Why argue over it, John Dillinger, Sr., belongs at the world's fair.

Among other things you'll always remember this year as a dry one.

We would like to hear Amos ask Andy if he would like to have Hitler's job.

Pity the fellow who last winter anticipated having an acre of roasting ears.

That race between the Tigers and Yankees reminds us of getting the returns in the Wilson-Hughes election. Too close for comfort.

After the European news tapers off, strikes are settled, all the bandits and crooks are shot or put in jail, then about that time, the excitement will begin anew with the opening of political campaigns.

In a small town in Louisiana the chief of police has been elected official tax collector and the combination seems to work wonderfully. He either gets the money or the delinquent appears before him in police court.

Church membership in the United States grew nearly 700,000 last year, which is proof that the church has not lost its appeal and that the people are still interested in things of a spiritual nature. More than half of the nation's population is affiliated with a church.

Now that Hitler is both president and chancellor of Germany he has about everything one man could expect in the way of power. His responsibility is his and if he doesn't make good the people will know where to put the blame. The great power and responsibility placed on the Nazi leader's shoulders may cause him to sober up and become conservative.

We admit that trying to sing "Love Thy Neighbor" song is a little hard on a cracked voice, but over in England the radio boss forbids the singing of it over the air, because of the Biblical reference. If we could ban some of the songs as easily in this country, what a delight it would be to put asleep the torch singers who attempt to chirp "Cocktails for two."

If inland states could import sea gulls their trouble with chinch bugs and other pests might be solved. It is said, that one of the reasons which endeared the Great Salt Lake valley to the Mormons was that when grasshoppers appeared, a host of sea gulls came and made short work of the devastating insects. Around here the black birds might be drafted to do the same thing with the bugs.

Nearly 7,000 feet of new water mains were added to the city's water system this year. So-called "dead ends" were eliminated and continuous flow given throughout the circuit. Hydrants were also repaired, new valves installed and every reasonable improvement added, with the idea of providing good drinking water and ample fire protection at every nook and corner. The insurance inspection bureau should give credit for these betterments.

Louisiana is having more trouble over Huey Long than parents do with a wayward son. Long met his equal in fight and maneuver in Mayor Walmesley of New Orleans, anti-Long candidate for the senate. When Huey induced the governor to send troops to New Orleans, the mayor increased his police force several hundred and gave notice the boys were ready and willing to fight it out. Long is backing and evidently scared that the fighting mayor will show him tricks.

You would never think it, but old western North Dakota, is going to follow Texas with a "Ma" Ferguson stunt. The talented and ritzy wife of the deposed Governor Langer has been nominated by the Republicans as their candidate for the governor's job. She will make the race to vindicate her husband and to keep him in control of politics in his state. Mrs. Langer is a former New Yorker, wealthy, the mother of two children and from all reports is one of the lovable and respected women of the state.

Von Hindenberg, soldier, statesman, and affectionately looked upon as the "grand old man" of Germany is dead. Life ebbed slowly from the once powerful frame and for 24 hours the German president lay in the sleep of death. He was a monarchist of first rank, believed in that form of government, but accepted the presidency when by popular vote the people called him to serve as president of the new German republic. He held the confidence of other nations and governments believed in his word, his integrity and desire to bring about peace. His death removes one of the great men of the past decade and history will record his name as one of the important generals in the world war. In contrast he became a leading figure in peace-time history.

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

From the Daily Democrat File

Aug. 3—German fleet attacks Russian squadron in first naval battle of world war. French army of 75,000 crosses the German border.

Mr. and Mrs. John Niblick and daughter, Miss Helen, leave for visit in Yellowstone Park. Alonzo Dutcher goes to Bluffton to manage Morris store. Oscar Lankenau is visiting Will Lehne at Tiffin, Ohio. White Stags defeat Vera Cruz 6 to 1. Thieves take $15 cash from register in Will Colchin's ice cream parlor. Mayor Johnson of Gary visits here.

Many a gal does a lot o' straight thinkin' with a curly head.

Yep, a good barber has t' do his hone work.

Some talkies sure sound phoney.

When a gal looks sour th' fellows never git fresh.

Some gals are dern trustin' others git th' cash.

Nope, y' can't judge a gal's family tree by her limbs.

Perspiration Stains When a garment is stained by perspiration, try sponging with good white vinegar, then wiping dry with a soft clean cloth. If the perspiration has changed the color of the fabric, try touching with ammonia.

Shrimp Sandwiches Delicious shrimp sandwiches are made with one cup chopped shrimp, one-fourth cup drained crushed pineapple, one-fourth cup minced celery, and a little lemon. Use seasonings and mayonnaise.

Dish Towels The dish towels will appear much gaye if they are trimmed with criss-cross strips of tape.

Auction School Notes

To the Citizens of Decatur and vicinity.

We, the students of the Reppert Auction School wish to express our appreciation for the kind and courteous treatment that we have received during our three weeks stay in your beautiful and rightly named, The Friendly City. The hospitality that you have extended, the friendly greetings whenever we met you, your attendance and cooperation at our auction sales have made a lasting impression upon our minds as we leave with regret to our various homes in ten different states in the Union. We carry back pleasant memories of your splendid city and shall try to instill in our home towns that friendly cooperative spirit for which Decatur, Indiana is noted from coast to coast. We feel that our time and money has been well spent.

The Reppert School of Auctioneering has more than fulfilled every promise. The high moral standard, the marvelous training by instructors of national reputation will enable us to succeed in our chosen profession. We hope to be able to return to Decatur during sessions of the Reppert Auction School and enjoy your hospitality.

Signed: Students of 1934 Summer Class Reppert Auction School.

When the school closes in Belmont Park Saturday the Reppert Auction School will have turned out another class of real auctioneers that will be a walking, talking advertisement for this nationally known school.

The students had a workout on long distance selling and endurance contest yesterday on the banks of beautiful Belmont Lake. It was a real workout and a pleasant as well as profitable experience.

Visitors at the school yesterday were Col. Jack Brunton, of Decatur who gave a very interesting and instructive lecture and proved to be the class that he knew how to conduct auction sales. Col. Brunton is a graduate of this school. Col. C. W. Lathen, Col. Ralph Geckie, former graduates, addressed the class and are going strong in the auction business. Isaac Neuenchwander, of Columbus Grove, Ohio is visiting the school and expects to attend next winter's class.

Tonight is the last appearance on the auction stand for the students. Come up and see us this time.

Negro Burglar Kills Officer

Terre Haute, Ind., Aug. 3—(UP)—Walter Lanfair, 45, Terre Haute policeman, was shot and killed today by a negro burglar.

Lanfair and three other policemen were sent to the home of James T. Buckley after a neighbor had reported a burglar was in the house. Lanfair went to the rear door while the other officers surrounded the front and sides of the house. The burglar started to flee when he saw Lanfair approaching. He opened fire at once, two bullets striking the policeman.
