

American Chorines More Shapely

A Veteran of 40 years in the show business, C. B. Cochran is known as the "English Ziegfeld". In producing more than 130 plays and musical comedies, he has formed certain conclusions about the type of chorus girls found in Britain and the United States. American chorines are more shapely, but they lack the personality found in their British sisters, he believes.

active today. Developments in-cluded:
1. The senate postoffice com-mittee will decide today whether to extend its investigation of alleged strike area mail delivery irregularities and whether Post-master General James A. Farley shall be summoned to testify.
2. A senate resolution for in-vestigation of alleged steel com-pany violations of the Wagner labor relations act probably will be referred to the LaFollette cyll liberties committee.
3. House leaders decided to take up the administration farm tenancy bill providing $85,000,000 in the next three calendar years for long-time farm purchase loans and $50,000,000 for federal purchase of sub-marginal land.
4. House Democratic leaders sided with the administration in behalf of action at this session on wage and hours legislation and the senate labor committee was summoned to begin redrafting the administration bill.
Senate Majority Leader Joseph T. Robinson had planned to open debate this week on the judiciary reorganization bill, but announced on return from Jefferson Island yesterday that it would go over until after July 4.

Some 200 house and senate Democrats were guests on the island at one time or another during a weekend of more social than political significance.
When the last guests disembarked at Annapolis, Md., yesterday most authoritative word was that of Postmaster General Farley who said the president would insist on action at this session on his plans to reorganize the supreme court and the executive branch of the government.

ordinary working permits.
Young workers, who as minors are required to have permits before receiving employment are asked to observe the regulations in this regard. Employers and school officials have also instigated a war against young people falsifying their ages in order to secure employment, it is stated.
Students of the rural schools may receive their permits at the county school superintendent's office in the court house and local youths may get theirs at the offices of Mr. Krick in the public high school.
Rigid enforcement of employment laws have also occasioned many

DIVORCE LAW REMANDED

BY INDIAN COMMUNITY
Spinagar, India — (UP) — The Kashmiri Pandit community is up in arms for a divorce act, the first Hindu community to declare in favor of divorce. It took an act of savagery to bring this about.
A resident of the community, graduate of an Indian university, became so enraged at his wife when she refused him money that he destroyed one of her eyes. The act so enraged the populace that a demonstration of more than 4,000 persons in protest and to urge a divorce act.

Candles Give Fire Illusion

San Diego, Cal. (U.P.) — The San Diego fire department rushed its equipment to the Academy of Our Lady of Peace here early in the morning when a passer-by reported the interior of the chapel in flames. There was no fire, only the reflection cast by hundreds of candles placed on the altar.

Rivalry Over Nuggets Rises

Dunolly, Australia (U.P.) — This city is protesting energetically against recent claims that the world's largest gold nugget was found at Ballarat in 1852 and weighed 2,195 ounces. This community has an obelisk that records that John Deason on Feb. 5, discovered the Welcome Stranger nugget that tipped the scales at 2,316 ounces.

WILDERNESS AREA URGED

IN FORESTS OF OREGON
Roseburg, Ore. (UP)—A region of primitive wilderness, 20 miles square embracing 20,000 acres, unmarked by human construction and unpenetrated by roads or trails except as necessary for fire protection, may be created in the Umpqua National Forest, according to plans revealed by V. V. Harpham, supervisor.
The project, which will provide the largest wilderness area in Oregon, is being placed before civic groups and sportsmen's organizations in an effort to sound opinion before action is taken.

Burglars Enjoy Humor

Poultry Apartment Built

New York (U.P.) — All the comforts of the barnyard, with many modern improvements, are embodied in a new apartment house for chickens the American Poultry Journal reports. This chicken house de luxe, built in New Hampshire, is four stories high and has elevators, electric lights, running water in every apartment and scientific ventilation.

Old Invoice Irks Grocer

Cleveland (U.P.) — Matthew Konfel, veteran grocer, flew into a rage when he saw an invoice for merchandise sold to him by a wholesale grocer. Such prices as "soap, $6.60 a case—sugar, $28.55 per 100 pounds," were a ridiculous overcharge according to the current prices, he believed. The questioned invoice was dated 1920.

CHAPTER XXXX

"Keep me posted on how Rose comes out," called Sam after him. "If she gets in a jam—well, there is such a thing as the power of the press, even that of a miserable weekly sheet. We might stir up something... a dose of arsenic for instance."
Jonathan was laughing as he went down the rickety stairs and made for the car and the hospital. Mrs. Enders was waiting for him. After he had seen his patient she told him that a lawyer had come to see her. A Mr. Foster, representing the Dexters, had sent word that they wished to be generous. They were convinced that the accident had not been their son's fault. But they were willing to see the boy through his medical expenses... they offered five hundred dollars.
"Did you take it?" asked Jonathan sharply.
"No, Doctor. I—I didn't know what to do. Five hundred dollars is a lot of money," she said, twisting her needle-scarred hands, "and—but I thought I'd ask you."
He said, "Look, gamble on this, will you? If you don't win, I'll see that the hospital is paid and your doctor costs you nothing." "Meaning I'll get you a lawyer. In fact, come along with me, and we'll get him together."
He drove her, before she could protest, to Fred Patten Bates' office. Ushering her in he told Fred, who rose, astonished at this influx of clients on a dull day, "This is Mrs. Enders, Fred. Her boy was injured last night by Larry Dexter, who was doing a nice spot of drunken driving. The Dexters admit no culpability and I'm afraid they have the police sewed up as well as any eye witnesses. I think the Phillips might stick. It happened outside their house. And I'll stick. The Dexters have offered Mrs. Enders five hundred dollars. Now... maybe we won't get to court but would you take the case on a—"
"Contingency basis!" shouted Fred. "Never mind the fee." He waved his hand as if brushing aside a thousand dollar retainer. "If he was drunk... Oh boy!" he said inadequately. "I'd give five years of my life to get that gang into court and make 'em squirm! You're on!"
Mrs. Enders, her hands folded, watched them quietly. She was accustomed to masterful men. Her husband had been one. For the moment Jack was cared for, he was out of danger, and she trusted Jonathan Kimber and this funny little lawyer on whom she had never laid eyes before. She watched them doing an Indian dance around the office and silently hoped that if Jack selected a profession he would conduct himself with more dignity.
On the day Sam's paper came out with its version of the Dexter accident, including drawings of the scene of the accident and a none too veiled reference to the condition of the driver of the car, protected by a couple of dozen "allegeds," Rose was called before a special meeting of the Board.
