

Two Traffic Wrecks Are Reported Here

Peaceful Labor Day Celebration Here

Two traffic accidents and several other minor police activities were reported in the city and county during which was described as one of the most peaceful Labor Day celebrations here.

A car driven by Leroy Baumgartner, of near this city, rolled over about 7:15 o'clock on federal road 27 at the Peterson road near the southern limits of the city corporation.

Baumgartner told city police his car slid off the pavement and skidded on the loose stone on the berm. The car then rolled over. He was unhurt. Damage to the car was estimated at $50.

An accident occurred in Decatur about 1:15 o'clock Sunday morning when cars driven by Patrick Hackman, 23, of this city, collided in the 100 block on West Monroe street with an auto driven by Wid Kiever, 27, Greenfield.

No one was hurt and little damage resulted. Mrs. Kiever and Richard Williams, both of Greenfield were riding in the Kiever auto. City police investigated.

City police answered several minor calls, including a couple concerning complaints on dogs. Sheriff Herman Bowman confiscated another rifle Sunday when the owner became careless in his shooting. He took the .22 calibre rifle from a 35-year-old resident of near Decatur after a slug from the gun smashed a window about a quarter-mile away. The man said he had been shooting sparrows.

Aged Man Apprehended
An 81-year-old man found wandering along federal road, six miles north of Decatur Sunday evening was taken into custody by sheriff Bowman and then returned to Fort Wayne.

The aged man, unable to speak coherently, was identified as Philip Wemhorst, of Fort Wayne, after sheriff Bowman contacted Allen county sheriff's authorities.

other nations of the new world to come to the assistance of the old world in concert with the efforts of the United States.

He made clear that the need for assistance felt by war-torn countries of Europe and Asia will be given a priority over economic help for other American nations. But here he told the Pan-American delegates that later this country looked forward to increased economic collaboration within this hemisphere as well.

Mr. Truman hailed the work of the inter-American conference, which in two weeks time reached agreement on a broadly-drawn pact to check aggression against any American nation.

"You have made it clear to any possible aggressor that the American republics are determined to support one another against attacks... you can be justly proud of the achievements of this conference and I commend the noble spirit which has inspired your efforts."

Concluding, Mr. Truman said: "This western hemisphere of ours is usually referred to as the new world. That it is the new world is clearer today than ever before. The old world is exhausted, its civilization imperiled. Its people are suffering. They are confused and filled with fears for the future. Their hope must lie in this new world of ours."

Upon completion of his speech, Mr. Truman was scheduled to return to Rio De Janeiro from Petropolis. He will board the battleship Missouri, where he will be host at a reception and buffet luncheon for conference delegates. He planned to speak informally after the luncheon, and then go to the Brazilian foreign office for the signing of the inter-American treaty.

Mr. Truman told members of his staff that he was highly gratified over the reception he received on his arrival in Rio De Janeiro after his flight from Washington aboard the presidential transport Independence. He seemed happy but wearied by the long flight.

Brazilians said the welcome given to Mr. Truman was the greatest ever accorded a foreign visitor. An estimated 1,000,000 Brazilians cheered him along the way from Guanabara Bay, where the Independence landed, to the U. S. embassy, seven miles distant.

that wages of railroad employees had lagged behind those paid in comparable industries for 30 years.

The arbitration of the wage issue was necessary because the 17 unions and representatives of the railroads were unable to reach agreement during direct negotiations.

council had a petition for a salary allowance came entirely from federal funds.

While the councilmen met behind closed doors, those who wished to appear before the tax-making body were admitted. Mr. Dehner stated that inquiry of county officials and department heads would be made as the session progressed, and as information pertaining to requests for funds was needed.

In all probability several of the appropriations will undergo the pruning knife. The budget for the county hospital, entailing an additional appropriation of $36,000 over and above anticipated revenue from the institution next year, will be taken up by the councilmen. The request for an allowance for a service officer will also be scrutinized, the councilmen indicated.

Due to the amount of work before the council, the session may run into Thursday, members surmised.

37 KILLED IN

"Officials are at the scene of the disaster and are engaged in searching the wreckage," the state said.

"As soon as they have finished this task, a full casualty list will be issued."

Firemen fought the blaze until nearly daylight before it was brought under control. All available ambulances and first aid equipment was rushed to the scene from Winnipeg, 40 miles northwest of here.

UNIONS PLEDGE

tion including increased social security and health benefits, effective rent controls, full employment, increased minimum wages and an "adequate" housing program.

The battle cries were sounded by CIO president Philip Murray, AFL president William Green, president A. F. Whitney of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen (Ind) and a host of lesser union officials. Murray, speaking from Kansas City, Mo., said in blunt terms that the "working men and women are in a fighting mood... determined that their unions will not be weakened or destroyed."

He said the people also are "determined to change the anti-labor complexion of congress and determined to wipe the infamous Taft-Hartley labor law from the statute books." Murray said these objectives could be accomplished through "wise" use of labor's "full economic and political strength."

He promised that the 6,000,000-member CIO would play a leading role in the fight against the Taft-

● Not many years ago, before science had started on its amazing way, brewers were glad to dispose of their used grains, surplus yeast and spent hops by any method that presented itself—dumping in the streams, or sewers, or even piling them on the refuse heaps.

Now, however, thanks to scientific research, the grains which actually are enriched in the brewing process go back to the farms and the dairy feeding lots as prized cattle and livestock feed. The yeast, too, has been found to be not only a valuable livestock and poultry feed supplement, but, rich in vitamins, adds a healthful adjunct to the everyday diet of the American people. Even the hops are finding their way to the feeding yards, or as mulch in unfertile fields.

Thus, by employing science, the brewers have enlisted in the anti-stream pollution campaign in a wholehearted way. Moreover, in addition to providing wholesome, refreshing beer, they have the satisfaction of seeing their by-products reach the table in the form of tender meat and rich milk.
