FORD EXECUTIVE

The industry, which was to have produced only $2,500,000,000 worth of armaments this year, has been asked to more than double deliveries. In addition to the $4,500,000,000 worth of war contracts already held by the industry, contracts soon will be let for $1,250,000,000 of airplanes and parts, $1,000,000,000 for tanks, $1,500,000,000 for trucks, $500,000,000 for combat vehicles and $1,000,000 for ordnance items.

An army and navy "shopping list" submitted to the industry yesterday also includes gun carriages, cameras and equipment, generators, footbridges, mobile aircraft detector units, bearings, 20 kinds of bombs, torpedoes, depth charges and rifles.

Army and navy officials disclosed that delivery dates on all contracts now held by the industry will be "moved up." Production of automobiles will be halted by the government, Jan. 31 after 204,848 cars have been assembled for that month. That quota is nearly double and to be preparing for a counter-attack from Burma against the Japanese lines in Thailand in an effort to sap the strength of the enemy offensive toward Singapore. Chinese, Indian and other troops have been massed in Burma for such an attack and considerable American and British air strength is available. The Japanese continued air raids on Rangoon in an effort to break up the Allied supply line centered there but met strong fighter opposition.

In the Dutch East Indies, where a communique reported the loss of a second Netherlands submarine, there were no important new developments of a military nature, but in China a counter-offensive launched against the Japanese at Changsha was believed to have been entirely successful.

Japanese troops, originally estimated at 150,000, were caught in a Chinese encirclement and a heavy rain storm between Changsha and the Laotian river, according to Chungking, and were said to be facing annihilation.

Japanese losses already had been estimated at more than 50,000 men and Chungking dispatches said that Japanese air forces were unable to come to the aid of the trapped columns because of the storms.

Tokyo, on the other hand, claimed in a broadcast that Japanese troops held Changsha and that the Chinese had suffered 19,000 casualties and 7,000 prisoners. The Japanese broadcasts also claimed that their troops were making rapid progress against American forces on Luzon Island and had "virtually collapsed" Corregidor fortress. Waves of Japanese aircraft were said to have pounded at Corregidor, Olongapo and Malolos in an effort to knock out remaining American defenses.

The troops under Gen. Douglas MacArthur "face final annihilation or surrender" soon, the Tokyo broadcast asserted.

In regard to Malaya, the Japanese broadcast said that the fall of the next couple of days and Kuala Lumpur was expected "with that Japanese planes had taken a heavy toll of British tanks and sunk a 3,000-ton ship in the Malaya operations.

On other fronts, the Allied forces continued to hammer at the Axis and there were mounting indications that a crisis had been reached in the relations of Germany with Vichy France.
