"The Gates of Hell," or, as it is more usually called, "The Gates of Hell," is a work by the eminent French sculptor Rodin, on which he originally intended to place his famous statue. The Thinker. We understand that this monument has now been set up in Paris, contrary to the sculptor's original idea in Washington Star

Broke Two-Century Tradition

During an ancient custom, certain subjects of the King of England have an annual stipend, called "Maundy Money," from the monarch. This year, however, King George and Queen Mary presented money in person, for the first time in 200 years. The rulers are seen above as they arrived at Westminster Abbey for the ceremony.

"East" and "West"

"Never the twain shall meet" is a phrase borrowed from the poem "The Ballad of East and West," by Rudyard Kipling. The full significance of the expression can be gained only by reading the entire poem. Isolated from the text the lines are interpreted as meaning "that people of the eastern civilization, such as the Chinese and the Japanese, and those of the western civilization, such as the English and the American, cannot affiliate upon a truly friendly basis."

Arlington Cemetery Mansion
The mansion in Arlington cemetery has been restored to the condition in which it was when a private residence. A great deal of the original furniture could not be secured, since it had come from Mount Vernon and had been returned, but period furniture has been used. It is a handsome example of a plantation home before the Civil war.

Holy Land Trees
Dr. Henry Van Dyke, in his book called "Out of Doors in the Holy Land," speaks of the olive, orange, cypress and eucalyptus trees. Doctor Van Dyke, in his chapter called "Going Up to Jerusalem," says: "There were few trees except now and then an olive orchard, or a round-topped carob, with its withered pods."

Scientific Fruit Treatment

The way in which science can deal with fruit is astonishing. It can change the flavor, shape, color and size; it can improve its keeping qualities; it can produce earlier or later ripening. Take apples, for instance. Scientific treatment has now given us a ripening season for English apples which extends from June when the earliest are ready until the following March when the latest come to perfection. Before long we may have home-grown apples at their best the whole year round.—Exchange

Sanskrit Long Used

Cuneiform inscriptions of western Asia indicate that Sanskrit has been the main language of Hindu literature, religion and culture for upwards of 3,500 years. It has been changed slightly in this time, but remains substantially the same now as in the first records we have of it. The language of the Vedic hymns differs from current Sanskrit about as Homeric Greek differs from Attic Greek.

Sand Glasses for Speakers

To keep down the length of speeches the mayor of Belfast, Ireland installed two old-fashioned sand glasses, enclosed in wooden cases, on his desk. The glasses were connected with an electric device which flashed a blue light when the time limit was approaching, and a red light when the time was up.

Banyan's Peculiarity

The branches of the banyan tree grow, roots downward, which, when they have become rooted, become props, and in this manner the tree spreads over a great surface and endures for many ages.
