Jumping the (Spray) Gun for "Dairy Day"

While other Hoosiers concern themselves with snow and icy roads, Earl Stichter, shop technician for the division of exhibits and short courses at Purdue University, ponders the first flies of summer around a dairy barn, as he puts the finishing touches on a "D. D. T. Controls Flies" exhibit. This will be one of seven exhibits which will be displayed at "Dairy Day" Thursday at the Decatur junior-senior high school, arranged cooperatively by dairy producers, county agents, distributors, dairy processors, and the Purdue University agricultural extension service.

Eligible Girls Of County Are Urged To Join 4-H Clubs

With the Adams county observance of national 4-H club week in full swing here today, Miss Anna K. Williams, county home demonstration agent, today urged eligible girls of the county to enroll.

In citing the advantage of enrolling in 4-H club work, Miss Williams released for publication statements made by two club members, expressing sentiments typical among the workers:

The statements:

June Teeple, Decatur 4-H Club:

"The 4-H club is part of my every day living. Even though 4-H is only in the summer time, I continue it throughout the winter months. I started by 4-H work when I was about 10 years old and have continued through the years. Most of all it taught me to cooperate with people and to control my temper.

"In summing up my work and experiences in 4-H through the years, I would not trade my knowledge gained through it for anything of great value. It teaches you to be a well-rounded citizen, who will some day run the government of this great country. It has taught me

4-H Junior Leaders Mark National Week

Thirty one of Adams county's junior leaders observed the start of national 4-H club week last night. March 1-8 is proclaimed throughout America for 4-H club enrollment and last night's meeting at the Lincoln School, Decatur, was the first local session. The event was a rally for enrollment of new members and application for new junior 4-H club leaders. Some clubs reported that their enrollment was increasing 50 to 80 percent.

After get-acquainted games, the group assembled for a discussion of the opportunities and operation of the 4-H program. At the close of the discussion, recreation and refreshments were enjoyed.

more than any book or person, for which I am thankful."

Shirley Striker, Monroe Busy Bees:

"I joined the 4-H Club because I think it is the greatest in the U. S. and I wanted to be called a part of it."

his position clear in the past and he did not intend to "discuss it further."

"I again request that my name be not filed for a position for which I am not a candidate," he said. "If it is filed despite this urgent and earnest request, I ask my Nebraska friends to confine their primary votes to others."

CLEAR ATOMIC

Condon, a former Princeton professor who observes his 46th birthday today, said his entire career has demonstrated that he is "completely reliable, loyal, conscientious and devoted to the interest of my country."

"If I am a weak link in atomic security," he said, "then the nation need have no fears."

Condon was named director of the bureau of standards in 1945 by Henry Wallace, then commerce secretary. In that post he is in charge of top-secret scientific research for the armed forces. He has been identified with developments in radar, rockets and the atom bomb.

The unAmerican activities subcommittee said that under Condon, the bureau of standards "has become the target of espionage agents of numerous foreign powers."

While not charging Condon with being a communist, the subcommittee said he has associated, either knowingly or unknowingly, with American communists and alleged Russian agents.

The house group said FBI chief J. Edgar Hoover advised commerce secretary W. Averell Harriman by letter as far back as May, 1945, that Condon was associated with Russian spies.
