YANKEES SET NEW RECORD

Opponents Have Not Shut Out Yanks in 129 Games This Season

New York, Aug. 30.—(UP)—The New York Yankees, rolling merrily along toward the American League pennant, have set a new modern record by playing 129 games without being shut out once.

The second game of yesterday's double header with the Chicago White Sox rounded out 129 encounters this year, including the protested game with Detroit.

This record surpassed the efforts of the Great 1927 Yankee team under the late Miller Huggins, which was shut out in its 129th game. The 1927 team had held the mark for the greatest number of games without being blanked in modern baseball.

The 1927 Yankee team and the 1901 Pittsburgh National League team hold the modern records for the least number of shutouts in a complete season with one each. The 1894 National League teams of Boston and Philadelphia hold the all time season records of no shutouts, but only 132 games were on their schedule as compared with the present 154.

In addition to establishing the new mark yesterday the Yanks increased their league lead to 11½ games over the runner-up Athletics. Lefty Gomez registered his 22nd victory of the season, against six defeats, as the Yanks downed Chicago, 10 to 3, in the first game. Charley Ruffing obtained his 16th victory in the nightcap, which the Yanks took 4 to 3.

The Athletics split a double-header with Detroit. The A's won the opener 8 to 3, after a six-run rally in the eighth inning, but the Tigers took the night cap, 10 to 7, when they tallied three runs in the ninth.

Washington nosed out the Browns 7 to 6, when in the 13th inning, west and Kerr singled and Maple drove in West with a long fly.

Five hits and 12 bases on balls gave the Indians a 6 to 3 victory over Boston.

Only one game scheduled in the National League, Boston at Pittsburgh, but it was postponed because of wet grounds.

Yesterday's Hero: Catcher Maple of Washington, who broke up a ball game in the 13th inning by driving in the winning run with a long fly.

FIRST SERIES GAMES IN N. Y.

Annual World Series Expected to Open About September 27 or 28

New York, Aug. 30.—(UP)—If the New York Yankees and Chicago Cubs meet in the 1932 World Series the first two games will be played in Yankee Stadium, New York, beginning about Sept. 28.

The next three games will be played at Chicago, and if additional contests are necessary to determine the winner of four out of seven possible games, they will be in New York.

Last year the series between the Cardinals and Athletics opened at St. Louis, so the opening reverts to the American League this year. The Major League season closes in September and it is the custom to open the world series two or three days afterward.

Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis will call a meeting of officials of clubs having a mathematical possibility of winning the National and American League pennants on Sept. 10 or 11. Complete plans for the series will be made at that meeting.

Battling for the Walker Cup

By HARDIN BURNLEY

MORE and more the impression seems to be that Great Britain's Walker Cup team will carry off the trophy when the last putt is cupped in the international matches which get under way tomorrow at Brookline, Mass. While the American team is graced with the veterans Francis Ouimet and George Voigt, and several brilliant youngsters, it is the opinion of many golfing authorities that the team is the weakest on record.

England has made several changes in the lineup since the announcement of the selections last April. That topsy-turvy British men's championship at Muirfield recently accounted for the shake-up of personnel. All of the Walker Cup regulars failed dismally in the British amateur tourney and the selection committee was quick to amend the original line-up to include John DeForest, the new amateur champion. DeForest displaced Leonard Crawley.

Tony Torrance, captain of the British squad, is quite optimistic of Britain's chances. The team is composed, he says, of the best amateur golfers in Great Britain. He is particularly keen on the youngster DeForest, who but a few years back was considered just an ordinary player.

DeForest, son of one of England's richest peers, is a true example of what practice can do for one's golf. Within two years he has been runner-up and winner in the British Amateur classic. Last year at Westward Ho he reached the finals only to lose out to Eric

Smith. This year, however, he bowed through the eighteen-hole matches to the final and the title. DeForest has done much playing in America these past two winters, polishing up his game through frequent play with top-notch professionals.

Eric McRuvio is another star of the British squad. He was the only one of the regulars who made any kind of a showing in the British amateur. He, with DeForest, is considered one of the biggest threats to American Walker Cup supremacy.

Captain Ouimet and his teammates face a tough task, but they are confident of the outcome. They feel that the team, combining as it does, youth and experience, will come through to victory.

COURT DECISION FAVORS WALKER

explain away.
That the governor exceeded his power in holding the mayor, now serving the latter part of his second term, accountable for the official acts of omissions of his first term.

That charges relating to "personal affairs," not within the scope, or affecting official action, unless such acts amount to moral turpitude, are precluded as grounds for removal.

John J. Curtin, Walker's attorney, hailed these interpretations as a great victory for the accused official, but as a "greater victory for law and order and respect for the constitution."

In line with Justice Sta'ey's criticism, Walker contends that six of Samuel Seabury's 15 charges should be thrown out entirely and four in part.

While the court's ruling admitted the governor's right to refuse to submit to its jurisdiction, Justice Sta'ey cited, in his opinion, this definition of a fair trial:

"The requirement * * * and provisions of section 34 of the public officers' law do not countenance, in my judgment, the wholesale receipt and use of testimony taken by an investigating committee, where the accused officer has not been represented by counsel or afforded the opportunity of cross-examination."

"The essentials for an adequate and fair hearing, conducted by administrative officers as well as courts, has generally been held to afford the accused the right to be

Good Riddance

"Burial" of the traditionally worn caldour, or cloak, and veil, was performed by 200 women at Teheran, Persia. A grave was dug and the cloaks were placed in it, under the epitaph: "Here lies the cloak, the emblem of women's servitude. God's curse be upon it."

Valuable Rock

Mount Kineo, 900 feet high and putting into Moosehead lake in Maine, is said to be the biggest single mass of hornblende in the world. Hornblende is rock containing considerable iron and occurs in distinct crystals and in columnar, fibrous and granular form. It once was used by Indians for arrowheads.

Years Not Important

Eskimos do not take any interest in their own ages or the ages of their children as measured in years, and it is seldom possible to know how old a person is unless his birth can be checked up in comparison with some known visit of an explorer, whaling vessel or some event.

"Figurehead" or Ornament

If the image on the front of a ship is a figure projecting from the stern of the vessel, it is called a "figurehead." If it is an ornament in the form of an embossed shield that does not project in any way, it is called a "bow ornament."

VALLEE'S WIFE SEEKS DIVORCE

Romance of Crooner And "One Girl In the World" Comes to An End

New York, Aug. 30.—(UP)—Rudy Vallee's "one girl in the world" will start for California on Friday with a one-way ticket permitting a possible stop-over in Reno.

The former Fay Webb, who became the crooning star's bride a year ago, is "contemplating a divorce," according to the glib announcement of the Vallee attorney, Herman Bushel.

"Mr. and Mrs. Vallee have had marital differences," Bushel said. Accompanying Rudy's erstwhile "home girl," will be her father, Clarence Webb, Santa Monica police chief, who has been living with his daughter in the Vallee penthouse here.

Rudy, who is on a stage tour "somewhere in New England," may not even see his wife off on her trip back to where he met her while making a movie.

Vallee, a Rumford Falls, Me., boy, began his second marital adventure in July, 1931. His first marriage to Mrs. Leonie Cauchols McCoy, ended after three weeks. The second was not going to last.

"Our romance will last as long as ever—and even longer," he declared.

So the hearts of a million women were "broken" when they embraced the slender and full Fay Webb, an actress. "Although she has a type of beauty," the Yale man "she is just a plain home girl will stay at home and cook and sew for me."

At that time, the plain home was wearing a simple little carat diamond on her hand, an ostentatious platinum and bracelet around one shapely arm. "A little kiss each morning for just a week. Then I announced that in order to keep theatrical engagements he and bride would have to live apart."

In response to rumors of estrangement at that time, he said, "my love for my wife grown stronger every day."

However, she will be California-bound on Friday.
