How about joining the Daily Democrat's Christmas fund club?

We like the coal dealers, but if they don't mind we'll place a six month's order for this kind of weather.

Two weeks from today the election will be over. Some of the State officials begin their terms in November, others in January and when Congress convenes. County, township and city officers begin their terms January 1.

If you want to earn up to $500 by next Christmas, get in touch with the managers of the Daily Democrat's Christmas fund club. You are paid for your work and have the opportunity to win one of the large cash prizes.

Hear Sherman Minton and see the New Deal parade on the afternoon of Monday, October 29. Recognized as an oratorical firebrand, Mr. Minton is a man whom you'll enjoy hearing. The parade will be worth seeing and will amuse you.

The Lions Club is planning to entertain about 250 out-of-town guests next Tuesday. Lions will gather here from a score of towns and cities and the Decatur boys, mighty proud of their city, are planning to show them the town. Do your part and welcome the visitors and show them the old fashioned Decatur-way of making them feel at home.

Decatur could very easily be a trucking terminal. The large fleets operated by the Cloverleaf Creameries, the Mutschler Packing company, Yost brothers and other contractors and the hundreds now used in hauling beets make a lot of traffic around here. Transportation means business and in view of the number of trucks passing through here every day, there must be business to warrant their operation.

A Circuit Court judge in Marion county has ruled that the name of Joseph B. Kyle, whom the Republicans nominated for lieutenant-governor shall not be placed on the state election ballots this year. The court held that if the office was vacated, the vacancy should be filled by the state Senate. The whole question is largely a political fight and in the end the courts will more than likely uphold Mr. Townsend's position and declare everything was done legally.

trious farmer of this community. He lived in this county longer than the usual span of life allotted to man and became endeared to hundreds. To men like him go the credit for the development of the agriculture section. He was a pioneer of the soil and his whole life was builded on those fine principles which make a respected citizen. Although living to be an nonagenarian, those who knew him regretted to learn of his death.

For several years Martin Worthman's health was not the best. He also suffered from an impaired eyesight, but you never heard him complain or for one moment thought he would give up. If he could counsel with the community today, his message would be, carry on, don't give up. In our sorrow let's also do the things which Mr. Worthman would want us to do. Pick up your spirits, build for the future and inspire others with your courage and faith in the community like he did. That was the Worthman gospel.

The Home Owners' Loan Corporation, which began to operate Sept. 1, 1933, has saved from mortgage foreclosure more than 530,000 homes in every section of the country and has disbursed more than $1,600,000. Except for its work, 2,500,000 persons would have been evicted. The HOLC was devised to serve two purposes, said its chairman, Dr. John H. Fahey, in an address to the convention of the Mortgage Bankers' Association of America in Chicago a few days ago. "It was intended to save worthy home owners wherever possible, and to prevent further demoralization of real estate values and the mortgage market in the interest of millions of savers whose money was invested in mortgages through thousands of financial institutions. I am convinced that neither the business nor banking interests have fully realized what their own difficulties would have been but for HOLC."

The Daily Democrat in announcing the opening of a Christmas Fund Club, whereby members who obtain new subscriptions or renew old ones, are given credits on the grand cash awards, or are paid a commission on the business turned in, desires to serve two purposes. First, the campaign will provide gainful employment to a number of people. Secondly, we believe the time is here for business to step out and grow. For more than a decade the circulation of the paper has stood between 3,000 and 3,300. We don't believe in standing still. This is a county seat town with good stores and excellent roads leading to the city from all directions. There isn't any reason why the local trading territory cannot be extended. There will not be any wholesale purchase of credits and anyone found doing it will be disfranchised and dropped from the club. Awards must be secured through actual subscriptions to the paper. Those interested are asked to get in touch with the Club Managers at this office.

Starch
If starch is left over, pour it into a glass jar and cover with a lid. Place the jar in the refrigerator and when ready to use dilute with boiling water.

Crocheting
Before laying down the crocheting or knitting put a large safety pin through the last loop. If this is done the work can not be pulled out.

Table Oilcloth
Spread a few layers of newspaper under the kitchen table oilcloth and it will give much longer life to the cloth.

Bank Facts Show Increased Confidence and Safety

Bank deposits of the nation have increased three billion dollars in the last twelve months.

The country's savings backlog in deposits is $40,000,000,000, or $320 for every man, woman and child in America.

More than 500 banks reopened in the United States during the fiscal year ending June 30.

The new law insuring deposits up to $5,000 has stimulated confidence in American banking and has brought money out of hiding.

United States bonds are the highest in several months.

In Indiana, $25,000,000 has been returned to savings accounts in the past six months by depositors who have regained faith in banks and the future.

For every dollar owed by Indiana banks they reported June 30 first class assets in the sum of $1.19.

Cash reserves held by reestablished banks were $73,000,000, amounting to 28 per cent if deposits and liabilities; six months ago it was 22 per cent.

In a year, Indiana banks have increased their holdings of government bonds by $39,000,000.

Quick assets in state banks are $112,000,000, or 43 per cent of the amount owed to depositors and creditors; a year ago the percentage was 33.

At the end of June, 1933, twenty-seven banks had $7,000,000 in waived deposits; June 30, 1934, none of the 400 "A" banks had any waived deposits.

In the year, $13,000,000 was added to the capital strength of Indiana chartered banks and trust companies.

Since June, 1933, the number of "B" banks has been cut from 110 to 27.

START WORK ON RADIO SYSTEM

Construction Work Starts On State Police Radio System

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 24—(U.P.)—With Gov. Paul V. McNutt turning the first shovel of dirt, construction on the central units of the state police radio system was started today at the state fairgrounds.

The ground-breaking ceremonies were held in the presence of Al G. Feeney, superintendent of state state police, who is responsible for the plan; A. M. Clossbrenner, Indianapolis, treasurer of the state police radio committee, and other state and police officials.

Construction of the central unit will mark the second step in the fulfillment of a plan inaugurated by Feeney more than a year ago. The first step was taken last week when the Culver Military Academy radio station was acquired by the state police department.

The state-wide radio system, which eventually will include five broadcasting stations located in widely separated sections of the state, was made possible largely through the efforts of the Indiana Bankers Association.

The bankers canvassed the state for funds, and with a $20,000 donation from the governor's contingent fund, raised approximately $50,000. This amount is to be used for construction and equipping the five units. Funds for operation of the system will be appropriated at the next session of the legislature. The stations will be built like forts to protect them from criminals. Port holes, instead of windows; bullet proof glass; iron doors and floodlights will feature the broadcasting stations.

Work on the units will be done with men on federal relief rolls and paid for with FERA funds. A large portion of the materials used will be supplied from the state penitentiaries.

Paul Andres, Indianapolis engineer, who designed the stations is in charge of the installation of broadcasting equipment.

The station at Culver was donated to the state police department and will be used as the northwest unit of the system. New equipment is being installed and is expected to be ready for use by the time the central unit is completed here.

Three other stations, one in the Fort Wayne region, another in the southwest section of the state and another in the southeast will be built as soon as appropriations can be found. Feeney expects to have the system in operation by next year. He plans to contact other state police in every section of the state in order that all law enforcement agencies will have sets tuned into the state radio stations.

Throughout the school systems from grade schools to universities, pupils are being assigned to debate teams, to discuss pertinent national and international economic and social questions of the hour. Our Washington Bureau has ready its bulletin on DEBATES, which tells briefly and clearly how to organize a debate, how to secure material, how to prepare briefs and organize your argument, what each speaker on the team should attempt, and other facts, and lists of references and suggested subjects for debating. If you expect to engage in a debate any time this school year, you will find this bulletin of value.

Fill out the coupon below and send for it: CLIP COUPON HERE
