New German Railroad Bed Berlin.—(U.P.)—Germany soon can boast of the finest railroad bed in the world when the track from here to Wansee, the lake bathing town west of the city, is relaid in the fall, according to the Reich railway administration. The new track is being laid over about 15 kilometers in connection with modernization of the stretch.

Love Letter Worth $340

Paris.—(U.P.)—A valuable collection of the correspondence of Madame de Maintenon, mistress of Louis XIV, including some of her own personal letters written to the Marquise de Dangeau, has been sold to the Bibliotheque Nationale for $340. A single letter written by the Empress Josephine of Napoleon was sold for $144, and several autograph letters of the Marquise de Montespan for $134.

Loud Speaker in Pillow Berlin.—(U.P.)—A pillow containing a radio loud speaker has been perfected by a Berlin firm. Perhaps "soft speaker" would better describe the device, for it is intended for hospitals, or for listening in without disturbance to others in the room. It looks like an ordinary sofa-pillow and can be tuned especially low.

Coach to Name Captains Philadelphia.—(U.P.)—The election of sport captains has been abolished by the Temple University Council on Athletics. Hereafter, the coach of each team will appoint a captain for each contest.

LIBBY EVADES REPORTERS IN EARLY MORNING GET-AWAY

She was a sepulchral, almost fearful figure garbed entirely in black.

The crowd came with Libby and fought to enter the courtroom. Judge A. M. Stack was ready to hear her.

The accused Broadway singer sat low in her chair at the counsel table. Many in the courtroom never gained a glimpse of her. She rubbed her forehead through her veil nervously as her attorney extolled her as a brilliant woman, in love with her husband, and now both a widow and an expectant mother.

She bowed to the judge and accepted his proffered hand when led to the bench to sign her bond of $25,000. The judge, in what impressed all as a sincere act of southern chivalry, gave her his seat and stood while she signed the papers. Then Libby bowed again to the judge and moved out of the courtroom to a heavily curtained car which roared away to Reidsville with her. At Reidsville she soon was in seclusion in her hotel. A nurse and a maid were with her and her father. In the evening he returned to Winston-Salem saying he would take the first possible train today back to the Holman home in Cincinnati. There was general belief that Libby would join him on that train at some way station and she too, would go to Cincinnati, probably to the waiting comfort of her sister, Mrs. Myron Kahn.

The day had been a memorable one for Wentworth—a village consisting of a store, a deserted blacksmith shop, a postoffice, the county jail, the courthouse and maybe fifteen houses. Fully three hundred automobiles brought crowds there to see Miss Holman face the court. An hour after Libby had gone, however, Wentworth had returned to its usual quiet state and a negro boy was leading his cow up to the watering trough in front of the court house, as quietly as though nothing had happened.

The loss colorful aspects of the day's proceedings were of much importance. The action of the prosecuting officials in announcing

Libby's Father at Winston-Salem

Alfred C. Holman, father of Libby Holman Reynolds, is shown (left) as he arrived at Winston-Salem, N. C., from his home in Cincinnati to act as counsel for his accused daughter. Holman demanded that Mrs. Reynolds be permitted her freedom on bail while waiting trial for the alleged murder of her tobacco heir husband.

NOW SHOWING—"EXCELLENT PATIENTS"

they had no evidence of first degree murder meant that unless something new unrevealed is developed, Libby will not go on trial for her life. Imprisonment for life will be the heaviest penalty the law can exact on any lesser charge.

The date for the trial remained uncertain. Normally the case would come before a term of court here opening October 3. It seemed probable, however, that a special term might be called for early September at which Libby and Ab Walker would be tried.

Walker's attorney attended yesterday's court proceedings at Wentworth, but took no part therein. Walker remained in Winston-Salem, visiting his usual haunts.

The surrender to arrest and release on bond of Miss Holman largely concluded the proceedings in the case until it is called for trial.

In South American Crisis

President Dr. Daniel Salamanca (left) of Bolivia and President Jose P. Guggiari of Paraguay are important figures in the dispute that may result in war between the two South American neighbors. President Guggiari has protested to the League of Nations over alleged attacks by Bolivian troops on Paraguayan forts in the disputed Chaco territory. Meanwhile both countries are mobilizing.

Case Course Takes Two Years Plymouth, Mass.—(U.P.)—Speaking of the law's delay, it takes the average civil case entered on the docket of Plymouth County Superior Court two years and three months to reach trial, according to statistics compiled by Clerk Geo. C. P. Olsson.

More Land Acquired Albany, N. Y.—(U.P.)—More land has been acquired for reforestation purposes so far this year than at any time in the past, according to the Conservation Department announced today. A total of 50,252.03 acres has been placed under contract. Such purchases were authorized through a constitutional amendment approved by the voters last year.

Killed Two Birds Whitehall, N. Y.—(U.P.)—Harold O'Brien actually killed two birds with one stone. When two large owls tried to run off with a puppy dog, Harold hurled a stone at them. The missile struck one on the head, caromed off and struck the other on the breast. Both were killed.

Diet Pleased Silkworms Astoria, Ore.—(U.P.)—Silkworms seem to be right at home in Far West. A number of pure white silk were raised from eggs to the Chamber of Commerce from Bulgaria. The worms fed on a dandelion diet.
