HISTORICAL CLUB MEETS AT HOME OF MRS. KRICK

Seventeen members of the Historical club met at the home of Mrs. Frank Krick Wednesday afternoon. The collect was repeated and current events given.

Mrs. Fred Hancher read an interesting and instructive paper on "The Miracles of Radio." She traced back five hundred years before the Christian era to tell how men had tried to communicate rapidly with each other. She told of the Athenian runner carrying news of victory at Marathon; of signal fires on successive mountain tops telling the Greeks that Troy had fallen; of the smoke rings and burning arrows of American Indians; the elaborate signal system of the army and navy and in the 19th century, the telegraph and telephone and then the radio.

"Radio is most important on the high seas. Every ship is equipped with a receiving and a sending set. There are certain designated 'quiet times' when radio on every ship at sea is still so the faintest S. O. S. signal can be picked up."
"All nations have accepted the S. O. S. as a signal of distress and C. Q. as 'stand by we need help.'"

Mrs. Hancher told of a radio brain which can be connected with a receiving set to pick up signals at sea. It rings bells and flashes lights and is used by ships with but one radio operator.

She cited incidents of commercial use of radio and told how President Wilson opened the Panama-Pacific exposition in San Francisco from his office in Washington.

Sub-topics were given on 'Facsimile' a new word in radio, by Mrs. Sam Butler, Mrs. John Schug, Mrs. Delton Passwater and Mrs. W. P. Robinson. Mrs. W. F. Beery told of the visit of the M. E. Home missionary society to radio station WOWO in Fort Wayne.

Dainty refreshments in keeping with the approaching Easter season were served by the hostess, Mrs. Jesse LeBrun was a guest other than members.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. John Schug at two o'clock Wednesday afternoon, with Mrs. David Campbell of Bluffton as the hostess.

MISS PATRICIA SCHNEPP IS HOSTESS TO HER CLASS

The intermediate class of the Union Chapel Sunday school met at the home of Miss Patricia Schnepf Tuesday evening. During the short business meeting, plans were made for a weiner roast at Hanna-Nuttman park in May.

During the evening, games were enjoyed. Dainty refreshments were served at the close of the evening by the hostess, assisted by her mother.

Those present were Meriam Brown, Evelyn Miller, Geraldine Roughia, Betty Walters, Olga Schnepf, Warren Nidlinger, Don Brown, Oscar Bristol, Ivan Howard, Arnold Roughia, Mrs. Freeman Schnepf, Elizabeth Cramer and the hostess.

FOUR BIRTHDAYS OBSERVED SUNDAY

The birthday anniversaries of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Sudduth, their son Argo and their granddaughter Agness Jane Werts were celebrated Sunday with a family dinner at the Sudduth home. Mr. Sudduth was 51 years old and Mrs. Sudduth, 50.

The dining table was centered with two birthday cakes. Covers were laid for:

Aaron Odle, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Spade, Fred Conrad, Mr. and Mrs. Chalmers West and daughter Agness, Mr. and Mrs. Argo Sudduth, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Sudduth and daughter Betty Jean.

Behind the Scenes in HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD—Writer friends of the late Austin Parker are going through his 170 published works and will try to sell some of them to the movies to increase the estate for his daughter.

A man of marked reserve, Parker was known to a few as one of Hollywood's most colorful characters. With William Wellman and Merian Cooper, he flew in the Lafayette Escadrille. Later, he fought for the Moors against the Rifas. And, at one time, he was in the U. S. intelligence service in Panama.

This fall Parker was to have produced Ernest Hemingway's first play on the Spanish war. One of his own scripts, written in collaboration with his former wife, Miriam Hopkins, is in the hands of Max Gordon.

The author was a crony of Ronald Colman and William Powell. Inside of the small circle of friends who really knew him, Parker's death is mourned as few have been in Hollywood.

What price separation for honeymooners? Since James Dunn has been on a personal appearance tour in Winnipeg, Minneapolis, Chicago and Kansas City, he has spent over $800 telephoning to Frances Gifford.

At Herb Kay's opening at the Coconut Grove, Charlie McCarthy, as usual, was the hit of the evening, especially when he paraphrased it:

"I think that I shall never see a dog that doesn't love a tree." On appearance at the Grove, Bergen keeps Charlie in a suitcase underneath the piano. He is constantly afraid that somebody will steal the famous dummy.

Dorothy Lamour's presence at the opening was a feat of devotion. She had to come up from location at Balboa. Which meant getting up at 4 a. m. for the return drive. While Husband Herb Kay directed the orchestra, Dorothy danced most of the time with Randolph Scott. Unusual twosome was George Mason with Carol Stone. He used to be engaged to Sister Paula.

Ann Miller's most embarrassing moment was when she went to look at apartments at the Hermoyne.

They were showing her the swimming pool and she fell in, clothes and all.

Peter Lorre is back at Twentieth Century-Fox after three weeks in the hospital with an infected tooth. And even after "The Mysterious Mr. Moto" goes into production, he'll have to report to the doctor twice a day. This thriller, incidentally, will be Mary Maguire's first at Fox.

My remark about personal difficulties with the rhumba brought numerous letters from fellow sufferers; also a note from a dancing instructor who says: "we real are specialists at curing such trouble." Lady, you can't give me back the springiness of the twenties.

The press agent for the La Conga called, too. Says they are willing to help improve the quality of the Hollywood rhumba and, hereafter, will give free lessons from three to five on Sundays.

At first, I thought it was a phony, but Marjorie Weaver, her stand-in, Judy Parks, and her secretary, Ebby Jerring, al. have been working at a dress shop on Camden drive in Beverly Hills. To help out the proprietress who is a friend . . . and whose little boy is very ill.

Ralph Bellamy also lost a cellarful of 17-year-old bourbon in the flood. . . . All the actor has been able to find in digging around the site where his house once stood are a bathtub and two jars of dill pickles. . . . The Dick Forans' baby isn't expected for a month and a half yet. . . . But it's a boy at the Monty Westmores. He's one of the makeup family. . . . Helen Gahagan gives a concert at the Billmore hotel and the proceeds will go to Ann Lehr's Hollywood Guild.

The scotties of Luise Rainer and Barbara O'Neil are feuding and have to be tied apart on "The Toy Wife" set. . . . In case you've been wondering about Douglas Montgomery, he's scheduled to do a series of one-act plays for Eoanwhile, he's a guest star. . . . Meanwhile, he's a guest at Palm Beach of the Barclay Warburtons. . . . Warner Brothers took publicity pictures of Tommy Farr and Jimmy Cagney in sparring pose. When they got their dukes up, Cagney flipped: "Don't anybody ring a bell now!"
