Soybean Yield Here Two Million Dollars

Soybean Popular On Adams County Farms

Soybean growers of Adams county received $2,088,000 of the 100 million dollars paid to Indiana growers for the 1947 soybean crop of 28 million bushels, according to a survey of corn belt experiment stations and agricultural colleges. This figure is based on a conservative value of $3.40 per bushel. An estimated 614,000 bushels of soybeans were harvested by Adams county farmers.

Ward Calland, managing director of the national soybean crop improvement council, says that aside from the large return that farmers get for their soybeans a second important reason for the popularity of the soybean is that it removes less plant food from the soil than most other farm crops.

"The soybean takes less from the soil because it makes an important part of the food it needs," Mr. Calland states.

"An annual legume, the soybean adds some nitrogen to the soil. When properly inoculated the soybean plant gets much of its nitrogen from the air and when only the beans are removed from the field more nitrogen is left behind than the plant drew from the soil," the survey sets forth. "The nitrogen addition is not large, but compared with nitrogen losses of 50 pounds from a 50 bushel corn crop, 26 pounds from 40 bushels of oats, or 35 pounds from 25 bushels of wheat, it puts the soybean crop on the right side of the ledger for its nitrogen supply. Nitrogen is the most expensive plant food nutrient added to the soil in the form of fertilizer."

This advantage of the soybean crop has been pointed out by agronomists at Purdue University, according to Mr. Calland. "They found that soybeans improve the tilth of the soil, leaving it loose, friable, easy to work and in excellent shape for a seeding of wheat, rye or winter grain."

The survey shows that a 25-year old crop rotation experiment at Purdue where a rotation of corn, wheat, clover, was compared with corn, wheat, soybeans, and clover, the soybeans in the rotation increased the yields of corn and wheat six and seven bushels respectively compared to use of no soybeans in the rotation. These long-time tests at Purdue show that both small grain and hay crops yield better on soybean stubble than after corn. Ohio reports increased yields of corn and oats when soybeans were added to a rotation of corn, oats, sweet clover, on heavy soils. This experience has been confirmed by farmers throughout the corn belt, it is stated.

The development of better adapted varieties of higher yielding ability and better oil content also has helped to popularize the soybean crop, according to many Adams county growers.

Housewives Rescue Plane Crash Victim

Three Men Killed As Plane Crashes

French Lick, Ind., April 7—(UPI)—

Two housewives were recovering today from minor burns suffered when they pulled a man to safety from the burning wreck of a small airplane in which his three companions were killed.

Boniface Sippolone, 27, Hibbing, Minn., the pilot, and two passengers, Dr. Alfred Decker and Dr. Gordon Burke, both of Gurney, Ill., were killed when the plane crashed near the airport here last night.

The two women, Mrs. Ruth Howell and Mrs. Marie Luttrell, heard the crash from their homes. They ran to the wreck and managed to pull Dr. Kach Becklin of Waukegan, Ill., from the burning plane.

Becklin was rushed to a Paoli, Ind., hospital where attendants said he had suffered second-degree burns. They said his condition was good.

Mrs. Howell and Mrs. Luttrell said that they attempted to save the other men but were forced back by the fierce gasoline fire.

Witnesses said the plane crashed after the pilot tried twice to land at the airport.

They said Sippolone made one pass at the field but pulled up when he saw the runway was too short. He made a second try and that time the plane's wheels touched the ground.

The witnesses said he apparently thought he did not have enough room and tried to pull up again. About 500 feet from the end of the runway, the plane stalled and spun to the ground where it burst into flames.

The three passengers, all dentists, were trying here to play golf with friends who had preceded them by auto from Waukegan. Sippolone was a flying instructor at Waukegan airport, where the plane was chartered.

establishing a 40-hour work week for railroad workers without reduction of weekly pay would be comparable to the wage standards set in other industries by "second round" pay hikes last year.

Union Rejection

Cleveland, Apr. 7—(UPI)—Three railroad brotherhoods today gave the nation's carriers 20 days to work out an "acceptable" settlement with them or face a nationwide rail tie-up.

The unions had asked a 30 percent wage boost and changes in certain working conditions.

The railroads accepted the board's recommendations when it made its report to the president March 27.

Acting as spokesman for the three brotherhoods, Alvanley Johnson, grand chief engineer of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, said "members of our unions are showing all willingness to avert any interruption of commerce."

The brotherhoods termed the proposed increase "not acceptable" but offered to meet "with the carriers again and settle their dispute within the next 20 days.

If an acceptable settlement is not reached in the matter prior to or on April 27, a strike date shall be set as soon thereafter as possible," Johnson said.

In Chicago, a spokesman for the carriers' conference committee said the 15-man panel would meet within two days to consider the union's rejection of the awards.

20 Buddhist Monks Burned To Death

Shanghai, April 7—(UPI)—Some 20 Buddhist monks were burned to death today, refusing to leave their prayers to escape flames which destroyed the 1,000-year-old Kingshan Temple, near Chinkiang, 140 miles west of here.

Witnesses said the buddhists calmly intoned their prayers as firefighters pleaded with them to escape the traditional buddhist philosophy is one of self-denial.

Says Jenner Backed By Sinister Forces

Helmke Says Jenner Being Manipulated

Hammond, Ind., April 7—(UPI)—

Walter J. Helmke of Fort Wayne, a candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, said today that Sen. William E. Jenner, R., Ind., was being "manipulated" into the governor race by "the most sinister forces ever to bring disrepute to the Republican party."

Helmke made the statement in a speech prepared for delivery at a meeting of the Hammond press club. He said Jenner's "chief sponsor" was "Boy Lyons" who "helped wreck the GOP in the D. C. Stevenson era."

"Now he is trying it again for personal gain and political prestige," Helmke said. "His chief lieutenants . . . have ruined more political careers than anyone in Indiana."

Helmke said the Republican party wanted Jenner to stay in Washington.

"I am sure that the party would rather see him wash up the new deal in Washington than 'scrub down' the steps of the Soldiers and Sailors monument in Indianapolis," Helmke said.

Helmke also told the club he intends to "wage the most aggressive campaign I know how." He said he had made no "deals." He said he had "surrounded myself with an organization representing the better element in party affairs" and that he would base his campaign on "the philosophy and principles of good, sound, economical and progressive government."

In an accompanying affidavit, Lewis reiterated that he has not "directly or indirectly" ordered or advised the miners to stay away from work "either collectively or individually."

He said his first communication to the miners, sent March 12—three days before they left their jobs—was merely a report to them on the status of the health and welfare fund.

Meanwhile, attorney general Tom Clark called his top aides into conference to plot the government's next move.

Several Chickens Reported Killed

Sheriff Herman Bowman was called to the Tom Hart farm, one-half mile east of Geneva early this morning, when Mr. Hart reported several chickens killed and missing.

The owner reported eight hens alive and five dead, along with 13 missing. The loss was attributed to dogs or foxes prowling among the chickens.

Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery, meanwhile, returned to London from his Berlin visit and told reporters he had a private talk last night with the Soviet commander, Marshal Vassili Sokolovsky.

Montgomery met Sokolovsky at a dinner arranged in Montgomery's honor by the British commander, Lt. Gen. Sir Brian Robertson.

However, Russia took another step toward division in Germany with an announcement that a communist-sponsored plebiscite on a unified German government will be held in the Soviet zone in May and June.

Radio Berlin said the plebiscite was approved by the German people's congress, a group of Soviet zone communists leaders with a few leftists from the western zones.
