on maintenance of streets under provisions of a bill passed by the senate, 45 to 0. It re-defined purposes for which the money may be expended.

Road bond interest under the three-mile gravel road law was cut from 2 per cent to 1 per cent of the total assessed valuation of the county, under another bill passed by the senate and sent to the house. It was sponsored by Will Brown, Rep., Hebron.

Eased payments for delinquent taxes was provided in another bill passed unanimously by the senate. It would make taxes due in two instalments with the delinquency penalty 5 per cent instead of 10 per cent.

A measure introduced by Earl Crawford, Dem., Milton, which called for abolishment of county and township assessors, as an economy measure, was voted down by the house, 44 to 42.

The house passed the measure of Marmaduke Stoops, Dem., Petersburg, which repeals the 1929 act requiring counties to construct roads to cemeteries on petition of 500 or more voters.

By a unanimous vote the house passed the bill of E. S. Priddy, Dem., Warren, which amends the 1931 law requiring county commissioners to invite at least three contractors to submit bids on county bridges costing under $500.

The house also engrossed the bill of G. M. Bates, Dem., Indianapolis, which requires that the state tax board assess the property of utilities at an amount not less than the value established by the Indiana Public Service Commission for rate-making purposes.

"Earhart Hop" Rythmic Tribute to Lady Lindy

Dancers Go Air-Minded as Terpsichorean Allegory of Famous Ocean Flight Threatens to Zoom to Nation-wide Popularity

If you decide to learn the latest dance and join the merry throng that is doing the "Earhart Hop," the chances are that when you become competent in the movements of the dance you'll be able to go right out and stunt in an airplane. For the new ballroom craze, created as a rhythmic tribute to Amelia Earhart's trans-Atlantic achievement, teaches all the tricks of aviation from the take-off to the happy landing. "Contact" is the position taken by the dancers at the beginning of the "Earhart Hop." From there you go into the "Take-off" and thence into a nice climb for altitude. Then, when you're up in the blue, with arms and legs doing duty for wings and propeller, you go through all the convolutions of an airplane—left banks, barrel rolls, wing dips, zooms and spirals, until the music reaches the grand finale and you zoom down in a power dive to a perfect three-point landing. Above are some of the positions in the dance. Try it over, for if you are a dancer you won't be in style if you can't do what debbies and dowagers, collegians and grandpas, gigolos and sugar daddies are doing—the "Earhart Hop."

enforcement measures to replace the Wright "bone dry" law, was still on second reading in the house today.

House wets, fearing that passage of the bill would be endangered if substitute enforcement measures were not provided, decided to include them in the repeal measure itself. It previously had been planned to introduce other bills to set up an enforcement system.

If the bill is passed, it will create an enforcement system which was superseded when the Wright law went into effect.

The bill provides for a tax of 50 cents a pint on medicinal whiskey. Penalties of $1,000 fine and imprisonment of from two to 14 years are provided.

When the Wright law was enacted, it nullified all existing enforcement measures. These measures, wets say, would again be come effective with only slight alterations if the wets repeal bill is passed.

Joe Wintergerg and his grandson Kenneth Hirschy of Berne visited in this city today.

Are you a well - informed person?

Every day this newspaper is filled with news. And our experience is that the news which interests you most is the news which affects you most. When one of your friends has participated in a minor accident, you are more interested in that than in a major accident in another city.

Advertising, too, is news of the first importance. It affects you. It is intimate, local news addressed to you. It deals with your comforts, your pleasure and your business. It saves you time by telling you where the merchandise is. It saves you money by announcing fair prices. It is the guide to efficient spending. When you fail to read the advertisements, you do not keep up with news that is most important to you. You miss many opportunities.

The best-informed people are those who read the advertisements regularly. In fact, in this modern age, when each day brings forth new things which directly affect you, you cannot ignore the advertisements in your
