THE REXALL STOREThree years ago farms and other real estate were being offered for sale and even though prices were lower than they are now, you couldn't find buyers, the banks didn't have money to lend. Now the offers are snapped up and the purchasers are able to finance the deals. And it didn't take three long years to bring about this prosperous condition.The Reverend G. S. Lozier, newly appointed pastor of the Evangelical church was honored and officially welcomed by his congregation Tuesday evening. Decatur also joins in extending greetings to its new minister. Reverend Lozier was no doubt impressed with the sincerity and hospitality displayed and we assure him that it was real. His residence here should be numbered the happiest years of his life.The Indiana Grain Dealers represent one of the major enterprises in the country—that of farming. In this state there are more than 200,000 farms, with more than a million people dependent upon the returns from the soil and the capital invested in lands and buildings run way up in the millions of dollars. Through the dealers the surplus crops raised by the individual farmer is gathered at the elevator and shipped to the markets of the world. The country is dependent upon the dealers, as well as the farmer who tills the soil and produces the crop. Without them the cities would go hungry.Growing, growing, growing, is the condition at the Central Soya plant. Following additions and improvements made last year and this spring, announcement has been made that work will start immediately on the construction of larger storage facilities for the soya bean plant. When completed the company will have space to store more than a million bushels of beans, making it the largest plant of its kind in the middle west.
Only an infant as far as period of time is measured, the local company is cutting a stride which places it in first rank position and

FAVOR LIFTING
OF SANCTIONSForeign Secretary Eden Defends Great Britain's Stand

London, June 18 — (UP)— Italy has conquered Ethiopia and Great Britain does not intend to go to war in the Mediterranean to change the situation, foreign secretary Anthony Eden told the house of Commons today in a general debate on foreign affairs.

Great Britain favors the lifting of League of Nations sanctions against Italy and an effort to come to terms in Europe.

"The government is not prepared to take military action," he declared earnestly.

Previous to his speech, Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin assured the house that Britain's re-armament is being speeded up because of the dangerous situation in Europe.

Eden revealed that he himself had advised the government to support the discontinuance of sanctions at the coming league meeting in Geneva.

"After mature consideration on the advice which I as foreign secretary, thought it my duty to give," he said, "I concluded that there is no longer utility in continuing these measures as a means of pressure against Italy."

Eden hinted that a new Mediterranean pact might arise from the ashes of sanctions.

"It is the government's view," he said, "That the assurances of mutual assistance from Britain to various Mediterranean countries should not end with the raising of sanctions."

It would be easy for us not to take the lead," Eden said. "I am convinced that, far from embarrassing others, the lead we shall take will be welcomed in many quarters."

When Eden mentioned the prosactionist speech made by his predecessor Sir Samuel Hoare, at Geneva last September, Gallacher cried: "What about it now?" Later Gallacher taunted Eden with "you are running away."

Eden, exasperated, said:
"The honorable member's cheap jibes are inappropriate here."

Later Eden frankly admitted:
"There is no question that the judgment of the league passed in the autumn regarding an act of aggression is being modified and reversed." first biennial convention of the Evangelical and Reformed church left for their homes in all parts of the country today after completing merger of the old Evangelical Synod of North America and Reformed Church in the States.

Last business of the session was to bring together men's lay of the parent churches into organization, the new brotherhood. The new will hold its first conven-Buffalo, N. Y., August 15-18.
The new church, first con-by merger two years ago in band, adopted a constitu-by-laws and made plans the educational and mis-of both denominations.
