a year ago, according to E. Wijkmark, department of correction head. One of the causes of the decrease, he says, is that many prisoners have been transferred to the insane asylums for medical treatment. It has also been noted that in the summer time more people prefer to pay fines, whereas in the winter the warm jails seem more attractive.

Dives For 200-Pound Turtles
Ocracoke, N. C.—(U.P.)—Diving overboard into the green waters of the Pamlico sound for loggerhead turtles weighing 200 to 300 pounds is a pastime for Bill Paul, Langhorne, Pa., art student, and Gene Brown, University of North Carolina student. It is all very simple, the diving part, anyway. But neither has been successful in bringing a turtle to the boat yet.

NEW TEXAS OIL FIELD LARGEST POOL IN U. S.

Immense Size And Production Still Not Realized By Industry

Dallas, Tex., Sept. 2.—(U.P.)—The new East Texas oil field is so vast that six of the largest pools in the United States could be superimposed upon it.

A study of the geology and economic importance of the field reveals that its immense size, the consistent results of drilling, and its effect upon the industry have not yet been realized by the most experienced and far-sighted oil men.

A map of the field shows that the Lathrop pool is so large that the Hobbs pool of New Mexico, heretofore considered of immense proportions, could be tucked into it, with plenty of room left over for the Oklahoma City and Seminole pools.

Immense Size
The long, narrow Kettleman Hills, Cal., field would stretch its length from the lower reaches of the Joiner pool of Rusk county and extend through the Kilgore pool into southern Gregg county. There would be plenty of room left to stow away the Yates and Hendricks pools of West Texas.

Geologists have learned that this tremendous oil-producing area thousands, even millions of years ago, was a huge sea. The earth's constant mutations left it high and dry, bearing the remains of trillions of minute shellfish.

It is the bodies of these shellfish, lying at an approximate depth of 3,500 feet that have turned into oil.

Woodbine Sand
Oil comes from what geologists know as Woodbine sand, in this particular field. The fact that this sand occurs at almost the same depth in all parts of the field, has contributed in a large measure to the sensational exploitation, as drilling costs are thus considerably lower.

The thickness of the Woodbine sand varies from a few feet on the eastern side of the field to 60 or 70 feet thick about two miles west of the eastern limit of the field in the Lathrop pool.

Admits Bond Thefts

Chicago Sept. 2.—(U.P.)—Walter E. Wolf, 42 a church usher and modern neighbor, was under arrest today on charges of embezzling more than $1,500,000 from the fourth largest banking institution in America.

The astounding announcement that a minor official had been able, over a period of many years, to take money regularly from a $1,233,000,000 (Billion) bank and keep his activities secret was made by officials of the Continental Illinois bank and trust company.

Rubber Band Binds Youth
Memphis.—(U.P.)—Edward Toombs, five-year-old kindergarten student, has lost the sight of one eye because he was playing with a rubber band. The youth was "shooting" flies with the band when it slipped, snapped back and struck his eye. The force of the blow split the eyeball.

Behind the Scene
in Hollywood

By HARRISON CARROLL
HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 30.—Unconventional pictures have hit solidly with film audiences this year.

Taking courage, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has bought Upton Sinclair's book, "The Wet Parade," and will make it into a big production in the fall.

Though leaning towards propaganda, Sinclair never fails to write of provocative issues. And, apparently, this is the type of story the public will pay its money to see. Warner sensed it first, and have cashed in tremendously on "Little Caesar," "The Public Enemy" and "The Star Witness."

Other companies were sure to follow. You may look to see a marked journalistic tendency in next year's pictures.

BULLETIN.

Hot news flashes from Hollywood:
Due to continued illness, Carole Lombard is out of the cast of "The Greeks Had a Word for It." Director Lowell Sherman and Samuel Goldwyn are conferring on a successor. Carole rehearsed ten days on the picture and worked a little less than a week before the camera.

Nancy Carroll's argument with Paramount is settled. She will play the feminine lead in Ernst Lubitsch's new picture, "The Man I Killed."

"Too Censorable" is the verdict of Paramount officials on Emile Ciolek's "Nana." Instead, Marlene Dietrich will star in "Shanghai Express," a melodrama of the China coast by Harry Hervey, author of "Congai." Anna May Wong may appear in the picture.

THE WET BLANKET.
A certain Hollywood producer is dreading by scenarioists because of his chilling reaction to stories. As one writer expresses it: "You more to provide temporary jobs and alleviate suffering. Obviously the unemployment problem is a task too great for local governments."

Mayor George L. Baker of Portland, Ore.: "The voters have authorized a bond issue which will be used in improvements of a needed and permanent nature. Expenditures are being made by a committee of substantial citizens cooperating with the city council."

Mayor Angelo J. Rossi of San Francisco: "Bond issues of $2,500,000 were voted early in 1931. During the depression no one has gone hungry. Work has been provided for about 25,000."

Mayor James M. Curley, Boston: "Boston has averaged between public welfare, soldiers' relief, and institutional aid more than $20,000 a day."

Judge's Tongue Slipped
McCook, Neb.—(U.P.)—County Judge Fred Hanson made a mistake and asked Ethel L. Hayes, a bride, if she would promise to support her husband. Before the judge could correct his error and re-state the question to the bridegroom, Charles Schmidt, the bride had consented. Schmidt said he wouldn't hold his wife to that marriage vow.

"Old Ironsides" To New Orleans
New Orleans.—(U.P.)—The visit of "Old Ironsides" to the New Orleans Mardi Gras in January has been officially announced by Commodore Ernest L. Jahncke, acting secretary of the navy. Arriving Jan. 25, "Old Ironsides" will be moored at the downtown docks as a special feature of the annual celebration. The ship will remain until Feb. 11.

Honolulu Merchant Who Disappeared Found As Fishermen Make Catch

Honolulu, T. H., Sept. 2.—(U.P.)—The body of Sadao Nakatus, Honolulu merchant, was found inside the body of a huge shark today by fishermen who cut open their catch.

Convinced that Minoru Kanagawa, fellow merchant, had met the same fate, the shark fishers lay in wait off Barber's Point for more deep sea killers. The merchants had been missing since setting out in a skiff Sunday on a fishing expedition.

Navy airplanes, including one in which Lieut. W. L. Rees and another flier risked their lives when forced down in the shark-infested waters, gave up the search. Navy officers said they were convinced both merchants had been eaten by sharks.

The shark that devoured Nakatus was 18 feet long and weighed 750 pounds. It was one of two caught and cut open by fishermen today.

Identification of Nakatus' body was made through dental work.

Another plane stood by when Lieut. Rees' craft was forced to the waves 60 miles from Honolulu. A destroyer later removed the fleets and took their plane in tow.

ashore with his crew and received a welcome just as enthusiastic as that he received a year ago when he sailed his flying boat over the Curtiss-Wright-Reynolds airport, where the national air races of 1930 were then being held.

The German's second trip to Chicago was, he explained, in the nature of an expedition. He traveled almost the same route that Parker Cramer, American aviator, was following when he disappeared last month. He came by way of Greenland, Iceland and Canada. Last year his route was via New York.

Establishment of an air mail route between Europe and America around the great circle route depends, Von Gronau said, upon how much money can be spent.

"It is possible," he said. "But there is always fog and always westerly winds. Our engines take too much oil. Refueling depots would be necessary."

Von Gronau told of meeting Parker Cramer at the Faroe Islands. He was just landing from the east when Parker was taking off toward Europe. They waved at each other. Cramer was lost soon after that.

The German said he and his crew probably would not fly back to their own country because he did not think their strange flying ship could be put in condition for such a trip before winter.
