Vets Eligible For Farm Buying Loans

G. I. Bill Provides Loans To Veterans

Under the servicemen's readjustment act (G. I. bill), World War II veterans are eligible for farm purchase loans the same as though they were farm tenants, or purchase other real estate for the purpose of a home, and pay it off in the same manner they would pay rent.

On farm property two factors are of the utmost importance under the eligibility requirements:

1. Can the veteran locate a desirable farm?
2. Can the farm be brought at a price so it can be made to pay for itself over a period of years?

Many veterans are obtaining loans from the farm security administration, a federal agency which supplies supervised credit service to farm families unable to get credit at reasonable terms from other sources.

Most farm security administration loans are of two types:

1. Short-term loans for operating purposes.
2. Forty-year loans of family-type farms.

The biggest factor in the purchase of a home type of real estate is locating property where the selling price will meet the appraisal price. If this can be done, however, the purchase may be arranged with the cost of appraisal the only expense to the veteran until his first monthly payment becomes due.

For further information, see the U. S. veterans administration contact representative at the office of the American Red Cross from 12:45 p. m. to 3:45 p. m. on the 1st and 3rd Friday of each month.

Fires Costly

Fire losses for one year in the United States amount to enough to build 75,000 new homes costing an average of $6,000 each.

Demands Removal Of Rent Ceilings

Atlantic City, N. J., Nov. 14.—(UP)—Robert R. Wason, president of the national association of manufacturers, today called for immediate removal of rent ceilings on new housing and the lifting of all controls on home rents early in 1947.

In an address before the national association of real estate boards convention, Wason vigorously attacked price and other government controls, the U. S. conciliation service, labor unions and local building codes.

Unless rent controls are removed thousands of landlords will go into bankruptcy, he said.

Snowstorm Produced By G. E. Scientists

Cloud Is Sprinkled By Dry Ice Pellets

Schenectady, N. Y., Nov. 14.—(UP)—Scientists from the General Electric laboratories said today they had succeeded in producing a snowstorm by sprinkling an ordinary cloud with pellets of dry ice dropped from an airplane.

The process is so simple, explained Dr. Irving Langmuir, associate director of the G. E. laboratory, that a single airplane, flying through an overcast sky, could blanket a large area with several inches of snow.

Langmuir said the experiment is important because:

It probably can be applied in winter to produce snow in regions where there are clouds which fail to produce precipitation, thus storing up a supply of moisture to feed irrigation and water-power projects during the spring months.

Snow might also be produced at mountain resorts for the benefit of winter sports enthusiasts.

Clouds destined to produce snowfall over urban areas could possibly be made to drop snow in rural areas instead, thus eliminating the problem of snow removal.

It could be used to clear areas of clouds that produce dangerous icing conditions, thus reducing hazards to aircraft.

Langmuir said the first man-made snowstorm was produced Wednesday when a small airplane, flying over Greylock mountain in western Massachusetts, flew through a cloud three miles long and turned it into snow.

From a 14,000-foot level, the snow fell an estimated 3,000 feet. But because of the dry condition of the atmosphere beneath the cloud, the snow evaporated before it reached the ground, Langmuir said.

In cloud formations of lower altitudes, which commonly prevail in winter, such a precipitation of snow would reach and blanket the ground, the scientist added.

The method was developed by Vincent J. Schaefer, GE research scientist who made the outdoor test.

Six pounds of dry ice pellets were scattered in the air above the cloud and "within two minutes a radical modification of the cloud took place and streamers of snow began to pour out of the base of the cloud," Langmuir reported.

Langmuir explained that the dry ice pellets, which are solid carbon dioxide with a temperature of 110 degrees below zero, converted the drops of water in the cloud to ice.

Youth Escapes From Jail At Portland

Portland, Ind., Nov. 14.—(UP)—State police joined with sheriff's officers today in a hunt for Thomas Densmore, 18, who escaped from the Jay county jail late last night by slugging the turnkey with a blackjack fashioned from pipes torn from the jail plumbing.

Densmore, Redkey, was in jail under $1000 bond on a charge of vehicle taking. He slugged John Wood, 66, after asking him for a bottle of milk, and tied him up. He escaped in a 1946 Chevrolet belonging to Ray Robson.

In the eyes of the critical rank and file, Bevin was regarded as not irreplaceable. They believed Hugh Dalton could step into his shoes at once and swing Britain's foreign policy near as easily as with the Labor party's policy put forth during the election campaign.

Dalton's friends said he was "turbid at the prospect of a coalition between British and American forces." They said his first move was to fly to Moscow to seek understanding with the Russians on eastern Europe and the East.
