

FOR THE JUNE BRIDE

A packet of three of our Washington Service Bureau new Booklets is ready for the girl who becomes a bride this spring. The titles are:

1. MARRIAGE
2. THE BRIDE'S BOOK
3. THE HOUSEWIFE'S MANUAL

You will find each of these 24-page, ten thousand word booklets filled with facts that any bride wants to know. Just fill out the coupon below and mail as directed for your packet:

CLIP COUPON HERE

Dept. G-20, Daily Democrat's Service Bureau,
1013 Thirteenth Street, Washington, D. C.

I want the BRIDE'S PACKET of three Booklets, and enclose twenty-five cents for return postage and handling costs:

NAME _____
STREET AND No. _____
CITY _____ STATE _____

I am a reader of the Decatur Daily Democrat, Decatur, Ind.

Test Your Knowledge

Can you answer seven of these ten questions? Turn to page Four for the answers.

1. Name the father and mother of Queen Elizabeth of England.
2. Who was the author of "Nicholas Nickleby"?
3. In what year was the war between the U. S. and Spain fought?
4. Who was William Lilly?
5. Where is the Kittatinny Mountain range?
6. What are vertebrate animals?
7. Which state is known as "The Centennial State"?
8. Name the first women's patriotic society to be organized in America.
9. What famous gold rush occurred in 1896?

10. What is kleptomania?

1. What is a clearing-house association?
2. Name the author of "The Tempest."
3. In geometry, what is an epicloid?
4. Who was Margaret Junkin Preston?
5. Under which President was John C. Calhoun Secretary of War?
6. In what year did the Boston Tea Party occur?
7. What is the medical name for an opaque condition of the lens of the eye?
8. Name the largest river in Russia.
9. What is the difference between interstate commerce, and intrastate commerce?
10. How long is a fathom?

Dance Wednesday Sunset.

Public Auction

FRIDAY, MAY 29 . . . 12 Noon

Horses - Cattle - Sheep and Hogs

Extra Good Horses.
Good Milch Cows, Heifers and Stock Bulls.
Brood Sows, Gilts and Boars.
24 head of Extra Good Feeding Shoates, weighing from 60 to 70 pounds.
Miscellaneous Articles.

DECATUR RIVERSIDE SALES

E. J. AHR and FRED C. AHR, Managers
Johnson and Doehman, aucts.

Roy H. Andress D.C.

LICENSED

CHIROPRACTOR

HOURS — DAILY
8 to 11 a. m. 12 to 5 p. m. 6 to 9 p. m.
Sunday by appointment.

Phone 1193

I MAKE HOUSE CALLS

Massage — Light Treatment

315 N. 4 st.

Decatur, Ind.

The Easiest and Simplest Way TO BORROW ON YOUR SIGNATURE ONLY

Any Amount Up to $300.

USE OUR MONTHLY BUDGET PLAN

Mo. Pay	Mo. Pay
A loan of $ 20.00.....$ 1.00	A loan of $125.00.....$ 6.25
A loan of $ 40.00.....$ 2.00	A loan of $150.00.....$ 7.50
A loan of $ 60.00.....$ 3.00	A loan of $200.00.....$10.00
A loan of $ 80.00.....$ 4.00	A loan of $250.00.....$12.50
A loan of $100.00.....$ 5.00	A loan of $300.00.....$15.00

With Interest. Other Amounts in Proportion.

LOANS ARRANGED SAME DAY YOU APPLY MEN OR WOMEN QUALIFY!

No One Else Need Sign! Friends, Relatives or Employer Will Not Know of Your Loan! Don't Delay... See Us Today!

REDUCED COST ON LOANS UP TO $300

LOCAL LOAN CO.

Phone 237 Over Schafer Hardware Store Decatur, Ind.

Latest News Of 4-H Activities In Adams County

Kirkland Girls

The Kirkland Girls' 4-H Club met Tuesday afternoon at the Kirkland high school. There were five new members taken into the club; Doris Collier, Mary Elizabeth Borne, Marjorie Byerly, Mildred Sovine, and Edna Worthman. The color you like best and why was discussed. The following members were Deloris Byerly, Mary J. Bieberich, Phyllis June Beineke, Deloris, Virginia, and Mary Jane Worden. Betty Yanev, Mary Anna Yake, Eileen Ehrsam, and Phyllis Beineke.

The next meeting will be held June 2 with Deloris Worden, Mary Bieberich, and Mary Elizabeth Borne as hostesses.

Happy Home Makers

The Root Township Happy Home Makers 4-H Club met at the Monmouth High School building Thursday afternoon, May 21, at 2:00. Those present were Marguerite Kison, Eleanor Johnson, Louise Bristol, Alice Tumbleson, Norma Tumbleson, Margaret Moses, and the leaders, Miss Helen Bohnke, Mrs.

SHERIFF SALE
In the Adams Circuit Court, State of Indiana, Cause Number 15306. Anna Schamerl vs. John D. Tinkham, Sarah Tinkham, The Lincoln National Life Insurance Co., a corporation, Blue Creek Cemetery Association.

By virtue of an order of sale to me directed and delivered from the clerk of the Adams Circuit Court in the above entitled cause, I have levied upon and will expose for sale by public auction, at the Court House, East entrance, first floor, in said County, between the hours of 10:00 o'clock A. M. and 4:00 o'clock P. M. on Thursday the 4th day of June, A. D. 1936, the rents and profits for a term not exceeding seven years of the following Real Estate to-wit:

Commencing at a point on the north boundary line of the west half of the southwest quarter of section sixteen (16) in township twenty-six (26) north of range fifteen (15) East, said County and State where Blue Creek crosses the center line of the said Blue Creek, thence west to the north west corner of said west half of said south west quarter of said section sixteen (16) thence running south to the said Blue Creek thence following the meanderings of said Blue Creek to the place of beginning, containing 40-100 acres heretofore deeded to Blue Creek Cemetery Association, and except also the following described tract to-wit: Commencing at a point four hundred ninety-one (491) feet south of the northwest corner of the southwest quarter (14) of section sixteen (16) township twenty-six (26) north range fifteen (15) East, Adams County, State of Indiana, thence running east twenty-four (24) rods, thence south six (6) rods, thence south forty-five (45) degrees west, seventeen (17) rods, more or less, to the line of the Cemetery lot, thence northwest along the line of the cemetery lot seventeen (17) rods, more or less to a point six (6) rods south of the place of beginning, thence north six (6) rods to the place of beginning, containing one and eight tenths (1.8) acres, more or less, situated in Adams County, Indiana.

And on failure to realize therefrom the full amount of the judgment and interest thereon and costs, I will at the said time and in the manner aforesaid offer for sale the fee simple of the above described real estate. Taken as the property of John D. Tinkham, Sarah Tinkham, The Lincoln National Life Insurance Co., a corporation, Blue Creek Cemetery Association at the suit of Anna Schamerl.

Said sale will be made without any relief whatever from valuation or appraisal.

Dallas Brown, Sheriff
Adams County
Lenhart, Heller, and Schurgen, Attys
May 19-26

NOTICE OF FINAL SETTLEMENT

Notice is hereby given to the creditors, heirs and legatees of Christian Mrtz, deceased, to appear in the wild goose chase, my dear. We'll wait till your wild goose comes home.

There was nothing to do but fortify herself with one of Bebe's cocktails and make the best of it, Diana decided.

As the room was chilly, and Genevieve had a cough, she lit the gas fire in the grate little grate.

SPRAGUE OFFERS

American Beauty Washers

$29.95 to $59.95

All the new models.

New and Used Pianos

$60 to $225

$5 down $1.50 per week

SPRAGUE FURNITURE CO.

152 South Second Street

Phone 199

Pauline Moses, and Mrs. Helen Rice.

The following officers were elected: President, Marguerite Kison; Vice-President, Louise Bristol; Secretary-treasurer, Eleanor Johnson; press reporter, Margaret Moses. The next meeting will be held at the same place and time on May 28.

Decatur 4-H

The Decatur 4-H Club met at the home of Josephine and Phyllis Daniels on May 15. The business meeting consisted of the setting of a date for the meetings of the club for the remainder of the club year. The meeting date was set for each Thursday afternoon at 2:00 until August 1.

A yell leader was selected, Mildred Blythe. A demonstration on "How to Make Appetizing Sandwiches" was given by Josephine Daniels. The girls were started on their project work at this meeting.

Songs and games were enjoyed after the business meeting. A delightful luncheon was served by the hostesses, Josephine and Phyllis Daniels.

COURT HOUSE

Appearances Filed

Guy Colerick and John L. DeVoss filed their appearances for Edgar and Oscar Werling in the injunction and damage suit brought by the Schatz Baking Company against Edgar and Oscar Werling, Charles and Erwin Miller and Miller Baking company. All defendants were ruled to answer.

Estate Cases

A petition and schedule to determine inheritance tax was filed in the estate of Frederick J. MacWhinney. It was referred to the county assessor.

An application for letters of administration was filed in the estate of Ellis H. Butcher. Bond was filed in the sum of $5,250. The bond was examined and approved. The letters were ordered, reported and confirmed.

ed. A petition to determine the inheritance tax was filed. It was referred to the county assessor.

Real Estate Transfers
Anna B. BBrewster et al to Nelson Schug et al, in-lots 403 and 404 in Berne for $1.

C. L. Walters, Commissioner, to William Gilbert, part of in-lot 248 in Decatur for $28.

J. Fred Fruchte to John H. Felger in-lot 805 in Decatur for $1,000.

Marriage Licenses

Miss Jaunita Steiner, rural route, Decatur, to Donald Russell, farmer, Grover Hill, Ohio.

Church Boasts Czarist Bell
San Francisco. (U.P.)—The Russian Orthodox church of this city claims one of the largest bells in the United States. It was the gift of a former czar.

See the Massey-Harris line of modern hay tools. Used tractors and implements. Meyer's Service, U. S. Road 27, 7 miles north Decatur. 12519x

"Sweepstakes on Love" by MAY CHRISTIE

CHAPTER XVI
"So nice of Mr. Gutman to devote his whole afternoon to us, house-hunting and all. And then bringing us here. I do call it kind of him, Genevieve."

"That remains to be seen when Roger arrives," Genevieve sipped her cocktail with tight and disapproving lips. She added darkly: "Bohemianism can be overcome."

As the minutes slipped by, and still no Roger, Diana's mood changed. He was treating them cavalierly. He had sent a message to her via Bernie Gutman that she telephone him this evening. Previous to that, he had made a dinner engagement with them, by letter. She glanced at her little wrist-watch. No Roger, and it was almost seven now!

Genevieve had embarked on her second cocktail. The first one had made her feel better, removed her fatigue. It was not Genevieve now who was indignant with Roger. It was Diana.

A clock somewhere outside chimed seven times.

"Genevieve, don't you think we'd better be going? Don't you think it seems a bit undignified for us to stay on up here?" she ventured.

But Genevieve was too comfortable in her easy chair. The second cocktail was doing its work.

"Isn't this Hollywood whose ways are not our ways, as you were just telling me, Diana?" she asked with faint irony. "Besides, where do we go from here, and who is to take us to dinner, or back to the bungalow? I didn't notice any taxis around Hollywood. Who's to take us back to our mountain-top?"

"There are plenty of taxis. We can 'phone for one."

"Better pick up the 'phone and ask that woman at the desk if Roger hasn't telephoned to get your message."

Diana communicated with the desk.

"Yeh, Mr. Dexter did call up a half-hour ago. I forgot you'd gone upstairs. Yeh, I told him that wasn't any message," came the drawing voice from the lobby.

"If he calls again, or when he comes in, tell him that Miss Darington and her mother are here."

But before Diana was at the end of her sentence, the indefatigable reader of movie magazines had hung up.

Exasperated, she again suggested leaving.

But Genevieve was obstinate now. "You dragged me here on a wild goose chase, my dear. We'll wait till your wild goose comes home."

There was nothing to do but fortify herself with one of Bebe's cocktails and make the best of it, Diana decided.

As the room was chilly, and Genevieve had a cough, she lit the gas fire in the grate little grate.

"Switch on a lamp or two," her mother said, "or he'll be walking in here and thinking he sees two Bebe's instead of one!" She was not usually facetious, but the cocktails were very potent.

Diana drank hers. But her depression remained.

In the few short weeks since she had last seen him at Regina's debut, would she find Roger altered?

He arrived at ten minutes after seven, full of apologies.

He had been kept late at the studio. He had 'phoned his hotel several times to know if there had been any message from them, but the fool of a woman at the desk had palled things up, as usual, and what could one do about it?

In the bright yellow light that spilled from the shaded lamps, Roger—thought Diana—looked unnaturally pale for one whom she had last seen deeply tanned.

He looked sick.

"Were you at the studios?" she asked, after they had shaken hands, her eyes fixed on his face so that she might catch the least change of expression. "The 'phone message relayed to us by the press agent, Mr. Gutman, was that you were sick in bed."

"And so I was," he said quickly, smiling in a deprecating sort of way, as though ashamed of his indisposition. "A touch of ptomaine that's been threatening for several days, as a matter of fact. But Falconer called me and wanted me on the set early this afternoon. Needs must be met."

"You assistant was here when we arrived. As you see, she kindly mixed some excellent cocktails for us."

For a second he looked nonplussed, then he said quickly: "That's swell! I could do with a tonic. I still feel wonky. Excuse me while I fetch a glass from the bathroom."

Diana finished her cocktail hastily while he was out of the room. She thought: "For heaven's sake, sparkle, can't you? Don't let him think you're peeved! Don't be small-minded!"

But for the life of her she could not keep from questioning him, although she knew it was a tactical mistake, because something inside her that was hurting urged her to get to the bottom of his delays.

"I 'phoned you from the Diplomat Hotel at half past twelve or quarter of one, but the girl at the desk said the 'phone didn't reply."

He was pouring his cocktail into the glass and she noticed how his hands were shaking. Poor boy, he did look sick.

"I told her I didn't want any calls put through. I was absolutely dizzy, Diana. I had a head like a balloon. But had I known that she was you, my dear—" He broke off.

She was asking herself how it was that Mr. Falconer had succeeded in reaching him? He saw the query in her eyes. He said: "Of course, you understand it's an unwritten law that—whether one's on one's death-bed, or the roof's fallen—all calls from one's studio must be put through on the dot!"

Diana accepted that explanation, telling herself that he had erred in the Art Department. Perhaps he had worked on the Falconer set through the entire afternoon?

Look here, you must be famished. Let me take you to the nearest spot for dinner."

Genevieve jumped at the suggestion. The cocktails had stimulated her usually lagging appetite.

They walked across the street and entered a charming garden restaurant.

The place seemed full of pretty girls, blonde predominating.

Did Roger often come here? Did he know many of them? With the Hollywood code that it was perfectly ethical to snatch anyone's beauty—that "if you could take it, you could give it"—Diana somehow felt uneasy about Roger who was so outstandingly good-looking and attractive.

Gought she and Genevieve to have come here to live, instead of removing themselves to a hilltop?

But this place was surely much more expensive than the modest, isolated court in which they had rented a bungalow? They would never have been able to afford it on her salary.

"Let's have another little round of cocktails? Manhattan or Martinis or Old-Fashioned?" Roger suggested as he picked up the table d'hotel menu.

They had Old-Fashioneds, since Bebe's cocktails had been Manhattan and the two kinds blended—or Roger insisted that they did.

"But no more drinks for me," said Diana firmly when he would have ordered wine with their dinner. "I have to be at the studio at eight tomorrow morning, Roger."

Her spirits lifted. She was to see lots of Roger. Why fear rivals? Forget about Bebe. Forget about these beautiful platinum-blond creatures that kept glancing over at their table, and whispering to one another, as though discussing him—or her—or both of them.

They were half way through dinner when a disturbing thing happened.

A red-headed girl had come in with a thin, dark escort, and as she passed their table that was near the door, she leaned toward Roger for a moment, whispering silylantly: "Some party last night, wasn't it?"

Diana pretended not to have heard.

But Genevieve, stimulated by the cocktails, was less tactful.

"So that was the reason you were hors de combat this morning, Roger?" she challenged him archly.

Having picked up a precarious living for Diana and herself these last few years, via the business world and the commission racket, Genevieve was no fool where men were concerned.

An aristocrat she might be, but that didn't prevent her putting two and two together, vulgarly speaking.

For the past hour she had been wondering if it would be worth their while to continue on the same intimate terms with this young man whose movie hitherto had doubtless covered a multitude of peccadilloes . . . one could excuse them in the heat of millions . . . but how much was left of that colossal fortune? And what sort of a life was Roger living in the movie city now?

Then and there, Genevieve made up her mind that she would thoroughly investigate Roger's financial position.

Diana thought herself in love with him. But at eighteen, one expected school-girl infatuations. They could be checked, if necessary.

Knowing that Genevieve had overheard that fool of a red-haired woman, and probably Diana, for all her well-bred silence, had also heard the phrase: "Some party!" Roger said nonchalantly: "You'll find that asinine remark everywhere in Hollywood, referring to one drink or gallons of them! As a matter of fact, I was working some designs out at Huntington's last evening—he's one of the best scenic artists in the colony and a peach of a good fellow—when around ten o'clock we were interrupted by a bunch of whist goats who, according to the Hollywood custom, think every house out here is a likely spot for a drink. This particularly because they were already pretty 'high' when they arrived. Huntington foolishly but generously gave them the run of his cellar. I cleared out before eleven, and believe it or not, still on the wagon!"

"Which you're making amends for now," supplemented Genevieve tartly. Hypocrites she could not bear, she told herself. She simply didn't believe Roger, and hoped that Diana didn't, either.

No child of hers could be a complete idiot.

Although Diana tried to keep up a run of cheerful conversation, the dinner that should have been so festive was something of a failure.

Roger, it was obvious, was suffering from a hangover, which the cocktails did little to remove.

(To Be Continued)

Copyright, 1935, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

MARKET REPORTS

DAILY REPORT OF LOCAL AND FOREIGN MARKETS

Brady's Market for Decatur, Berne, Craigville, Hoagland and Willshire. Close at 12 Noon.

Corrected May 26.

No commission and no yardage. Veals received Tuesday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday.

100 to 120 lbs.	$ 8.90
120 to 140 lbs.	9.00
140 to 160 lbs.	9.50
160 to 230 lbs.	9.50
230 to 270 lbs.	9.40
270 to 300 lbs.	9.20
300 to 350 lbs.	9.00
Roughs	8.25
Stags	6.25
Vealers	9.25
Spring lambs	10.00
Clipped lambs	9.00
Yearling lambs	5.00

INDIANAPOLIS LIVESTOCK

Indianapolis, May 26. — (U.P.)—Livestock:

Hogs, 7,500; holdovers, 126; 25c higher on 160 lbs. up; light lights and pigs steady; 160-225 lbs., $10.05-10.15; top, $10.20; 225-260 lbs., $9.85-10.05; 260-300 lbs., $9.65-9.85; 300-350 lbs., $9.45-9.55; 130-160 lbs., $9.50-10.00; 100-130 lbs., $8.75-9.25; packing sows mostly, $8.25-8.75.

Cattle, 2,300; calves, 1,000; opening fully steady on all classes; early steer lambs, $8-8.25; beefers mostly $8-8.35; few $8.40; heifers cows, $5.25-5.65; cutter grades mostly $4.25-5.5; vealers 1 lower than early Monday; good to choice mostly $9-9.50.

Sheep, 700; market fully steady, few spring lambs, $9-12.50; one load good clipped lambs $10.50; slaughter ewes mostly $3.75 down.

GRAIN RANGE

	May	July	Sept.
Wheat	30%	83%	84%
Corn	64%	59%	57%
Oats	23%	24%	25%

CLEVELAND PRODUCE

Cleveland, O., May 26. — (U.P.)—Produce:

Butter, steady; extras, 30c; standards, 30c.

Eggs, weak; extra firsts, 19c; current receipts, 18½c.

Live poultry, steady; heavy hens, 5½ lbs. up, 21c; ducks, spring, small, 14c; old, 12c.

Potatoes, 100-pound bags, Ohio, $2.40-$2.50; Michigan, $2.40-$2.50; Idaho, $3.75; 50-lb. box, $2.25; 15-lb. box, 55c; new Texas, 50-lb. bag, $1.85-2; Alabama and Louisiana, $3.75-4; South Carolina, $3.50-3.75; No. 1, bibl., $7.50; California, $4.45-25; No. 2, $3.35-25.

FORT WAYNE LIVESTOCK

Fort Wayne, Ind., May 26. — (U.P.)—Livestock:

Hogs steady; 160-180 lbs., $10.15; 180-200 lbs., $10.05; 200-225 lbs., $9.95; 225-250 lbs., $8.55; 250-275 lbs., $9.75; 275-300 lbs., $9.60; 300-350 lbs., $9.35; 140-160 lbs., $9.85; 120-140 lbs., $9.70; 100-120 lbs., $9.55.

Roughs, $8.25; stags, $6.50.