Behind the Scenes in HOLLYWOOD

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD.—Just about tops in unconscious humor was the casting of Actor Allan Napier for a small role in the Muni picture, "We Are Not Alone."

In one scene, Napier had to hurry down the street of an English village with Muni while the rain poured down upon them. Napier carried an umbrella and the action called for him to open it and hold it over Muni.

One result of the "Northwest Passage" location is that Walter Brennan's 15-year-old son, Mike, will get a job on the Cruzan ranch near McCall, Idaho. Mike has no ambitions to be an actor and has paid his way through school by raising cattle on his dad's ranch in the valley. He won five first prizes and five seconds in a recent live-stock show.

Napier is the cousin of the world's most famous umbrella-toter, Prime Minister Chamberlain of England.

George Brent is back at Twentieth Century-Fox to dub in some dialogue for "The Rains Came." He told a story that will make some people groan with envy.

In the last month, George has turned down a fortune in radio offers . . . one of 26 weeks at $5,000 a week . . . another of 39 weeks at the same price.

Testimony Whereof, I hereunto subscribe my name and affix my official seal, this 10th day of July, 1939.

Insurance Commissioner.
