The three and a half billion dollars of new money to be turned loose in this country will increase the per capita of cash and ought to help considerably.

We would be more excited about the probabilities of another World war if the United States were better able to finance. Seems now as though we did the most of that part of the late World war at the finish.

Today is the dead line for securing your new automobile license for 1932. Secretary of State Mayr has been very lenient and has permitted a moratorium of two months. Now the law must be enforced.

The Commodores put up a game fight at the state tournament and while they lost their first game to Vincennes, they proved ability and deserve credit. Every one here feels proud of them.

If Ford's new car will start business as he declares, we wish he would hurry it along a little. He has been threatening to put the new car out for several months but without a definite date.

If things continue as they have and a few more are checked off the payroll the wages will probably be calling Mr. Hoover the "great fireman" instead of the great engineer.

Only eight banks in the United States closed last week which is the best showing since 1929 and encourages the leaders to believe that the worst, at least so far as the financial structure of the country is concerned, is over.

It has been decided that the state of Indiana can borrow from herself but so far no one has explained just who pays when the turn thing comes due as is sure to happen some day.

There are a lot of the old yellow license tags still on the cars and orders have been issued to the state police that today is the last when these will be permitted. If you haven't got your new license, better keep off the road until you can, to avoid trouble.

Thomas Taggart, Jr., extended an invitation to the democratic election to meet at French Lick the latter part of May. Needless to say that event, coming just prior to the state convention will be one of considerable importance as well as one of genuine pleasure.

It seems as though a half dozen different organizations to force reduction of taxes are now being formed over Indiana. They may get in each others way but there is one thing sure and that is that the people are aroused and will not let up until taxes have been reduced and numerous other changes made in state government.

Alfred R. Farrar of Geneva will continue in the congressional race and has briefly stated his views on matters of great importance. Adams county now has two candidates for this office, Senator T. A. Gottschalk having also announced a week ago. Each man has numerous friends and supporters and each will make an excellent showing in the primaries.

Al Capone has found out that he can't bluff Uncle Sam, once that old fellow gets warmed up. The Chicago beer baron was convicted last autumn and given a sentence of eleven years in prison and fined $50,000. He appealed to the United States circuit court of appeals and Saturday that tribunal declared he must serve his time and without any credit for the days he has served in the Cook county jail. So that's something on a start to clean up Chicago and enforce laws.

Senator Costigan of Colorado delivered the principal address at the closing banquet of the Indiana Democratic Editorial Association at Indianapolis, Saturday evening and it was a discussion of many matters of great importance for those who believe that the present economic conditions can only be improved by doing things and by changing certain laws to conform with the present day. The senator is one of the outstanding thinkers of the United States senate.

Modern Etiquette

Q. What is the correct way to eat strawberries?

A. If hulled, they are eaten with a spoon. If served with the hulls on, each berry is picked up by the hull with the fingers and dipped into sugar.

Q. When should the bride and her attendants arrive at the church?

A. Just at the moment the ceremony is to begin.

Q. When is the stiff, formal bow sufficient in acknowledging an introduction?

A. When a stranger is presented to several guests.

Household Glue

A glue that will stick paper or cloth to metal, wood, or glass, and leave no stain, can be made by dissolving 1 tablespoonful of ordinary gelatin in 2 to 2½ tablespoonfuls of boiling water. Boil a few minutes and then add a little sugar while still hot.

Toothache

A very effective remedy for toothache is to take a fresh cabbage leaf and roll it with the rolling pin to crush all the veins. Then hold it to the fire until it is as hot as can be borne. Tie it to the face before retiring.

Saving Butter

One can save butter by bringing 15 cupful of good milk to a boil, then setting aside to cool. When just lukewarm add ½-pound of unsalted butter and beat with eggbeater until mixture is thick and creamy. Then put in refrigerator to harden.

COUNTY AGENT'S COLUMN

High Grade Seed Essential

"Last year I had almost every shape and color in my early turnip patch, my tomatoes when they began to ripen showed pink and red tints," writes a home gardener. This again emphasizes the fact that as you sow, so shall you harvest. Good seed from an honest seedman is the first essential to a real garden. The planting of varieties suited to your soil is just as important as proper soil texture, high fertility, frequent tillage, skillful watering or thorough spraying.

Many a gardener has grown a wonderful crop of vines but found to his disgust that the fruit was of inferior quality and size. The call for purebred and true to name seed is growing louder. Gardeners should make sure that only this sort is purchased.

Good seed must meet the following essentials: (1) It must be true to name and not mixed; (2) The seed must be of best type and strain; (3) A high percentage of seed must be able to grow under favorable conditions; (4) The seed must be free from weak seeds; (5) It must be free from other foreign materials such as grit, sticks and other material not removed in cleaning. To make sure of your seed, buy only from thoroughly reliable sources, as you can't tell good seed by its looks.

How Much Seed is Needed Well, spring, anyway, is just around the corner, and the gardener who orders first usually gets better service, saves money, and has his seed when the first favorable planting day appears.

The problem of how much seed is needed to plant a given amount of row space often puzzles the most experienced gardener. To get the most accurate estimate, take account of stock on hand and from the amount of row space often puzzles the most experienced gardener. To get the most accurate estimate, take account of stock on hand and from the amount of row space often puzzles the most experienced gardener.

The following amounts of seed for the vegetables mentioned are enough to sow a 100-foot row. (This applies to new seed only; for old seed a little more will be necessary.)

Dish snap beans, one pint; Pole beans, one-half pint; Lima beans, one-half pint; beets, 2 ounces; cabbage, ½ ounce; carrots, 1 ounce; sweet corn, ¼ pint; cucumber, ½ ounce; kale, ½ ounce; peas, ½ to 1 pint; onion seed, 1 ounce; onion sets, 1 quart; parsnips, ½ ounce; peas, ½ to 1 pint; Irish potatoes, 3 quarts; sweet potatoes, 75 slips; radishes, 1 ounce; salsify, 1 ounce; spinach, 1 ounce; squash, ½ ounce; turnips, ½ ounce; for most families one packet each of lettuce, kale and parsley will provide plenty of seed.

The largest number of gardeners, unless they have hot beds or cold frames, will buy their cabbage, pepper and tomato plants rather than raise them at home. If you want to grow them at home in a sunny window box, a packet each of tomatoes and cabbage seed will furnish more than enough plants for the garden of ordinary size. It is best to order seeds from reliable firms and get standard varieties rather than try out new introductions.

REVOLT FEARED
BY FINLANDERSUltimatum Is Served On President For Formation of New Group

Helsinki, Finland, Feb. 29.—(U.P.)—An ultimatum was served today on President Pehr Evind Svinhufvud by the anticommunist Lappo organization, which has risen and threatens to seize the capital by force.

The ultimatum demanded the formation of a new government pledged to the suppression of Marxism.

The Lappo peasant movement, similar to the fascist movement in other countries, has a heavy following and claimed that thousands of its supporters were mobilizing. The government held the army ready to suppress the rebellion.

"This is war," the chief of staff of the Lappo party forces told correspondents at Maentasa, where the Lappoites claimed to have 4,000 armed men with from 20,000 to 30,000 more converging on the district.

"Within 24 hours Helsinki will be in our hands."

It was rumored that the insurgents aimed to set up a Lappo dictatorship although their immediate aim appeared to be suppression of all social democratic organizations in Finland. The Lappo party, ultra-nationalist, recently made a vigorous campaign against communists.

The district where the Lappoites were concentrated is some 100 miles north of Helsinki. The extremists were said to have gained military control over a large area after disturbances which began Saturday when Lappo sympathizers opened fire on a socialist meeting attended by men, women, and children.

The attack occurred at the Workmen's club at Maentasa. The hail of bullets broke windows and swept through the room. Screaming women and children were ordered to lie on the floor.

It was known that the Lappoites had won the sympathy of several army officers due to their ultra-nationalist policies.

The insurgents outlined their aims as total suppression of Marxism, alteration of the fundamental laws of the state, and abolition of parliamentarism.

The Lappo party is headed by a farmer, named Kosola.

LOAN RUMOR

Shanghai understood that portion of the loan, either two-fifths or three-fifths, was reportedly to be paid in materials, including munitions.

The consul-general said he could not vouch for the accuracy of the reports.

Government officials belittled newspaper reports that the government was dissatisfied with ambassador to Washington Katsujii Dehachi and that he might be replaced.

Members of the league commission headed by Lord Lifford of Great Britain were welcomed by Foreign Minister Kenkichi Yoshizawa and other government officials. The commission appeared to receive an extremely warm popular greeting.

brushing the bushes. Cautiously he picked up the piece of board on which his key was fastened. He heard the crackling of the brittle twigs. The girl and her companion stopped. She was speaking in a low tone. Christy checked the hand of the boy.

"Oh, I wish that I had listened to my father," the girl was saying.

In a low tone the man spoke:

"You don't know how I love you. I would rather die than live without you. When you are a little stronger we will go to Australia together and be happy. My G—d! I would kill any one who came be-

Swift as a bolt of lightning the flash leaped upon them and shook their hearts with terror and darkness fell as quickly as the light had risen. For those affrighted ones it was like the flying open of the doors of hell. For only a fraction of a second they were blinded by the glare of its flames. It may have revealed to one of them the fathomless deep of his own wickedness.

The girl gave a little cry as they fled. Hidden behind the broad base of the big tree Shad had not been able to see them, but he had seen the light fling itself through the tops and slender columns beyond him. He sat still. Out near the edge of the thicket he could dimly hear a sound like that of smothered sob-
