GIANTS HOLD LONG LEAD IN WORLD SERIES

Hal Schumacher, Second Game Victor, Is Expected To Hurl Today

Washington Oct. 7.—(UP)—The New York Giants and the Washington Senators met in the fifth and perhaps the last game of the world series today. The way seemed cleared for the Giants to coast into their first world championship in 11 years.

Victorious for a second time behind the blistering screwball slants of Carl Hubbell, the Giants have won three games while the Senators were taking one, and can scarcely miss returning to the throne they occupied last in 1922 when the white haired John McGraw was at the peak of his glory. The Giants only need to win today's game and it will be all over.

Washington, to become champions, must win the next three games.

That feat was accomplished by Pittsburgh in the 1925 series, and the Senators were the ones to suffer the humiliation.

"We're right smack dab up against the wall," Joe Cronin, boy manager of the Senators, said. "But don't count us out yet. A lot of surprising things happen in baseball this year, and there's time for some more of them. We aren't hitting as we should; and the breaks won't go against us forever."

While Cronin would make no definite announcement he dropped a hint that he would make his big gamble today on "General" Alvin Chowder, dean of the Senators right handers. Some baseball men, however, believe it will be Walter Stewart, who lost the decision to Hubbell in the series inaugural. Another unofficial nomination was Allen McColl, 35-year-old "Rookie."

The Giants will work behind young Hal Schumacher, best right handed pitcher of the New York Staff, who won the second game.

"I figure Kal's ready to go in there again," manager Terry said. "We'll soon find out, anyway. We just can't miss now. You can figure on having a free Sunday because the series will be all over when we roll back to New York tonight."

No matter what happens today, tomorrow or the next day, the series has produced its goat. The goat isn't even a player. He's umpire Charles B. Moran, who worked at first base yesterday.

Hubbell, easy going smokeball star, made himself the series hero. Two world series pitching victories isn't a record, but it's quite an accomplishment.

Film Stars Oppose NRA Code

Here are a few of the prominent Hollywood stars who have registered a protest against the NRA code proposed by the producers for the motion picture industry. Three notable male rebels are Boris Karloff, better known to film fans as "Frankenstein"; Frederic March, one of the screen's great lovers, and George Raft, who portrays the polished gangster.

WIVES HEAD GUEST LIST

San Francisco.—(UP)—The San Francisco man who operates a hotel exclusively for women finds the great number of his guests register after a fight with their husbands.

"In the evening when a woman comes in with red eyes and wants to engage a room for the night, I always know she has just had a spat with her hubby," said the hotel proprietor, Arthur Wristen.

"If the husband doesn't come around the next day before noon to apologize, she either calls him up, or goes down town to see a lawyer. Such occasions tax what little diplomatic training I have to the utmost."

Wristen said his wife was inclined to be "a bit jealous" when he started the hotel which features a community kitchen where guests may prepare their own meals.

"But when she realized that there were 63 women living here, each with her own pet troubles, that I never could hope to solve alone, her problem turned into a comical situation," he said.

Widows and "old maids" run a close second to disgruntled wives as guests. Then come single working girls, out-of-town shoppers and school teachers on vacation.

INDIANS AID REFORESTRATION

Washington.—(UP)—For many moons the Indian has watched with awe the white men cut down the forest as he advanced across the continent; watched the streams dry up and the floods come; and watched the game disappear.

Now the Great White Father has ordered this all changed; the forests are being put back, and the Indians have a part in the great work.

The Red Man has learned this is part of a program under the Blue Eagle. He smiles at this because long before the advent of President Roosevelt and the Blue Eagle the Indian had this Thunder Bird, as it is called by him.

The Indian Conservation corps camps are unique in that they are the only camps where the whole family goes along. The married Indians have taken their families with them to the spots selected by
