Miss Meta Liebmann of Fort Wayne Marries Herman H. Krueckeberg Today

The marriage of Miss Meta Liebmann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Liebmann of 1320 Swinney avenue, Fort Wayne, and Herman H. Krueckeberg, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Krueckeberg of this city, was solemnized at the Emmanuel Lutheran church in Fort Wayne this afternoon at four-thirty o'clock.

Fred Heidbrink officiated at the single ring ceremony. The bride was beautifully decorated with palms and candelabra. As the wedding party approached the altar, the Lohengrin wedding march was played by Professor H. Maier.

Earl Maus, sister of the bride, was the matron of honor and Herman Krueckeberg, brother of the groom, was best man.

The bride's dress was fashioned of white satin, along very simple lines. The high neckline was marked with a standing collar which extended to a V at the back, from which satin covered buttons extended to the waist line. A deep panel in the skirt formed the train. The sleeves were full at the top, fitting tight to the wrists. Her veil was of white illusion, which formed a cap with a woven band, falling in a slight train. White crepe silk completed her costume. She carried white roses and white anemones.

The groom wore a suit in white satin fashioned the dress by the matron of honor. It was fashioned similar to that of the bride with the exception of the sleeves which were full and the collar was trimmed with a gold ornament was worn in her hair. She carried bronze and gold anemones tied with a gold ribbon.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents in Fort Wayne. A dinner was served for the immediate families of the couple. The bride has been employed as a stenographer at the Indiana Service corporation in Fort Wayne. Mr. Krueckeberg is the assistant cashier at the First State Bank in this city. After October 15, Mr. and Mrs. Krueckeberg will be at home at 504 North Second street in this city.

"THE NEGRO" TOPIC OF HISTORICAL CLUB

Mrs. Ed. Ehr was hostess to thirteen members of the Historical Club at her home Wednesday afternoon. The roll call was responded to with quotations and current events.

Mrs. Sam Butler was the leader for the afternoon and she read an interesting paper on the subject, "The Negro As An Actor." She said that had it not been for the negro, we would not have the folk songs, the spirituals and the wonderful negro music. She closed her paper with an interesting account of her trip to South Dakota.

Mrs. Ehr served refreshments at the close of the afternoon. The next club meeting will be a one o'clock luncheon with Mrs. Dave Campbell of Bluffton next Wednesday.

INTERESTING PAPER GIVEN AT AFTERNOON CLUB

The Ladies Shakespeare Club met with Mrs. Earl Adams on Mercer avenue Wednesday afternoon for the opening meeting of the year. Twenty members responded to the roll call with current events.

After the secretary's report the meeting was turned over to Mrs. W. A. Lower who was the leader for the afternoon. Her subject was "The Old World Background of Colonial America."

This was the first paper on the club study for the year of "Our National Background." Mrs. Lower gave an interesting description of the history of the old world, bringing it up to the time of Columbus. She told how much of our way of living was taken from the Greeks and Romans. The Greeks were great builders and artists and were especially proud of their architecture.

Rules Revised AAA Act Constitutional

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 3.—(U.P.)—The provisions of the agricultural adjustment act were unconstitutional prior to their amendment by congress, August 24, last, but are now constitutional as amended, Judge Merrill E. Otis, held in federal district court today.

The opinion was given in a memorandum in which Judge Otis dissolved preparatory injunctions granted 24 companies to prevent collection of processing taxes.

Congressmen To Fight Wallace

Washington, Oct. 3.—(U.P.)—Republican and Democratic members of congress formed a coalition in the corridors of the agriculture department today to fight Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace whom they accused of "nullifying the laws of the United States" by refusing to enforce the potato control act.

LABOR LEADERS

federation's president. Lewis is not yet ready for that move.

The miners have the largest voting strength of any organization accredited to the convention but Lewis wants to make the union even stronger. He still has problems to settle in his own field before tackling the larger objective.

Lewis has won an 18 months wage agreement with the operators but the Guffey coal control act is still a problematical force and may bring on new difficulties for the industry if its administration does not work out in the manner anticipated by the miners when they rallied behind its enactment.

Therefore Lewis may be expected to follow his custom of the past several years and nominate Green for re-election.

This does not mean that Lewis will retire completely from the firing line at the convention. He will continue his battle for greater emphasis on industrial unions and will be backed up in his arguments by the convincing demonstration of what his own union, based on the mass industrial plan, has just accomplished.

The United Mine workers claim a membership of between 400,000 and 500,000 or nearly one seventh of the total membership of the American Federation of Labor. As a separate unit it would form a sizeable basis for a new labor movement. But Lewis would prefer to stay in the federation and mould its policies into a different form, than to secede.

The building trades union, split into two warring camps, opened separate conferences here yesterday. Neither side would yield to suggestions that their differences be composed, leaving the controversy to be fought out next week before the full federation convention.

San Diego before embarking on the cruiser Houston for his return trip to Washington via the Panama Canal, sounded the keynote of the administration's attitude. Recalling 1914, apparently with the present European situation very much in mind, the President spoke of the "the folly of 20 years ago."

President Roosevelt specifically promised that to the best of his ability, the United States would keep itself free and clear of any conflict that might occur in Europe. He intimated that the quarrel between Italy and Ethiopia was not this country's business, and that the same attitude should be taken generally toward purely European or old-world disputes.

ment to both the young and the older folks without damage to any one," the chief said.

The usual large crowd numbering in the thousands is expected for the parade. Arrangements will be made to handle the crowd.
