

Highlights Of Sermon Delivered By Decatur Preachers On Sunday

The love of Christ and the Fellowship of man were the themes of the sermons preached in Decatur Sunday. Excerpts from five of the sermons are:

Rev. A. B. Brown
"Christ and Light of Life or Three Essentials with one Control" Text: "In Him was Life and the Life was the Light of men."

First essential, Christ is essentially the Light of Life. May we not belittle or limit the Light by thinking of it only as an attribute of Christ. He is Light.

What is more essential to you and me? "Christ the eternal life was manifested unto us." Without this manifestation we would not know what Christ essentially is.

What is most essential is the reception of the Light of Life, which alone can comfort with perfect peace, complete pardon, inexhaustible supply and is infinite love.

Control of these: "As ye therefore have received Christ, Jesus the Lord do walk in Him."

Rev. H. W. Franklin
"Christ's Enrichment of the World." Text: "In everything you are enriched by Him." Man's conception of God apart from the Bible is incomplete and altogether inadequate. "He who was rich, for your sakes became poor that through His poverty you may become rich."

He has enriched the world intellectually—socially, morally and spiritually.

We are enriched by the knowledge of salvation and its experience. Man is enriched toward womanhood by the Christ-like standard of life. We are enriched by the spirit of the brotherhood of man and the Fatherhood of God. Peace between man, communities and nations of the world.

Rev. M. W. Sundermann
"The Prayer Spirit of Jesus." Text: He withdrew again into the mountain himself alone. Jesus knew what it meant to be grieved with business upon every hand. He knew the world, because he loved it. He knew his father, because he loved him. Jesus is conscious of the fact, that there is a remedy in God for all the ills of the world, materially, socially, spiritually. Jesus feels it is his calling to unite supply and need.

In the mountain by himself, he gets a new grip upon himself, and in fellowship with his Heavenly Father.

He has said "Blessed are the Peace Makers," now he must exemplify it. We need to withdraw today, until our hearts are quickened for the task ahead.

Rev. C. M. Prugh
Text: "If Thine Enemy Hunger." A great deal of the Scripture is taken up with the problem presented by man's ugly natural instincts, and the necessity and means of overcoming them. One of these despicable instincts, one of the surest indications that man has fallen from his divine state, is the instinct of vengeance.

St. Paul says in the letter to the Romans that there is a better way of treating an enemy, and that is not to retaliate upon him but to befriend him. You may beat and hammer your adversary into submission but you will never win his admiration and good-will. Instead of that you multiply by one hundred the chances that he will watch for and the first opportunity to get even with you.

Rev. H. R. Carson
"He who robs God, robs his fellow-man as well. This was true in the days of Malachi and it is true in this day. Back of the terrible needs of this very day is the element of human selfishness. But the tragic side of this situation, which escapes most observers, is that the man who robs God and his fellow-man, is robbing himself! Eventually every man expects to be honest in discharging his obligations. Then why not now? Begin with the A. B. C's of financial honesty and progress into the higher realm of spiritual obligations. The truth is the Lord's. To keep it is to steal it."

CHURCH SCHOOL OPENS TUESDAY

Leadership Training School Will Be Conducted By Churches

The leadership training school for Adams county Sunday School workers will open in the Decatur high school building Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock. The building will be open at 7 o'clock and the registrar and the teachers will be present to assist in registration and in giving information as to the four courses offered. Two classes in each subject will be given each Tuesday evening for five weeks.

Reports to Rev. H. R. Carson, dean of the school, indicate that a number of rural church schools will have representatives and that the city Sunday Schools will have a good sized contingent. Registrations to date show the local Methodists in the lead with the Reformed church and the United Brethren church following closely.

Full information as to classes and texts will be given at the opening of the school tomorrow night and an opportunity to enroll will be given those who have not done so. Interested people are invited to attend the first session without obligation of enrolling. Registrations will close Tuesday night, Jan. 15.

The sale Saturday night was a decided success with the largest crowd as yet turning out to note the improvement in the class.

Fourteen of the class got together yesterday afternoon and were entertained by our Scotch friend, Mr. McKay.

There was a little pause as Carlotta studied Kay, an unassuming, painful pause.

"I am Carlotta Vestra," the famous actress said.

Kay nodded.

"I know."

A quick fire came into the older woman's eyes; her nostrils seemed to flare and quiver.

"Ah—you do?"

It was only then that Kay realized Carlotta Vestra was angry, was inwardly trembling and seething for all her poise; and that she was unsteady on her feet, just a trifle, but unsteady nevertheless; and that there was a distinct odor of alcohol in the room.

Eleven o'clock. In the city, night life was just getting a good start. White lights of signs flooded the theatrical district with a strange, unearthly illumination; doormen were busy at their posts, ushering people in, ushering them out; taxi starters tooted and shrilled their noisy whistles; cab drivers rushed along with fashionably dressed passengers, cruised about with alert eyes or jockeyed their way up to crowded curbs; theaters, concert halls began to disgorge chatting, laughing crowds who for a short space of time had been living in other worlds; at a dock a great liner, bound for France, was just casting off and the stay-behinds were waving, whistling and calling goodbyes to the departing travelers; in discreetly-fronted, exquisitely appointed gambling places dice were clicking and roulette wheels whirled as anxious eyes watched for the turn of luck; throughout the city, in taxi-dance places, in beer taverns, cafes, night clubs, hotels, roof gardens, radio stations, dance orchestras poured forth all varieties of music for all varieties of people; crooners leaned soulfully toward microphones; and high above the streets in skyscrapers irregularly checkered with squares of pale light, scrubwomen plied mop and soap suds in the deadly stillness that had clung in upon the offices a few hours before when the last typewriter had clacked, the last telephone bell had rung, the last buzzer had sounded.

Eleven o'clock in the city, a world apart from quiet Long Island, where Kay Owen sat with the vibrant, temperamental Carlotta Vestra.

Eleven o'clock by the little platinum watch on Ida Campbell's golden-brown wrist. Ida looked across the shiny, black top of the speakeasy table at Spike Winch's battered, quizzical face. He was a likeable roughneck, this Spike Winch; a smart man; maybe not even as much of a roughneck as he seemed. He was of this world—the clubs, the parties, the theater. He was the closest associate of Earl Harrow who held so much of this world's power.

"You know," Ida said slowly, her long-lashed eyes half closed, "you're ments went to farmers in LaFourche and Terrebonne parishes, La. These are the areas from which the first contracts were received and the payments are on the first contracts added.

Checks to sugar beet growers totaled $5,072 and went to 100 producers. These payments represent $1 a ton on the estimated production of sugar beets on the acreage which cooperating farmer planted to beets for 1934 and are the first installment of the 1934 adjustment payment. The second installment will be paid during the 1935 season after growers have complied with their contracts.

It is estimated that the sugar beet program will mean approximately $15,000,000 additional income to producers this year. The first sugarcane adjustment checks totaled $46,749 and went to 81 producers. These also are first installments on the 1934 payment and are made of average past production of the rate of $1 a ton on the base, or farm. The second installment will be paid in 1935. Total sugarcane adjustment on the 1934 crop are estimated at more than $6,000,000. Approximately 25,000 contracts have already been signed in the domestic sugar program.

Old Industry Revived
Southwest City, Mo.—(U.P.)—A buggy whip was sold here recently, the first sale recorded in ten years. H. C. Hammack, clerk, believed it was bought by a farmer who had "a couple of mean boys" rather than a team of unruly horses.

Enlarge Fairmont Park
Philadelphia.—(U.P.)—Fairmont Park, the largest city-owned park in America, is being further improved as part of the LWD work in this district. The 3,597 acres of playground will have additional rock gardens and more miles of bridge paths when the work is completed next year.
