in this case under which there is little base, also are developing breaks. Roads failing most have been in the state system but a short time and have received little development, he said.

Many of these roads, according to Hinkle, never had sufficient base to withstand the heavier loads even in dry weather, so under present conditions naturally are inadequate.

Maintenance forces, at his direction, are making repairs as rapidly as possible. In the meantime, due to excessive lightening loads routed over these roads last fall and early winter, the maximum weight of load and vehicle or unpaved roads during mid-winter, according to A. H. Hinkle, maintenance superintendent of the state, it is advisable to make the weight even lighter, officials say.

The worst failures are on ungravelled and stone roads and thaw came so early this winter, many oil mat roads—aed this season. After each thaw, the type of maintenance—but between now and spring he anticipates

London Gift Shoppe Was Stage for Romance of Baruch Scion

Marriage of American Prince Charming to Salesgirl Climaxed Fight to Restore Her Illusions, Shattered by Contact with Grasping Brides to Be.

Mr. and Mrs. BERNARD BARUCH, JR.
Bernard M. Baruch, son of one of President-elect Roosevelt's financial advisers who is mentioned as a likely possibility for next Secretary of the Treasury, did not find his bride in a "five-and-ten-cent-store" like the happy man in the song, but he did find her in a gift shoppe where her illusions about romance and marriage had become sadly in need of repair. The lady who is Mrs. Bernard M. Baruch, Jr., today was then Miss Winifred Mann, 28 and beautiful. Her daily stint at the London department store where she was employed before romance dawed included the keeping of a "Book of Brides," wherein London ladies who expected to trip to the altar in the near future recorded the list of presents they desired from their friends. It was due to her dealings with these brides-to-be that the young salesgirl developed an attitude of cynicism towards romance and marriage, for she discovered that a large percentage of the future brides worried more about the gifts they hoped to receive than they did about the husband they were getting. But Winifred forgot all about her disillusionment when young Baruch came along. The American Prince Charming restored a few of her shattered ideals and finally persuaded her to say "yes." However, Winifred changed her mind and young Baruch returned to America to continue his bombardment of her heart by cable and trans-Atlantic phone, with the result that they were married in Geneva, Switzerland, last September. The newly-weds are now honeymooning "somewhere in these United States" with the blessing of both their parents.

word eulogy to the legislators. The house adjourned as soon as the President's message was read. The senate earlier had cut short a tumultuous debate.

The proclamation, which will be engrossed and bordered in black, ordered a month of mourning. It sketched briefly Mr. Coolidge's meteoric rise. It told of the affection he held in the minds of the American people. In a four-line character sketch of Mr. Coolidge it said:

"His name had become in his own lifetime a synonym for sagacity and wisdom, and his temperateness in speech and his orderly deliberation in action bespoke the profound sense of responsibility which guided his conduct of the public business."

President Hoover had attended the funerals of Presidents Taft, Wilson and Harding, but to none of them had he been as close as to Mr. Coolidge, in whose cabinet he had served.
