STATE DISCARDS
TRUANT COPS

Harrisburg, Pa. — (U.P.) — The "truant officer" in Pennsylvania will soon join the list of things remembered, including the old swimming hole and the little red school house.

Modern educational methods are responsible for deletion from school officials of the terror of the "hooky players" on pleasant spring and summer days, when "swimming" was more to the liking than poring over books within the four walls of a classroom.

In his place Pennsylvania schools are employing "home and school visitors," trained in teachers' colleges for the work.

The truant officer rounded up truuant boys and investigated all absences of more than three days duration. His power and effectiveness rested on the mighty right arm of the compulsory attendance law.

The "home and school visitor" investigates all absences, regardless of their number and cause, interprets the school to the home, recommends possible solutions instead of punishments, and advises as to the welfare of the habitually truuant according to the State Department of Education.

Training courses for those seeking such positions will be established in summer schools throughout the state.

Albany, Ore. — (U.P.) — Hoarded money is losing here. A Linn county dog owner placed 229 pennies at the county clerk's pleasure to pay the animal's 1932 tax.

"Glass Home"
A house at Rio Vista, Nev., is built entirely of beer bottles. The structure is 20 feet long and 10 feet wide and has two rooms. Ten thousand beer bottles went into its construction.

Though he had just violated Speaker John N. Garner's taboo on politics, William Gibbs McAdoo (left), former Secretary of the Treasury, seems highly pleased at being the bearer of good news to the popular Texan. McAdoo told the Speaker that sentiment was strong for him in the West and, despite the fact that he has steadfastly refused to declare himself a Presidential candidate, California will send 44 Garner delegates to the Democratic convention at Chicago. McAdoo just completed an extensive tour of the western States, flying in his private plane.

Ducks Flock to Montana For Spring Season

Polson, Mont. — (U.P.) — Sportsmen in this section of Montana are bemoaning the fact that the open season on ducks is in the Fall of the year instead of Spring.

The ponds and lakes are black with mallards, teal and other varieties of the game birds.

More than 10,000 mallards were recently seen feeding in a field south of Roman and an unusual number of ducks are on the open water of Polson Bay on Flathead Lake.

Pheasants and prairie chickens are much more plentiful than usual.

Start Sweet Peas Early for Sure Bloom

PLANT SWEET PEAS IN A TRENCH 6 IN. DEEP AND 2 IN. APART

AS THE VINE GROWS UPWARD FILL IN THE TRENCH

TRAINED ON A POST OR STAKE AS DIAGRAMED, SWEET PEAS FURNISH AN ACCENT IN THE GARDEN.

STRINGS—3" APART ON HOOP

Get an Early Start with Sweet Peas

Dry seasons such as have been experienced for two years previous to 1931 were grievous discouragements to growers of sweet peas. There is no reason to believe drought years will continue and therefore no reason to believe that as good sweet peas as ever were grown cannot be grown this year. The sweet pea must have cool, moist soil for its roots and fairly cool weather for the development of vine and blossom. It is not a plant for hot weather months and it does not survive drought and dry atmosphere even with copious soaking of the roots any too well. Early flowering Spencer varieties should be planted in the states which have late spring.

Being a cool weather plant, there is only one way to grow the sweet pea. That is in the cool time of the year—spring, to bring the climax of bloom in early summer before hot weather seriously sets in. Each vine needs room to develop and two inches apart is the minimum. If each vine is given ample root and top room it will produce double, even quadruple the amount of bloom of the crowded vine and of finer quality.

Sweet peas can be transplanted readily. The safest method is to start them in pots, boxes or frames and move them as early as possible to permanent quarters. Paper seed-boxes arranged so that each plant may be moved with a minimum of root disturbance are excellent for the purpose as are also paper pots.

The soil for sweet peas should be deeply dug and well enriched and should also be well drained. The plants should be set in depressions, say about six inches deep, that may be filled in as the vine mounts upward so that the roots may have a cool growing medium as the temperature increases with the season.

Give the vines support as soon as first tendrils are formed. Sweet peas are usually grown for cutting. There is no finer material. They are also of the greatest value for garden decoration. A fine method is to grow them as pillars in the garden, in arches three to five feet in diameter and to a single color. As soon as their blooming period is over the vines can be pulled up. Shirley poppy seed can be scattered over the space vacated by the sweet peas and in a few weeks another display of bloom will result.

The sweet pea has been developed into a remarkable series of colors and types. In ordering seed, select those varieties catalogued for garden use. Do not try to grow greenhouse types in the garden.

COURT HOUSE

The will of the late Henry Michael of Berne, was probated this morning, a son, Albert Michael, being named executor in the place of H. S. Michael, deceased, named in the will. The estate is given to the widow during her life.

Judge Erwin today set a number of criminal cases for trial. They are: State vs. Albert and Ocie Christmas, assault and battery, May 17; State vs. Bernard Hain, larceny, May 16; State vs. William Workinger, failure to obtain poultry license, May 16; State vs. Frank Hower, May 16.

Claims against the John C. Cowan estate were filed by Wilma Schneek and Dale Cowan.

A divorce suit entitled Mina Current vs. Phillip Current was filed here this morning on charge of venue from Allen county. Hartzell & Todd are attorneys for the plaintiff.

The case of the State of Indiana vs. Clarence Ruggles, entering a store unlawfully, set for trial April 11th.

Spring Romance Touches

Soul of Indian Elephant

SAN FRANCISCO — (U.P.) — With spring's soft breezes and bright sunshine, romance has come to Margie, and in a big way.

She heaves ponderous sighs. She stands for hours, just dreaming, a far away look in her eyes. She neglects her meals.

But, nothing can be done about

New Kidnap Clue?

Returned to the United States from a Montreal prison on the request of Secretary of State Stimson, Harry Mack (above), of Hartford, Conn., alleged bail-jumper, is the latest suspect to be held in connection with the Lindbergh kidnaping case. According to police, Mack claims to know where the baby is hidden. U. S. agents from the Department of Justice will question him.

For Margie is a full-blooded Indian elephant, and unless she decides to take one of the several African elephants at Fleishacker Zoo for a husband, she is doomed to spinsterhood, zoo attendants said.

Pilot Chased in River

By "Mad" Motor
CHICO, Cal. — (U.P.) — E. W. knows what it means to own "mad" motorboat.

Cruising up the Sacramento River the speedboat swerved, threw him into the water. He came to the surface he had dove to escape being hit by pilotless boat. Twice more came up and each time he had to escape the boat.

The third time proved a disaster, however, and the boat went ing down the river only to be itself a few minutes later.

Then Spend Your Money With CONFIDENCE

For some one, every day, the biggest news is not on the front page. It's not even in the news columns.

There may be an earthquake in Italy or a revolution in Central America. There may be a hot election campaign or a million-dollar fire or a metropolitan crime wave. But for Jim Jones, who has decided to buy a new sedan, and for Mrs. Thompson, who needs some school-dresses for little Mary Lou, the big news of the day is in the advertisements.

Even the doings of Congress and the big-league baseball results pale into insignificance beside the news of something you really want.

The advertising columns bring you, each day, sound information about quality, style and price. They announce new products and new developments that save time, trouble or expense for millions of people. They point out healthful habits of eating, sleeping, exercising.

Consistently advertised goods are safe goods to buy. Behind them stand the manufacturer and the merchant, guaranteeing their uniform quality. Read the advertisements before you buy.
