CENTRAL TEAM BEATS DECATUR SATURDAY, 29-0

Powerful Fort Wayne Eleven Wins Sixth Game In Row

The Decatur Yellow Jackets ran into one of the toughest of Fort Wayne Central teams in the school's history Saturday night and were defeated, 29 to 0. The victory was Central's sixth in a row without being scored on.

Decatur put up a stubborn defense but could not cope with Central's backfield speed.

Central scored in every quarter, also adding two points on a safety in the third period. Charlton, in the third period, Charlton counted first for the Tigers on a 25-yard run over right tackle. Louis Sitko placekicked for the extra point. A march from midfield in the second quarter ended with Charlton going over from the one-yard line.

Central advanced to the eight-yard line in the third period but lost the ball on a fumble. Walther dropped back to punt but a bad pass from center caused him to fumble and he was tackled behind the goal line for a safety and two points for the Tigers.

In the same period, Central started another drive from midfield, Red Miller carrying the ball over on the final plunge. Louis Sitko placekicked the point.

The Tigers made their final score early in the fourth quarter. Red Miller intercepted a Decatur pass and was downed on the Decatur 33-yard line. A forward pass from Grimm to Paul counted the touchdown and Louis Sitko again converted.

Decatur's only threat was in the final period. Huffman intercepted a Central forward pass and ran 39 yards to Central's 40-yard stripe where he was hauled down from behind. This threat ended when a Decatur pass was intercepted.

The Yellow Jackets will play the Portland Panthers at Portland Friday night for their next game.

PURDUE LEADS BIG TEN TEAMS

Wins Conference Opener; Inter-sectional Clashes Saturday

Chicago, Oct. 7.—(UPI)—A chance to establish the Big Ten conference as the seasons toughest football league awaits four teams next Saturday.

Illinois travels to Los Angeles to play Southern California, and Purdue meets Fordham at New York.

Colgate University, another good eastern team, comes west to play Iowa.

Minnesota, defending Big Ten and national champion, will go to Lincoln to play Nebraska, perennial standout of the big six conference.

Only Illinois of the four western conference teams will enter its game as underdog. Coach Robert Zuppke's squad will be outweighed badly in the line and will be handicapped by the loss of its triple threat halfback, Les Lindberg. The Illini leave today for California.

Purdue holds an edge over Fordham in their inter-sectional rivalry and figures to have an equal chance to win. Purdue beat Northwestern 7 to 0 Saturday night. Colgate and Iowa are inaugurating their gridiron feud on even terms.

Minnesota, despite the ineligibility of Julius Alfonse, probably will be a slight favorite over Nebraska. Their clash should be the classic of this week's schedule since both are shooting for national recognition and both are undefeated.

All other Big Ten teams except Northwestern are scheduled to see action Saturday but the only conference game brings together Michigan and Indiana at Ann Arbor.

Notre Dame, with victories over Kansas University and Carnegie Tech, will provide the competition for Wisconsin at Madison. Mike Layden, halfback and brother of coach Elmer Layden, will be out of the lineup for several weeks as the result of a leg injury.

Ohio State, co-favorite with Minnesota to win the Big Ten crown, enters Drake University of Des Moines.

Chicago will meet Western State of Kalamazoo, Mich.

When Michigan and Indiana meet it will be one of the few times in the 40-year history of the conference that the Hoosiers will enter the game as favorite.

The Wolverines lost six Big Ten games in 1934 and started off their 1935 season by dropping a 25 to 6 decision to Michigan State. Indiana, meanwhile, was trouncing Centre College, 14 to 0.

Leading the conference standings today was Purdue with one victory and no defeats.

LARRY FRENCH, BRIDGES NAMED TO HURL TODAY

Chuck Klein's Home Run Wins Sunday Game For Chicago

Detroit, Oct. 7.—(UPI)—The battle of the world series was back on the Michigan front today, with the Detroit Tigers entrenched in exactly the same position they were against the gas-house gang of St. Louis last year.

Today it was the Chicago Cubs, and not the Cardinals that Detroit led three games to two. A year ago the Tigers, standing just one step from the first world's championship in Detroit history, were beaten back by the Brothers Dean, Daffy in the sixth game, Dizzy in the seventh and last.

They faced no such individual brilliance today, for the Cubs, with Lonnie Warneke out with a torn shoulder muscle, haven't a pitcher who even approximates a Dean in speed or cunning. But the Tigers did face something which, in the end, may prove to be more unbeatable than a Dizzy or a Daffy, namely, a Chicago team which, still burning from the inspirational fires, refuses to call it quits until the last man is down and out.

The Chicago who, trailing one to three, went out yesterday and won that fifth game when all the chips were down, were inspired ball players. They never felt for a moment they wouldn't win it, and they moved on Navin field today confident that the tricky lady who is destiny, had her finger on their shoulders, and they would duplicate the 1934 performance of the Cardinals.

Manager Grimm has named Larry French, the handsome southpaw who worked the last two innings of the third game, to pitch for the Cubs. French didn't look any too good in that brief time, and lost the game in the eleventh on Jo-Jo White's single. And he will be pitted against the toughest opposition the Tigers have to offer, for manager Cochrane has tapped Tommy Bridges, the Tennessee game rooster.

Bridges is the strong, silent mountain boy who handcuffed the Chicagoans in the second game of the world series. Everybody but Cochrane is convinced that Bridges, and not the illustrious Schoolboy Rowe, is the top man of the Tiger staff. And perhaps even Mickey has been swung over to the majority side after Schoolboy flunked for the second time in the series yesterday.

If the Tigers are going to win the championship, today would seem the logical time to do it, for they'll not only have Bridges on the firing line, but may have Hank Greenberg on first base. Greenberg's injured wrist which kept him out of all the Chicago games was improved greatly today and he hoped to return to duty. The swelling has gone from the palm and fingers of his left hand, and his wrist, while still sore, is serviceable.

With Greenberg back on first, Marvin Owen would be out of a job, for Herman "Flea" Clifton, who replaced Owen when he was shifted across the infield to plug the first base gap has played too sensationally to be removed. Owen has played in hard luck. He has yet to get a hit, and his fielding hasn't been flashy enough to offset a triple zero batting average. His glaring error on an easy grounder gave the Cubs one of their runs yesterday.

The Tigers can use Greenberg's big bat. True, they won two ball games without him, but they probably would have won them a lot easier had he been in there. And Hank might well have pulled the one yesterday out of the first with a hit. His injury came at the most unfortunate time, for his home run in the second game indicated he had recovered the bunting eye which made him the scourge of the American league over the regular season.

Greenberg's possible return to the lineup today is one of those little ironies of fate you hear about occasionally, for today is Yom Kippur, and Hank, an orthodox Jewish boy from an orthodox Jewish family, never before has played on the holy day. Before the series started he said he would ignore his family's objections and play on Yom Kippur, but that he hoped weather would force a postponement on that day.

Chicago's victory in the fifth game may prove to be an extremely costly one, for there is a more than outside chance that Lonnie Warneke's injury to his pitching arm, sustained when throwing an overhand curve to Rowe in the third inning, may not only keep him out of the remainder of the series, but impair his skill forever. He ripped a muscle, and that has been known to ruin pitchers. Just how badly Lonnie's right arm is hurt will not be known for a few days.

The series is certain to become a million-dollar affair today, for the receipts now stand at $927,000. Today's game will add another $160,000 or so.

Bo McMillin Writes Series Articles For Daily Democ

(Editor's note: Bo Predicts better defensive work; teams more evenly matched.)

By A. N. (Bo) McMillin, Head Football Coach, Indiana University

The sport pages today are carrying a great many stories on the "new" wide open phase of football in which the lateral pass is stressed. On this count, many fans will overlook other aspects of the sport which will be more in evidence this fall.

As was mentioned in last week's article, the new rule interpretation on the dead-ball, in which it states that the runner may pass, kick or continue to run until the whistle is blown, will mean a lot. For example, a slow piling up and consequent penalties for unnecessary roughness. A too hasty toot will nullify the spirit of the new interpretation.

Much of the argument will be avoided, I think, by coaches realizing what this ruling will mean, and teaching their players the new importance of hard, vigorous tackling rather than the push-and-pull method that has been the vogue for the past few years. Blocking, too, is being stressed more and more, for when a man is hit by a real block or a real tackle, he won't move far!

The boys that try to pick the winners are in for several bad innings this season, I think. There has been a leveling process that has created more teams of nearly even strength this year, and the so-called upsets will kick the dope buckets high, wide and handsome.

No doubt the increased use of forwards and laterals, together with the added emphasis on decisive defensive play, will mean either high voltage scoring, or else a definite lack of it. The way the season has started, it seems as if the high scorers will be more the rule than the exception.

A recently published canvass of 150 coaches in the country revealed that 84 teams are definitely stronger than they were last year, 30 of them will have the same approximate strength and only
