YEARS OF PENT UP ANGER find quick expression and a swift, accurate kick is aimed at a Nazi soldier by a French patriot after FFI forces had rounded up a group of Germans in the town of Jouy-en-Josas, near Paris, on Aug. 24, 1944, a day before the French capital fell. Censors, fearing reprisals by the Nazis, withheld the photo. (International)

British Election Expected In July

Cabinet Crisis Is Delaying Action

London, May 22 — (UP) — The British cabinet crisis will delay any meeting of the Allied big three until late July or early August, British political observers said today.

Prime minister Churchill was expected to call for the resignation of his cabinet within the next few days—perhaps today—and set in motion arrangements for a general election in early July.

The uncertainty of Britain's internal politics already were affecting her dealings with other governments, observers said.

The cabinet crisis was brought to a head by the labor party's refusal to continue in Churchill's coalition government until Japan has been defeated.

It was expected that Churchill would complete the reorganization of the government by the week-end, replacing some 30 laborite and liberal party ministers and junior ministers with "men of good-will" of any party or no party affiliations.

A number of former cabinet ministers were likely to be brought back. Among those being mentioned for portfolios were former war minister Leslie Hore-Belisha, who helped rebuild Britain's army in the early days of the war, and former health minister Walter Elliott.

The date for the dissolution of parliament also probably will be announced this week, possibly on Thursday.

Churchill forced a showdown on the coalition issue by insisting on a general election unless the labor party continued in the government until Japan has been defeated.

Laborite leaders rejected the plea, but suggested that the election be put off until fall. Laborite ministers in the government include deputy prime minister Clement R. Attlee, home secretary Herbert Morrison, labor minister Ernest Bevin and First Lord of the admiralty A. V. Alexander.

The laborites also rejected Churchill's suggestion that a national referendum might be held on prolonging the life of the parliament until victory over Japan has been won.

Denies Lend-Lease Causes Shortages

Flock Of 'Fictions' Knocked Down By FEA

Washington, May 22. — (UP) — The foreign economic administration took time today to knock down a flock of "fictions" about lend-lease.

Do you think lend-lease is responsible for the meat shortage, the cigarette shortage, the butter shortage?

The FEA says it isn't so.

Have you heard the one about the Russians trading lend-leased American planes to Japan in return for rubber, the planes then being used against us?

"Not a grain of truth in this rumor," declared FEA flatly.

The FEA spent six full pages of its 19th quarterly report to congress in a detailed denial of "a number of fictions about lend-lease."

Here are some of its "facts" and "fictions":

1. Fiction—The United States is sending to Britain as lend-lease several hundred thousand prefabricated houses which are taking a substantial part of our lumber supplies.

Fact—We are using about two thirds of one percent of the national lumber supply in 1945 to provide 30,000 temporary houses to help replace a few of the 500,000 homes destroyed by the luftwaffe and robot bombs.

2. Fiction—Britain is not getting any meat from Canada because she can't get it from the U. S. under lend-lease.

Fact—Last year Canada shipped to Britain about one third of her total meat production, including 700,000,000 pounds of bacon and 325,000 head of cattle.

3. Fiction—"Americans who have stood in long lines in recent months to purchase cigarettes have sometimes heard that one reason for the shortage was the large number furnished to other countries under lend-lease."

Fact—Lend-lease exports of cigarettes in 1944 were only about 1 1/2 percent of U. S. production. For every cigarette lend-leased last year the U. S. sent 20 to American armed forces while civilians at home smoked 60. No cigarettes have been supplied for civilian use under lend-lease.

ed forces while civilians at home smoked 60. No cigarettes have been supplied for civilian use under lend-lease.

5. Fiction—The domestic shortage of beef and veal exists because large quantities are being lend-leased.

Fact—Only one and one-tenth percent of the domestic beef supply and one and three-tenths of the total veal supply was taken by lend-lease in the first three months of this year.

Expect Showdown In Yugoslav Situation

Allied Forces Move To Yugoslav Border

London, May 22.—(UP)—British and American forces in northeast Italy began moving east toward the Yugoslav border today, in effect infiltrating Yugoslav lines in disputed Venezia Giulia province.

J. Edward Murray, United Press correspondent with the eighth army, said the western Allies gradually were taking over possession of a number of high peaks and other key positions that had not been occupied by the Yugoslavs.

Yugoslav occupation forces, partisans and civil administrators for the most part occupied only towns when they marched into Venezia Giulia, leaving the surrounding country unguarded, the dispatch said.

The action may bring a showdown in the ticklish Yugoslav situation. It was ordered by Marshal Sir Harold R.L.G. Alexander, supreme Allied commander in the Mediterranean, after Marshal Tito rejected his demand that Yugoslav occupation forces be withdrawn from Venezia Giulia.

The province was awarded to Italy after the last war, but now is claimed by Yugoslavia. Alexander contends that Allied troops should occupy the area until its final disposition has been decided at the peace conference.

Murray said the eastward movement of Allied troops was designed carefully to avoid friction with the Yugoslavs by the simple expedient of not entering areas held by them.

Should Yugoslav troops be encountered, Murray said, "diplomacy and friendship will be the Anglo-American watchword. The situation continued in Trieste and elsewhere in the province, but disputes developed as to whether it was likely to improve or worsen.

AS TESTIFIED BY THE TERRIFIC POUNDING taken by Nagoya's great industrial centers, the air campaign against Japan's great war production machine is swinging into the "all-out" stride which will gain in momentum as weeks pass. In the above map are shown the principal industrial areas—the plane construction and shipbuilding and steel producing centers. In addition, it shows the relative percentage of vital war factors produced in each section. They are based on the last available figures. These were gathered about 1940, but are believed to give the production capacity before the B-29 bombings began. (International)

Four days before, she went into action for the last time when she shelled Danish positions.
