HEROES OF AMERICAN HISTORY

HE PUT THE WORLD ON WHEELS

HENRY FORD

Ford set out to build a popular, low-priced automobile. His first car was a success and from it grew the present Ford Motor Co., the largest motor car company in the world, and incidentally, made Ford one of the richest men of all time.

Ford introduced new methods of mass production that revolutionized industry and enabled him to place an automobile at the disposal of people of moderate means. Through his genius, the isolated farmer and the dwellers in small communities were brought into close contact with urban civilization. Although in mechanics he is a master mind, Ford's ventures in the fields of politics and social reform, as in the case of the "Peace Ship," have generally been failures.

boards. No more than three members may be of the same political party and two must be women. They will serve without pay. The county boards will name administrators whose salaries will range between $1,200 and $3,600 depending on population of the county.

The gross income tax division is expected to supervise administration of the unemployment compensation program until a new department is established.

It will collect taxes on payrolls and supervise payment of benefits to unemployed. First payment of taxes will be made by employers May 1 on a basis of 1.2 per cent of their payrolls as of April 1. Benefits will not be started until March 31, 1938.

Members of both boards expected to speed up organization of the two departments in order to have the programs in full operation by April 1 in order to receive benefits from the federal government.

The old division of public welfare was abolished yesterday. Coy, who was head of the department, announced temporary dismissal of 15 employees, their return to the payroll depending upon action by the state welfare board.

No estimate was made of the additional employees necessary to administer the law, but 50 new workers are expected to be employed at once in the job insurance department. Several hundred investigators must be hired to carry out the welfare act, it was said.
