LIST SCHEDULE FOR ATHLETICS IN YOUTH WEEK

Athletic Events Scheduled During Youth Week Observance

The schedule of athletic events to be held in connection with the annual observance of Youth Week in Decatur was announced today by Bryce Thomas, general chairman of the week's observance.

The first softball game for the grade school championship of the city will be played between the Central and St. Joe schools Friday afternoon. The game, scheduled to start at 3 o'clock, will be played at the South Ward diamond.

The second game of the series will be played at 3 p. m. Friday, April 23. If a third game is necessary, it will be played early the following week.

Individual events for the boys and girls of the two grade schools will be completed Thursday of this week.

The annual track meet between Central and St. Joe will be held at the Central school yard Monday afternoon, April 26, at 3 o'clock.

One of the features of Youth Week will be held at the South Ward diamond Wednesday, April 28, at 5 o'clock. The winner of the Central-St. Joe softball championship series will meet a team picked from members of the Rotary club.

In this game, first played two years ago, the Rotary club edged out a victory over Central, winners of the city series in 1935. No game was played last year because of adverse weather conditions.

Youth Week in Decatur, from Saturday, April 24, to Saturday, May 1, inclusive, is again sponsored jointly by the Rotary and Woman's clubs of this city.

New York, Apr. 13. — (U.P.) — The United States Davis cup team lost its chance to challenge England for the trophy last year when, from the depths of his inexperience, young Gene Mako elected to make the easiest sort of shot the hardest sort of way.

Partnering Don Budge in the doubles against Australia in the North American zone final, Mako, with his side at match point, was offered a soft lob set-up at the net. Both his opponents, Jack Crawford and Adrian Quist, were hopelessly out of position. All Mako had to do to end the match was to tap the ball over the net—anywhere. But he was too anxious to end the battle, and end it in a spectacular manner. So, rising up on his toes he put everything he had into a backhand smash—and netted. Inspired by this the Australians came on to win the doubles and the decisive point of the tie.

To see that inexperience doesn't rob this year's team of a match the United States Lawn Tennis Association has engaged George Lott, Jr., to coach the cup doubles tandem. The retention of Lott was such a smart thing to do that many of the critics who know the governing body of tennis in this country could scarce believe the news. The finest doubles player this country has ever produced, Lott will send out a cup team which knows all the answers. The youngsters may not be able to bring off all the shots, but you may be sure that they will take the court knowing what to do.

In winning at Wimbledon, Forest Hills, Longwood, and on nearly all the other ranking turf of the world, Lott became immune to pressure. The match point that Mako muffed would have been just another shot to Lott. I remember watching him play with Lester Stoeft in a match in the Queens club tournament at London. Stoeft had been badly off his game throughout the match and so, when the opponents came to match point Lott halted the game and shoofed Lester off the court.

"You can't hit your hat today," Lott said good naturedly, "so you will please go over there and lean against the fence until I bring the score to deuce."

Lester complied and Lott, playing one against two, staved off the match point with a lob that nicked the baseline.

I trust, however, that our young doubles team will not adopt the new coach as a sartorial mentor.

Because Lott is not exactly the Beau Brummel of the courts. His favorite outfit, as an amateur, at least, consisted of a pair of flannel trousers that, from the looks of them, were his high school graduation present, and a woolen shirt whose tails refused to be subjected to the tyranny of a belt. The flannels were faded a pale yellow, and fit as snugly as the cycling pants of a gay nineties dandy.

On one occasion at Wimbledon, when the queen was in the royal box, his teammates urged Lott to discard this outfit in favor of beautifully tailored flannels and a stylish shirt with the Davis cup seal on the bosom. But he refused and went forth to play for the queen. After the first set he wearied of walking to the umpire's chair for a towel and so, with a graceful gesture, tied the big bath towel around his waist. For the remainder of the match he played with it flapping behind him. And, for the first time in the memory of the oldest Wimbledon critic, the queen laughed out loud.

REDS TO MEET TIGERS SUNDAY

Cincinnati To Play Detroit In Final Pre-Season Tilt

Cincinnati, O., Apr. 13. — (Special) — The Cincinnati Reds make their first appearance of the 1937 season before Cincinnati fans Sunday, April 18, when they meet the highly talented and colorful Detroit Tigers at Crosley Field at 2:30. Sunday's contest terminates the Red's thirty-five game training camp schedule, the last four games of which are booked with the Tigers.

The Tigers, number one threat to the American league championship now held by the New York Yankees will present their entire array of diamond talent against the Red stockings. Led by their fiery and capable manager, Mickey Cochrane, the Bengals afford Cincinnati baseball followers an opportunity to see many of the top-notch American leaguers in action, such as Hank Greenberg, Goose Goslin, Marvin Owen, Gerald Walker, Bill Rogell, and the great Charley Geringer, peer of all second basemen in baseball.

An early look at Manager Charley Dresen's Reds will prove to Cincinnati fans that the Redlegs are going to be a battling team during this year's championship race, with hard play a common characteristic rather than an unusual incident.

The Red pilot will show all of his newly acquired additions in the Detroit contest Sunday. Jim Outlaw, former Nashville third sacker, will play the hot corner, with the versatile Frank McCormick, prize of the Red training camp this year, scheduled to show his wares at second base. Phil Weintraub and Joe Dwyer, hard hitting outfielders, will cavort in the outer gardens for the first time before Cincinnati fans.

The pitching assignment for the Detroit game rests between Manager Dresen's three youthful mound aspirants, Johnny Vander Meer, Lloyd "Whitey" Moore, and Lee "The Terrible" Grissom.

In an hour or so yesterday the court turned upside down long-prevailing opinions on the scope of federal authority over industry.

As of today, the operators of a plant which buys or sells outside its home state is more likely than not to be subject to directions from Washington with respect to certain employment policies hitherto beyond the power of the federal government. And it is the consensus of the capital that the regulatory movement will be pushed on all fronts as far as the outside limits of authority now conceded by the supreme court.

In its Wagner decisions the court maintained its record of upholding all new deal cases which have come to decision in the session which began last October. These include the arms embargo, tax on silver profits, ban against prison made goods, outlawing of gold bullion contracts, national firearms act, railway labor act, and the Frazier-Lemke farm mortgage act.

Sen. Robert F. Wagner, D., N.Y., author of the labor relations act, said the latest decision in favor of an administration measure "accepted the broader view that our nationwide social and economic system makes it imperative to treat that system on a national scale if the system is to be preserved at all."

Hopes for industrial peace soared because collective bargaining, now assured, has been a prime source of labor trouble. It was the disputed point in 47.8 per cent of 1936 strikes compared with 5.7 per cent in 1931.

New Peace Era

Supreme court validation of the Wagner labor relations act appeared today to presage a new era of industrial peace. Labor observers believed it might lessen the threat of a strike in the plants of the Ford Motor company.

While leaders of the United Automobile Workers union in Detroit accelerated their organizing drive in the Ford factories, Chairman J. Warren Madden of the national labor relations board expressed the opinion in Washington that the company would be subject to the labor law under the court's interpretation of the act.

The threat of a strike had centered about union recognition which becomes mandatory under the act.

The labor situation in both the United States and Canada was improving.

At Oshawa, Ontario, where the

Farr-Way

CLEANERS

U. A. W. staged a picketing strike, government intervention appeared likely and union leaders accepted the offer of Norman Rogers, minister of labor, to serve as a mediator.

At Hershey, Pa., the United Chocolate workers—an affiliate of the committee for industrial organization—agreed to settle an 11-day old strike which had been marked by violence. Wages and hours of workers remained unchanged; the union agreed not to coerce non-union workers, the company agreed not to interfere with union activities.
