Heber R. Tinkham serves with Medical Battalion in Italy

PENINSULAR BASE HEADQUARTERS, ITALY: T/5 Heber R. Tinkham, of Monroe, is a member of the 222d Medical Composite Battalion, a peninsular base section unit which has serviced the fifth army in Italy with medical supplies since the D-Day landings at Salerno, when an advanced detachment went in under shell fire and air attacks with medicinal necessities for the hard-pressed Allies.

The battalion kept a flow of vital medical supplies to the American fighting forces throughout the Tunisian and Sicilian campaigns, and stocked the seventh army in drugs and dressings for the recent landings in Southern France. It is under the command of Lt. Col. Walter Smit of Alton, Iowa.

The 222d MCB each month issues more than a thousand tons of all types of medical supplies, and keeps a reserve of about four thousand tons of hand. Its mobile optical section has made and repaired more than 20,000 pairs of glasses since the Allied landings on the Italian peninsula. Drugs, dressings, instruments, and every type of medical equipment needed to patch up sick and wounded fighting men are supplied by the 232d medical composite battalion. T/5 Tinkham is the son of Mr. Harvey Tinkham of Monroe. Before entering the military service he was employed by the Dunbar Furniture company of Berne. He has been in the army for 40 months and overseas for 20 months, serving in North Africa, Sicily, and Italy.
