Efforts to control the democratic party consume all the interest of Louisiana politicians. Until recent years the state fight has been carried into the city of Orleans. The fight now is between the present mayor of New Orleans and the supporters of Huey Long. The matter will be decided

Mr. Taylor's appointment is not political but is a civil service job.
The fire chief is chosen by the administration. He must be from the ranks. To discharge a man it is necessary to have him a trial in which he is permitted to defend himself with attorneys. The only ground for disposal or impeachment of a New Orleans fireman is neglect of duty.
To enter the city civil service in the fire department it is necessary to pass a mental and physical examination. Of the two the physical examination is the more rigid.
There are many instances when a man has been refused admission to the New Orleans fire department because of his physique and has been accepted by the army.
Mr. Taylor is as positive as a Californian about the superiority of his native climate and soil. "It is only necessary to put a twig in the ground to get it to sprout," he said.

North of New Orleans is the sugar bowl of the world. The best cane sugar in the country is grown there. However, because of the sugar, produced by cheap labor, the sugar farmers there are not making money.

Louisiana farmers generally raise one crop a year, although truck and other crops can be raised in the year around. Sugar, tobacco, and cotton, the staple crops, have only one growing season a year.

The southern half of the state of Louisiana, known as the delta, is built up by the settling of silt from the Mississippi river which is a mile wide by the time it passes New Orleans. This is the richest dirt in the world. A railroad company drains the river water into a settling tank. The dirt and organic matter which settles to the bottom of the tank is then shipped north as fertilizer.

If Brann stays in, Hale is defeated and the Democrats hold their two-to-one strength in the house of representatives, new dealers will be justified in claiming a great victory. Republicans already are charging that federal funds—actual and potential—are being dangled order to permit the passing of steam boats. Because of the tremendous approach necessary for such a bridge the cost of right of ways is too great to put in the city itself. During the construction of the bridge the residents of New Orleans will continue to use ferries which can transport both automobiles and trains.

ANNUAL PLANE
TOUR STARTED

Sixth Annual Tour of Indiana Is Started With 46 Planes

Indianapolis, Sept. 10. — (UPI) — Forty-six planes of virtually every type known to aviation left Indianapolis today on the sixth Indiana Aircraft Trades Association tour.

The planes, taking off from the Hoosier airport at half-minute intervals, will visit 18 cities on a 1,900 mile tour before returning to Indianapolis Sept. 16.

The first stop on today's schedule was Shelbyville where the new municipal airport will be dedicated. The planes will then continue southward to Madison and return this afternoon to Seymour for their first night stop.

North Vernon, Bloomington and French Lick are on tomorrow's schedule.

The tour was given added prestige last night when Jimmie Mattern, around-the-world flier, joined the group. Mattern, piloting a new Bellanca, came here from Buffalo, N. Y., air races. Planes from Detroit, Lansing, Mich., and Bradford, Pa., also were among the out-of-state ships.

William H. Book, executive vice-president of the Indianapolis chamber of commerce, and former director of Indianapolis relief, acted as the official starter for the first shuttle.

Master Sgt. Russell Long, 113th observation squadron, Indiana national guard, will act as official starter at other cities. Lt. Matt G. Carpenter, riding with Sgt. Long in a national guard plane, will act as tour master.

In order to keep the ships free from excessive weight, a truck will carry baggage to each of the night stops.

FACTS ABOUT 'GLOWBOY' CIRCULATING HEATER

Few people take time to make a complete investigation of enameled circulating heaters.

Don't be fooled by ordinary heaters with a "jacket" built around them.
Regardless of how good they may look or how low the price of such a heater might be, it is the most expensive circulating heater one could buy.

Our "Glowboy" heaters are built just like a basement furnace, with heavy fire bowls, large air passages allowing a large amount of air to be heated and circulated throughout the entire house. Remember our slotted fire bowls are guaranteed for 5 years and we can truthfully say a "Glowboy" will give 46% greater circulating capacity, 35% greater floor warming and more uniform heating due to the special construction than any other heater.
