WHAT FAMILIAR NAMES MEAN

WATCH THIS COLUMN DAILY
Copyrighted by
DR. HARRY A. DEFERRARI

SHERMAN. The family name "Sherman" is merely a variation of "Shearman." "Shearman" is of English origin, and generally means "wool-cutter" or "cloth-cutter." In a few cases "Shearman" represents the middle English "sciremann", and means "the man in charge of a shire." A certain John le Shearmon and a Robert le Sherman are mentioned in an English document of the year 1300.

SHERWIN. The family name "Sherwin" (also spelled "Sherwen") is of English origin. Its first element is derived from the old English verb "aceran" which means "to sher" and "to cut." Its second element is the noun "win." Hence, it is clear that the name was first applied to persons who "cut the wind," that is, to messengers or to persons who were known to be swift runners. The name occurs several times in the Hundred Rolls. Some of its spellings in that document are "Serewyne", "Serewynd", and "Scherewynd." It has been found that in a few cases "Sherwin" is the modern form of the Anglo Saxon "Scirwine." "Scirwine" was an old personal name meaning "the splendid friend."

DEPOSITS INSURED BY

The Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation

WASHINGTON, D. C.

$5000 MAXIMUM INSURANCE FOR EACH DEPOSITOR $5000

THE First State Bank of Decatur today received from the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation at Washington the official signs which will hang at all receiving windows as visible evidence that the depositors of this institution are insured.

The First State Bank is one of more than 14,000 licensed banks in the country which are receiving these signs. Insured banks are able to offer protection to their depositors up to $5,000. Statistical studies have shown that this maximum fully protects more than 97 per cent of all the depositors in insured banks.

A statement by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation follows:

"The purpose of the signs is to let depositors know which banks are insured. Heretofore, although 90% of the licensed banks are insured, depositors have had no easy means of identifying them.

"If, by any unforeseen circumstance, an insured bank should suspend, the Insurance Corporation would begin paying off the depositors just as soon as a receiver was appointed for the closed institution. The depositors would receive their money in a few days instead of waiting months or years as was the case in the former method of liquidation. This is not only a benefit to the depositors, but it saves the community from a terrific economic and social blow. When the depositors receive their insured accounts they assign their claims to the Insurance Corporation. Thereafter liquidation proceeds on a business-like basis with the maximum chance of the Corporation and other creditors being paid in full."
