Weather Wisdom for Gardeners

The map above, prepared by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, shows the eastern half of the U. S. divided into zones according to the average date of the last killing frost in the spring.

Christmas is a festival of spring. It is celebrated when the sun starts north from the equator. Newspaper headlines often proclaim that the shortest day of the year is the beginning of winter, but gardeners know better.

Once the days begin to lengthen, signs of spring appear in the garden. Buds swell, bark changes color, mysterious growth processes unfold even in coldest weather. With many hardy plants, the period of freezing is as necessary to their development, as the warmth which follows.

Spring is near at hand and it is time to make plans for sowing seeds just as soon as it is safe. How can the safe date be determined?

"Beating" the weather is a gamble which many a backyard tiller is willing to take on the chance that he may have his first crop of lettuce or radishes a few days before his neighbor. It is still a gamble, however, and the gardener who would rather be reasonably sure of his crop had best make some inquiries of his local weather station.

The date of the latest recorded killing frost in your neighborhood is an important factor. It will give you a basis for figuring just when you can take a gambling chance on an early garden with a good chance of winning. The latest killing frost on record is about a month later than the average date and so it is usually safe to plant the hardiest seeds a month ahead of it.

The period of time between the latest and the average killing frost date increases as we move away from the seashore. In New York there is a margin of 20 days but in St. Louis the average date is 38 days earlier than the record freezing date. Cleveland has a 36-day difference and Chicago is same category. But only one crop, the immature seeds of which furnish a delicious food, can be called hardy and that is the pea, and only certain varieties of the pea.

So while it is freezing or snowing outside gather up weather data and figure the date for the earliest possible start this year. It is a waste of seed to start too early and a waste of time to start a day too late. The frost records will give you a reliable basis of figuring just the right time.

If the plants should be nipped you are not out much but if they are not you are just that much ahead with the garden and the odds are greatly in favor of escaping a killing frost.

Rigid Regulations Urged In Measures

Indianapolis, Jan. 22.—(UP)—Rigid regulations for buses carrying school children and fixing of a minimum annual wage for teachers will be provided in two administration bills to be introduced this week in the general assembly.

Senator Ward G. Biddle, D. of Bloomington, said he will offer a finance bill guaranteeing that schools will receive a minimum of $400 a year per teacher from the state general fund to supplement local funds. There is no minimum provided in the present law, adopted in 1933.

Three Additional Gangsters Held

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 22.—(UP)—Three additional alleged members of the Karpis-Barker gang now are in the Ramsey county jail and the regular sheriff's force has been supplemented by federal agents to guard against an escape attempt, it was revealed today.

Byron Bolton, arrested in Chicago Jan. 8, the day Arthur (Doc) Barker was captured and Russell Gibson, another member of the gang, was killed, has been transferred to

St. Paul, it was disclosed. Harold Allerton, former Bensenville, Ill., resident, and Elmer Farmer, former tavern keeper near Chicago, likewise have been brought here. They occupy cells near the heavily guarded one where Barker is awaiting trial on a charge of kidnapping Edward G. Bremer.

Explosion Death Toll Now Twelve

Shenandoah, Pa., Jan. 22.—(UP)—Toll of the Gilberton Colliery mine explosion mounted to 12 dead today with 50 other workers injured, two seriously.

Company officials declined to discuss cause of the explosion, pending completion of a four way inquiry.

Characters in Parade of Witnesses Before Hauptmann Jury

Thomas H. Sisk
Dr. Charles H. Mitchell
Cecilia Barr
Gustav Lukatis

While testifying concerning the finding of the Lindbergh ransom money in Bruno Hauptmann's garage, Thomas H. Sisk, above, department of justice agent, was interrupted when Hauptmann shouted, "Hey, mister, you stop lying!"

Dr. Charles H. Mitchell, above, medical examiner of Mercer county, New Jersey, told the trial jury of his autopsy over the body of the Lindbergh baby which led to his pronouncement that the child had died from a fractured skull.

An important witness for the state, Miss Cecilia Barr, cashier of a movie theater in New York City, declares Bruno Hauptmann passed one of the ransom bills at the theater weeks before Isidor Fisch died in Germany.

Considerable emphasis is believed to be placed by defense attorneys in the expected testimony of Gustav Lukatis, above, a New York waiter, who asserts Isidor Fisch offered to sell him $50,000 in bills at 60 cents on the dollar.
