They Lead Greeks in Successful Italian Fight

Here are the men who lead Greece in the war with Italy, successful for the Greeks thus far, according to dispatches from Europe. At the left is King George of Greece, and right, the present national hero, General Papagos, the commander of the Greek armies. In center is Air Vice Marshal J. H. D'Albino of the British Royal Air Force. This meeting took place in Athens.

Wanted—an American Husband

Wanted, an American for a husband—and quick! The lady in the case, Vera Hrubá, beautiful Czechoslovakian ice skating star appearing in the U. S., has to marry an American by March 1 to acquire U. S. citizenship or be deported—or return voluntarily to her Hitler-controlled homeland. Miss Hrubá came to the U. S. two years ago on a visitor's permit. She is the only remaining country to which the U. S. may deport aliens whose native lands have been seized by the Germans. When 16, she appeared before Adolf Hitler in his box. "He scared me to death," she says.
