THE DEATH OF DR. BOYERS:

Regret over Dr. James S. Boyers leaving Decatur four years ago was turned to sorrow yesterday when news of his sudden death reached friends here.

Somehow we always felt that when the venerable doctor left for the west we were bidding him good-bye and regretted to think that he was going to spend the autumn of his life away from those who loved him as a friend, admired him as a physician, respected him as a splendid citizen and an excellent gentleman. But, filled with parental love, he thought it his duty to be with his children.

No one would wish to deprive him of a needed rest and the pleasures he no doubt received from the few years' association with his children and grandchildren.

Last July, without previous inkling of his coming, Dr. Boyers again appeared on the streets in Decatur and for a few weeks enjoyed meeting old friends and mingling with the people, whom for 50 years he served as family physician, knew of their heartaches and joys. His visit must have been made in answer to the pangs attendant with home sickness for his old home town and old friends. We don't know if it was a premonition, but anyway he got back home to say "Hello" before the final good-bye.

Dr. Boyers practiced medicine in this city for more than 50 years. Although in point of service, he would be classed with the pioneer doctors of this community and state, he kept fully abreast of the advancements in the medical profession and nearly every year attended some medical college or took post graduate work at one of the leading universities. He was known for his exactness and respected likewise. To him a doctor could not be too demanding in cleanliness and attention to his patients.

In civic life Dr. Boyers took a keen interest and could always be depended upon to lend his fine talents and energy to movements meaning for the welfare of the community.

His reputation as a learned and capable practitioner was not confined alone to the community that benefited from his half century of service. In 1911 he was named by the late Governor

Thomas R. Marshall to the Indiana State Board of Health and served for eight years, being reappointed by the two governors that succeeded Governor Marshall. He was elected president of the state board and beneficial policies relating to the public health were inaugurated and put into practice during his incumbency.

Few realized that he was past 80 years of age. He carried his years without sign of strain, was always well groomed and looked a picture of health. He remained young in spirit and body, viewed conditions optimistically and lived a fine life.

Although he enjoyed more than the allotted span of life, sorrow over his death is not lessened. We regret that he could not be with us always.

Lawrence Archbold has been re-appointed County Agricultural Agent. The appointment meets general approval for he has given four years of splendid service and has carried out a program of much interest and benefit to the members of the 4-H clubs, promoted the colt clubs and other activities as outlined by the Agricultural Extension Department. Half of his salary, which will be the same as paid formerly is received from the state and the charge to the county is nominal.

Boys, you can't get away with it. No use trying to violate the law and seeking an easy means to obtain money. Theft and breaking of the law does not pay and when you are brought before the court it's too late. You'll have to take your medicine and the punishment or suffering is worse than any of the momentary rewards you might obtain through a period of crime.

President Roosevelt was given a great ovation at the legion convention in Chicago yesterday. He addressed the legionnaires and explained to them the need for the government's economy program. As commander-in-chief of the army, and leader in the great war today for national recovery, the boys of '17 and '18 who donned the uniform will again rally behind the chief and see the thing through.

Getting your share of business? Have you tried a consistent advertising campaign? Now is the time to snap into it. Recovery will not come until buying picks up and the man in business can help by creating the desire to buy through intelligent newspaper advertising. Try it in your home trading territory in your local newspaper.

The lifting of beets will begin this week and the annual sugar making campaign will get underway at the big mill. A few hundred men will be given employment and conditions in Decatur continue to improve. It's time to feel happy and celebrate.

Welcome to the bankers, which does not mean that we have anything up our sleeve except extending sincere wishes for your happiness and enjoyment while in Decatur and hope you'll want to return again.

Color, military formation, martial music, everything to thrill you as the big American Legion parade proceeded up Michigan Boulevard this afternoon. Surely a great show.

All eyes on Chicago today. The baseball magnets picked the wrong day for opening of the world series.

The big battle is on. Giants vs. the Senators and some will even contend that the best team does not win.

Finger Marks

The piano and other polished furniture will collect finger marks, particularly when children are around; but they can be removed easily by rubbing with a soft cloth dipped in alcohol. Follow this by polishing with a soft chamois.

The Bread Box

Wash and air the bread box once a week to insure its sweetness. The accumulation of the tiniest bread crumbs will cause an unpleasant odor, and mold on the larger pieces of bread.

Steaks and Chops

The habit of sticking a fork into the steak or chops while frying or grilling lets out the juice. Don't do it.
