Bicentennial Influence in Coiffure and Hats

Colonial Motif Predominates in Milady's 1932 Hair-Dressing and Millinery Styles. The Renaissance of the Ringlet.

American hair dressers and hat designers have combined to pay tribute to the bicentennial year of George Washington. Their joint efforts have produced a coiffure, with millinery to match, harking back to Colonial days. It is predicted that milady's crowning glory this Spring will be a veritable crown of patriotism. Above are two examples of the new styles. Top, left, is Mabel Smith, shown with the latest coiffure, designed specially by Mrs. R. Louis, of New York, to go with the facsimile Colonial hat (shown at right). The hat exposes a large part of the coiffure. Lower, left, is another example of coiffure copied from the 1770's. A suggestion of ringlets is conveyed by this style. At right is the hat designed for that particular hair dress. It is worn saucily on the side of the head, and like the model above, it is of Colonial origin. Miss Babs Houser is the model in the lower photos.

By ALICE ALDEN
NEW YORK.—The hair and the hat is the latest merger for the millinery mode that is even now being prepared to glorify the Spring.

Remember way back when we used to slip on a hat to hide from view an unwaved or untidy head of hair? Well, those days are gone forever, too. For the milliners, working in concert with the hair-dressers, have produced hats that reveal practically one side of the head. And this is not all. The hair must be dressed a certain way if the hat is to be successful and flattering. Life, so far as the beauty end of it is concerned, is certainly getting complicated. But judging from the enthusiasm with which advances views of the new hats and coiffures have been greeted, women seem to welcome the intricacies of beauty.

American fashions created in America for American women is just about the most appropriate way of giving emphasis to this year's George Washington celebration. And to carry it still further, the Colonial influence is going to predominate for both hats and hair. Such prominent American designers as Lily Dache and Madoux have designed hats that are quite obviously a dark-back to and an inspiration of the days of Mistress Martha Washington. And Madame R. Louis, who directs one of America's greatest hair-dressing establishments, has done her share in designing coiffures that are one with the hats.

Ringlets and waves will give emphasis to the hairdressing styles of 1932. Mrs. Louis is of the opinion that long hair has gone the way of all discards and while the long bob is now popular, believes that real short hair may return. Hairdressers such as Antoine design for the American women in Paris, but hairdressers in this country say that it can be done as well if not better here. Many of the most famous head-dresses have been designed right so materially that prosperity may peep round that well-known corner to see the charming results.

by one minister. He traced the progress of the local church up to the present date, and named the ministers which have been stationed in this city.

Following the report, Rev. M. W. Sunderman, who is examiner of young men aspiring to be ministers, read an address written by one young minister, which gave further facts of the Evangelical denomination. This described the seminaries, missions, etc., of the organization.

The February section served a lunch following the program. The March section, of which Gregg McFarland is the chairman, will have charge of the meeting next month.

ORVAL HARRUFF DIES MONDAY OF HEART ATTACK

by Mayor Charles W. Yager, at which time he was also appointed superintendent of the water department, filling both positions in a capable and satisfactory manner.

Mr. Harruff was born in Berne, November 1, 1879. He was the son of Harvey and Susanne Harruff. He came to Decatur in 1895 and entered the Decatur high school and was graduated in 1900. He later attended Valparaiso University, completing a normal and civil engineering course.

He taught school in Adams county from 1900 to 1903 and was a teacher at the Riley Ward school in this city for 3 years. In 1904 he was named assistant engineer to A. W. Fishbaugh, who was in charge of the construction of the road bed for the old Fort Wayne-Decatur interurban line. In 1905 he was named deputy county surveyor by L. L. Baumgartner and served three years in that capacity. He also served as deputy under C. C. Ernst, county surveyor.

He was elected county surveyor in 1916 and served in that official position for four years, completing his term, December 31, 1920. No children were born to the union. The deceased was a faithful and accommodating public official. He was also active in civic and church affairs and was a member of the First Evangelical church. He was a member of the church choir, served on the official board and was secretary of the building committee for the present church.

He was a member of the Knights of Pythias and Masonic lodges and of the Scottish Rite Consistory of Fort Wayne.

The deceased is survived by his wife, two brothers, Bert Harruff of San Bernardino, Calif., Russell Harruff of Fort Wayne; two sisters, Mrs. Opal Marshall of Detroit and Miss Della Harruff of this city. One brother and one sister preceded him in death.

Funeral services will be held at 1:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the home and at 2 o'clock at the Evangelical church, Rev. M. W. Sunderman, officiating. The Masonic lodge will have charge. Pall outstanding controversies between the two nations in the spirit of the pact of Paris and the resolution of the league of nations of Dec. 9, without prior demand or reservation and with the aid of neutral observers or participants.

WORLD POWERS OFFER 5-PART PLAN OF PEACE

This program was submitted by the English speaking nations in an effort to use their good offices to restore peace in the Orient. Formal announcement of the move was made by the state department today after a conference among Secretary Stimson and his advisors.

"The American ambassador at Tokyo was instructed to submit this proposal to the Japanese government at Tokyo at 6 p. m. February 2, Tokyo time, and the American consul general at Nanking was instructed to submit it simultaneously to the Chinese government at Nanking at 5 p. m. February 2, Nanking time.

"The representatives of the British government in Tokyo and Nanking submitted identical proposals at the same time and it is understood that the French and Italian governments have taken the same action."

The British-American proposals, in which the French and Italians are understood to have joined, were made after 36 hours of intermittent conferences among statesmen of the four nations in Washington.

Yesterday Secretary Stimson talked with Sir Ronald Lindsay, British ambassador; Ambassador Count Alberto Marchetti, consul-general of France, and Paul Claudel of the Italian embassy.

The program is regarded as a determined effort to end the conflict which now is menacing the lives and property of 5,000 Americans in Shanghai and even more southwestern Michigan for F. H. Rust, airmail pilot missing since last night. Rust left Kalamazoo on the regular mail run for Chicago and was last heard from over Prairie Ronde, Mich. All planes were grounded in the area by inclement weather.

SIX AIRPLANES REPORTED LOST

A United Airlines mail plane, piloted by Jack Sharpack, was believed forced down somewhere between San Francisco and Reno. He was last reported, according to the Chicago offices of the Airlines, over Rio Vista, Calif., in a snow squall. Airline officials expressed the belief that he made a forced landing and was unable to report by radio.
