Gardens Defied Weather Alliance, O.—(U.P.)—Despite adverse weather conditions, the Alliance poor relief gardens yielded 25,000 ears of corn, 1,000 bushels of potatoes, and 30,000 heads of cabbage this year.

Ogden Plans New Ski Jump Ogden, Utah.—(U.P.)—Tentative plans have been made to build a new ski jump for events this winter, according to R. W. Craven, president of the Ogden Sports club. The jump will be located in the vicinity of Bjornsgard Hill, selected by the noted jumper, Lars Haugen.

Woman, 73, Cuts Tooth

Dunkirk, N. Y.—(U.P.)—Mrs. Daniel Irish denies she's in her second childhood. Her friends have proof, however. At 73, Mrs. Irish is cutting a new tooth—a six year molar. To make room for the new tooth, she had to have an old one removed.

Osprey Was Born Angler

WACO, Texas (U.P.)—B. T. Bean is exhibiting an osprey with a five-foot wingspread which he shot out of a tree near Lake Waco. Clutched in the fish hawk's talons when it fell was a live 13-inch bass. Bean intends to mount the osprey holding the fish for display.

Swedish Punch to Be Sold STOCKHOLM (U.P.)—Swedish punch and "schnapps," or brannvin, made of potatoes and malt, will be sold in the United States after repeal, Ernst Lyberg, head of the Brate system monopoly has announced. But as the duties and taxes will be high, the price will prevent large sales, he fears. Thus a bottle of the potato brandy which sells in Sweden for a little over a dollar probably will cost $3.50 in the United States.

BEHIND the SCENES in HOLLYWOOD

By HARRISON CARROLL

Copyright, 1933 King Features Syndicate, Inc.

HOLLYWOOD, —The rest of the honeymoon of Frances Dee and Joel McCrea will be spent not in a palatial Beverly Hills home but in two rooms of an uncompleted ranch-house sixty-minutes drive from Hollywood.

This was the word received from Joel, as he reluctantly tore himself away from his bride and took the train for St. Louis where he'll board a plane for California. Frances remains on near Washington for a number of days to complete her picture, "Rodney."

Chief reason the young RKO actor hurries west is to start a crew of 50 men on a rush job to finish his ranch-home by Christmas. Meanwhile, he and Frances will start house-keeping in the kitchen and dining-room which are just about complete.

Joel's home is to be one of the most unusual belonging to any film star. It is a combination of modern house and old-fashioned log cabin.

In one of the rendezvous the other night, the talk drifted to actors who have saved situations by their presence of mind.

Frank Darien, veteran player, recalled a smart young super appearing in a Civil War melodrama. The chap had only one line: "Here comes the colonel." After that, the colonel rode in on a horse.

But on the opening night, the horse took fright, jumped the cue and bolted across the stage into the opposite wings.

Shaken but game, the super announced: "That must have been the colonel."

Gary Cooper and Sandra Shaw had their bit of fun with the reporters at Phoenix. They denied that Sandra was in the party and pointed to the hotel register, which read: "Miss Veronica Balfe, New York City."

Which, you up-and-coming fans don't have to be told, happens to be Sandra's real name.

Rumors persist that Isabel Jewell and Lee Tracy will be wed around

State Relief Work, $3,000,000 Helena, Mont.—(U.P.)—Federal expenditures for the relief of destitute families in Montana totaled approximately $3,000,000 for the eleven months ended Sept. 1, the State Public Works Advisory Board recently reported. County relief agencies were said to be spending an average of $50,000 a month in addition to the federal outlay.

Christmas time. The pair staged an affecting farewell when Lee recently boarded a plane for Mexico. Many tears and kisses.

If it's true, however, Isabel isn't admitting it. "We just like each other," she says.

The sartorial crowns of Adolphe Menjou and William Powell are being shot at by the dapper George Raft, who now owns 35 suits. Fine linen handkerchiefs are another fad of George's. He has 200.

Jack La Rue, on the other hand, says that a film leading man, can get along on six suits.

QUICK GLIMPSES.

You can take it as true that Dorothy Lee is willing to halt her career this time for home and a baby. Maurice Hill, Fifi Dorsay's handsome boy-friend, will study acting for five weeks under Oliver Hissdell at M. G. M. before he takes his screen test. They'll tell you that Arthur Byron still hasn't recovered from the shock of seeing Tom Brown spit out a mouthful of prop teeth when he hit him a purposely glancing blow for a picture. Young Brown is not thinking up any new pranks, however. Suffering from an appendix, he rests between scenes these days with an ice-pack on his side.

The reason you don't see the word "kidnap" in any film title is because the Hays office forbids it. Fox called their snatch racket story "The Mad Game" and Paramount will call theirs: "Miss Fane's Baby Is Stolen."

The figure representing capital on the new three cent NRA stamps not only is out of step with the others, as someone else has pointed out, but it is a dead ringer for Groucho Marx.

Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey have selected the site for their beauty parlor. It's opposite the Fanchon & Marco Studio on Sunset Boulevard. And, can you beat it, Ted Healy's three stooges now are demanding separate dressing rooms.

DID YOU KNOW—That Dick Powell was born in Mount View, Arkansas?

Two Small Boys Burned To Death

Hammond, Ind., Nov. 14.—(U.P.)—Two small boys were burned to death here last night as their parents tried frantically to save them. The children, Clement Derrosa, 9 and Peter Jr., 7, were in the back seat of their father's automobile when it overturned and burst into flames.

The father extricated himself and his wife, Merle, and they both tried to remove their sons. The flames beat them back, however. Both were badly burned about the hands and arms.

Dissolve Italian Chamber Of Deputies

Rome, Nov. 14.—(U.P.)—Premier Benito Mussolini today announced dissolution of the chamber of deputies—the first step in his new program to establish a "corporative" state with great power relegated to National industrial guilds.

Kite Aids Angler

Yachats, Ore.—(U.P.)—A mixture of aviation and fishing has been put to work here by William Anderson to fatten his purse. Anderson uses a kite to aid him in surf fishing. The kite is flown at a height of 800 or 900 feet, with a wooden float dangling in the water. To this is attached fishing lines. The only requisite of such a device is an offshore wind.

Saloon Banned by Empire State Liquor Laws

Consolation for dry losers in the recent repeal fight is seen in the adoption of a stringent set of liquor laws by New York State. The old saloon is definitely banned. Liquor may be served with meals or at meals in licensed restaurants, but the drinker must sit at a table—no more bars or brass rails or back seats. Retail liquor stores may sell beverages for home consumption on a strict cash and carry basis, purchases being limited to three quarts to a customer at one time. The regulations, framed by the State Alcoholic Beverage Control Board under chairmanship of Edward P. Mulrooney, may serve as a model whereupon States may create similar control laws.

Bridge was her MAGIC KEY

A month before she had been penniless, looking for a job... Now high society opened its doors to her... declared her the Hit of the Season...

"HERE'S to Patricia Warren," was the toast of all the young men who had been fortunate enough to meet her. Every pretty debutante of the season, or of the seasons before, would gladly have changed places with her. Her appearance on the dance floor caused a riot in the stag line. And yet a month before she had been walking down mean streets looking for a job, typing, a file clerk—anything! How had it happened!

Bridge was her sesame. Her skill at the game she played as a pastime had made her the partner of the world's greatest bridge player—and society was bridge mad. Life had become a round of fashionable bridge-clubs, championship tournaments, hundred dollar lessons, thousand dollar losses! But although Patricia was in the midst of this hectic craze, she kept herself true. Two continents knew her as the most dangerous opponent at a bridge table, yet she was ready and waiting for a real love. Read how it came to her in the strangest and most exciting romance of the day.
