Marr was arraigned in Grant superior court late yesterday on charges of violating the Indiana securities law but withheld pending arrival of his lawyer in Chicago.

Meanwhile Ray Norman, 38, Marquette clerk, and Curtis Strange, also from Marion, alleged accomplices of the fashionably-dressed former Detroit real estate operator pleaded guilty to violation of the securities act in connection with the extensive sales of interest securities. Both men reportedly recommended the stock market citizens.

An affidavit filed by Ernest W. of the Indiana securities commission alleged Norman received $150 commission for the sale of 30 shares of stock in Grand American National Corporation, Inc., to Emma J. Brown, a widow.

Similar affidavit for Strange indicated he obtain a $90 commission in connection with sale of stock to Carrie E. Seeger, another widow.

Owen Dickey withheld sentence until the case of Marr has disposed. Strange and Norman were released under $1,500 each.

Garland Twaddle, 42, Goshen state police said acted as a man for Marr, pleaded not guilty and was turned over to Goshen authorities.

Representing himself as an agent of the Grand National, Inc., an insurance company incorporated in Chicago, Marr is accused of trading scores of other Indiana residents by exchanging his stock in their securities of proven value.

Police continued to receive telephone calls from northern Indiana persons bringing additional evidence in the investigation of the alleged parties of the dapper ex-husband Alice Marr, Hollywood, movie star.

Report Revolt

(Copyright 1937 by United Press) Casablanca, French Morocco, Mar. 31.—(UPI)—A Moorish corporal's tip to authorities brought into the open an anti-nationalist plot that might have threatened the entire Spanish insurgent cause, news from Spanish Morocco said today.

Reports reaching Casablanca were as follows:

The revolt centered at Tetuan. Plans called for an uprising there. Then there was to be uprisings at Larache and El Ksar. Finally it was intended that the revolt should spread to Spain proper.

Leaders in the plot were 150 Spanish officers, mostly aviators. They believed confidently that they would have the support of army troops—who are impressed into service and never have been prominent in the civil war.

So serious was the movement regarded that Gen. Francisco Franco, nationalist commander in chief and dictator, went personally with his staff to Spanish Morocco to take charge.

Indications were that for the moment at least the revolt had been suppressed. But picked men of the foreign legion were posted at airfields and it was apparent that the situation in nationalist Morocco was still an explosive one.
