NO HOSPITAL DAY PROGRAM

Due to the serious illness of a number of patients confined in the Adams county memorial hospital, it will be impossible to carry out the program which had been planned in observance of national hospital day which is Sunday, May 12.

Miss Elizabeth Pitman, hospital superintendent, announced this morning.

Miss Pitman expressed regret that the hospital was unable to conduct the program planned and said she was in full accord with the following article which was expressed in the hospital journal:

"National Hospital Day is a day of hospitality, friendship and cordiality. A day when our communities are welcomed within our doors, not as patients but as our personal guests. A day during which the skills of good hospital service are shown to the public who support our institution. Hospitals have no selfish nor sordid interest in celebrating this day.

"The promotion of good will, the encouragement of better and of more permanent relationships and the cultivation of sympathetic understanding of our hospitals and the service they are constantly rendering to all their people are the sole objectives in observance of National Hospital Day."

PERSONALS

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Helm of Miami, Florida will arrive in Decatur this evening where they will be guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Heller. They will visit their friends and relatives here and in Fort Wayne.

Jack Hill, assistant sales manager of the Northwestern Steel and Wire company of Sterling, Ill., was the over night guest of Don Lutes, local representative of the company. He left today for his home.

Mrs. Felix Maier was able to be moved from the Adams county memorial hospital last evening to her home at 203 North Tenth street. Mrs. Maier was admitted to the hospital Tuesday. She is recovering nicely.

Miss Kathryn King returned last evening from a week's vacation. She first visited in Lafayette where she attended open house at Purdue University and the dedication of the world's largest music hall. She also visited in Illinois and at Dayton, Ohio with relatives and friends.

He rehearses it several times, of course. And he keeps shouting criticism over the loud speaker system.

"What's the matter?" he yells. "You have given that brave a chief's war stick. You might as well put a general's epaulets on a private!"

Again, he picks on a lone Indian on a rock 100 feet away from the camera.

"You, up there on the rock, give me more feeling," he exhorts. "Remember that's a prominent spot you're in."

But the topper comes when, in the midst of the war dance, he yells:

"Stop! One of you assistants get in there and catch that butterfly. We can't have it in this scene!"

Not even a butterfly, a tiny speck fluttering above 700 wildly leaping and yelling men, escapes the eagle eye of De Mille.

So different to come onto the set of Lana Turner's new picture, "To Own the World," and watch Lana and newcomer John Shelton portray a pair of newswomen buying their first furniture.

They haven't much money and they are trying to keep from going overboard. But a shrewd salesman has seen Lana's eyes light up over a chaise longue.

"It has a genuine satin moire cover," he lures, "and, here, I'll throw in this pillow with it."

"Oh," says Lana, "all my life I've dreamed of having a chaise longue . . . but we mustn't."

"We'll take it," says Shelton. "Think of how much money we are going to save by owning our own furniture."

It's a scene that could have been taken from the experience of thousands of newswomen. When Dictator Harold Bucquet says "cut," Lana comes off the set.

She's a real newswoman, and I ask her if she and Artie Shaw have bought any new furniture.

"Not yet," she says, "but we'll have to soon. We are going to build a couple of rooms onto the house."

"What rooms?" I ask. "For heaven's sake!" she exclaims in a panic. "Not what you are thinking! Not a nursery!"

Poor Lana! There has been so much sensational publicity about her marriage that now she anticipates rumors even before they come up.

On another stage Mickey Rooney and Judy Garland are doing a scene for "Strike Up the Band." The kids are putting on a show within the show like they did in "Babes in Arms." Right now they are burlesquing a bedroom scene from an ancient melodrama.

Mickey is playing a drunkard who has struck down and killed his only child. Judy is his wife.

"You brute!" she screams. "You have struck down our baby!"

Then the child, played by Larry Nunn, is hoisted into the air like Little Eva going to heaven.

Everybody is having fun but Director Busby Berkeley and Larry Nunn, who is wearing a tight harness under his clothes.

Mickey is in his element. He looks over and winks.

"Well," he says, "this is one scene where they can't blame me for hamming."

To Enter West Point On July 1

James K. Glendening, son of Mr. and Mrs. Milo Glendening, of west of Geneva, will enter West Point Military Academy July 1, having been recently appointed by Congressman George W. Gillie. The appointee is a graduate of Hartford township high school and at present is a freshman at Purdue University.

VOLUNTEERS TO SELL POPPIES

American Legion Auxiliary Sponsors Poppy Sale May 25

Call for volunteers to serve in the American Legion auxiliary's Poppy Day forces is being enthusiastically answered by the young women of Decatur, Mrs. Leo E.

Ehinger, poppy chairman of the American Legion auxiliary unit, announced today.

Organization of the workers who will distribute the memorial poppies throughout the city on Poppy Day, May 25, is proceeding rapidly. The women who are offering their services are being assigned to teams, each of which has a definite part of the city to supply with the little red flowers. Working in relays, they will be on the streets throughout the day.

"The response to the call for Poppy Day workers is very gratifying," said Mrs. Ehinger. "It shows that the spirit of patriotism is very much alive in the women buses operated, public markets opened as usual and workmen went about their usual tasks.

Many refugees began arriving from frontier areas on their way to previously designated shelter areas.

It was asserted by the national defense staff that German troops were being held at all points and that parachutists were being neutralized. Bombardment of Belgian airports had been unsuccessful, it was asserted, though German planes continued their flights over Belgium and air raid alarms sounded frequently.

The bare disclosure was permitted that British and French troops had arrived in Belgium Friday afternoon and were welcomed by the people with flowers and cheers.

But he said, in effect: It shall not happen here.

Science is not responsible for the uses of annihilation to which their inventions have been put, he said.

"What has come about," he continued, "has been caused solely by those who use, and are using, our inventions of peace in a wholly different cause—those who seek to dominate hundreds of millions of people in vast continental areas—those who, if successful in that aim will, we know down in our hearts, enlarge their wild dream to encompass every human being and every mile of the earth's surface."

He said that in this hemisphere we seek the full life and to live for each other and in the service of the Christian faith.

"Is this solution—our solution—is it permanent or safe," he added, "if it is solved for us alone. That it seems to me is the most immediate issue that the Americas face. Can we continue our peaceful construction if all the other continents embrace by preference or by compulsion a wholly different principle of life? No, I think not."

Shocked and angered, as he said we all were, by the invasion of the low countries and Luxembourg, Mr. Roosevelt stated his opposition to the totalitarian ideology in vigorous and alarming language but within the limits of the methods short of war by which he long has opposed it. Their only reward will be to see the poppies blooming on every coat in tribute to the nation's heroic dead and to feel their coin boxes grow heavy with contributions for the war's living victims. RED CROSS TO CONDUCT DRIVE

Adams County Quota To Aid War Sufferers Set At $1,000

Plans for the participation of Adams county's chapter of the American Red Cross in furnishing aid to the stricken civilian population of the invaded countries of war-torn Europe were announced today by Miss Annie Winnes, chapter secretary, and Wal Wemhoff, chapter chairman.

A telegram received from the national chairman of the Red Cross today set the quota of the county chapter at $1,000 and urged the earliest possible time of reaching or exceeding the quota.

The telegram stated that with the invasion of Holland, Belgium and Luxembourg the war has entered a phase which inevitably will bring widespread and appalling suffering to millions of helpless men, women and children.

The national quota has been set at 10 million dollars.

A meeting of the executive board of the local chapter will be held Monday night at 7 o'clock at the Winnes shoe store in this city for the purpose of planning the drive and naming committee workers.

Chairmen of the branch organizations of the county chapter have been named as follows: James Elbertson, Decatur; R. O. Hunt, Geneva; Mrs. E. W. Busche, Monroe and Mrs. Henry Briener, Peterson.

Americas might have to become the guardian of western culture and the protector of Christian civilization had become a fact.

Three more independent nations have been "cruelly invaded by force of arms," he told the scientists and cited the appalling frequency in which threat has been followed by attack.

"We have come, therefore," he said, "to the reluctant conclusion that a continuance of these processes of arms presents a definite challenge to the continuation of the type of civilization to which all of us in the three Americas have been accustomed for so many generations."

He contrasted our belief in a civilization of construction with a civilization of destruction and the freedom in the new world to search for truth with other parts of the world where teachers and scholars may not conduct that search "because the truth might make men free."

"This has not happened in the new world," he said. "God willing, it shall not happen in the new world."
