Behind the Scenes in HOLLYWOOD

By HARRISON CARROLL

Copyright, 1937, King Features Syndicate, Inc.
HOLLYWOOD—Protection devices planned for Barbara Stanwyck's valley home are the most formidable yet. Really fascinating in its possibilities is a loud speaker system with mikes installed at strategic points.

A woman's scream into one of these mikes can be heard for a QUARTER OF A MILE.
Boy, what a practical joker could do with a thing like that!

To hear Tyrone Power earnestly protest that there isn't anyone else out there, is to believe that this romance is going to last. The blonde queen of the ice rinks is due back here in the middle of February, and we shall see.

Interesting assertion from John Ford.
"Any player who isn't an established star is a fool to try to divide the limelight between the stage and the screen. I have found it out from experience. Every time I came back to Hollywood, I had to start from scratch again. Hereafter, I'm leaving Broadway alone!"

Answering Your Questions! M. J. Los Angeles: Ross Alexander's name will be moved down from second to last place in billing his picture, "Ready, Willing and Able." Dancer Lee Dixon profits by the change, as his name moves behind Ruby Keeler's. As to "Kid Galahad," Alexander was omitted out of this cast even before he committed suicide.

Along with its other mischief, the flu will leave Jean Harlow homeless for the president's ball in Washington. Don't get the wrong idea. There will be some rags covering the Harlow curves, but the special dress Jean has designed for the occasion remains unfinished on the sewing machine of her modiste, who is down with the snivels and fever. Harlow, too, that there are sev-

Flash! The funny part about the Katharine Hepburn-Howard Hughes business was that Speed-Flyer Hughes took June Lang to dinner the night of his record trip. In fact, the two were at the Club Casanova when weather observers phoned him a favorable report. He sent June home in a taxi and dashed for his plane. Incidentally, this blonde actress says her romance with Vic Orsatti is definitely a thing of the past.

will have a business meeting at the K. of C. hall Tuesday evening after church. After the meeting the degree team will meet. All members are urged to attend.

Home Garden Offsets High Food Costs

Enables Householder to Maintain Standards of Living Without Increase of Income.

With the recent increase in cost of food products, backyard gardening again assumes economic importance in the average American home, and millions of vegetable gardens will be made this spring because of the money which can be saved, as well as for the fun of making them, and the superior quality of their product.

With all the talk of dietetics, "greens," and vitamins, it has become pretty well known that besides the savings resulting from a home garden, the health and vigor to be had from good fresh vegetables from your own garden is incalculable in terms of dollars and cents. Those families who are limited to an inelastic budget, those who would protect their health, and more especially those who would enjoy the taste of real fresh vegetables, should begin to plan early.

If you are in the habit of growing a casual row of peas, or beans, or corn, just because your mother always did, that's one thing, but if you want a garden that will really assist in filling in the family budget, that's quite another. Start by measuring the available space you have, order a catalog from a reliable seed house, and then begin to plan for just how many vegetables you can grow in the coming season. Remember that you should have fresh vegetables from May until September, and should plan accordingly.

If your space is only ten by twenty feet, you can eliminate corn, potatoes, pumpkins and others that take a lot of space, concentrating on the smaller varieties. But no matter how large or small, there are some vegetables that you can grow. First of all, then, determine just what you want to have on the amount of space available. Your seed catalog will assist you here.

The next step is to decide on how many are wanted, when they would be most useful, and exactly what spot in the garden will accommodate them. Do this by making a chart of the garden, row by row, recording the variety and date of first planting, the approximate date of the harvest, and what is to succeed. The principle of succession—that is, following one vegetable with another — is very important if a large production is needed in a small space. For instance, the first sowing in one row could be a hardy crop such as peas, and when that is harvested, tomato sets might be put in, to be followed by a quick growing fall radish or lettuce, or a frost-resisting legume, such as turnips.

By planning with careful attention given to succession, you can have a garden that will thrill the pocketbook as well as the palate, and it will be fun in the bargain.

Unclaimed funds in the closed banks here are being investigated and in several cases the balances have been donated to the Red Cross. Dr. Fred Patterson, president of the old Decatur Chorus choir received $24.83 from the Peoples Loan and Trust company and will donate the money to the flood relief fund.

Haptmann Attorney

In Insane Hospital

Dr. Mortimer Sherman, an alienist who filed the papers, said Reilly's marital trouble and worry over Hauptmann's electrocution were responsible for what he termed "a severe nervous breakdown."

The Morning After Taking Carter's Little Liver Pills

When we say Chesterfields are Milder and Better Tasting it means something...

Ageing..

like fine wines

THOUSANDS of casks of mild, ripe tobacco are stored away in these modern Chesterfield warehouses, where for three long years they become milder and mellower. Ageing improves tobacco just like it improves fine wine. Nothing else can take the place of mild, ripe tobacco. Nothing can take the place of three years of ageing if you want to make a cigarette that is milder and better-tasting.

Mild, ripe home-grown and aromatic Turkish tobaccos ... aged three years ... make Chesterfield an outstanding cigarette ... milder and better-tasting.
