Doctors tell Andy Devine that he must cut down on his weight even if it has been very profitable to him in his movie career. In the last 14 months, Andy has put on 50 pounds, which makes him tip the scales at nearly 300. Too rapid a gain, the doctors say. They are putting the comedian on a diet which begins with a seven-day fast. All Andy gets during this time is six glasses of water a day.

Please take note, however. This is not a recommended program for everybody who is overweight. Consult your physician, like Devine did.
