Seven of the 12 children leave their home after shooting.

FAMILY TRAGEDY strikes at Youngstown, O., as Aleksa Shasho kills his wife and then turns gun on himself—leaving 12 children, 10 of them at home. Money rows were blamed by police for the tragedy, listed as a homicide and suicide by the coroner. Seven of the 12 children are pictured leaving their home in company with the Rev. Peter Paundovich after learning of the tragedy. (International) starving sheep and cattle. He said the haylift worked most successfully with sheep because they flock together whereas cattle spread over the ranges.

Wild animals and fowl were reported fighting with some of the livestock for the available feed. One source said 50 percent of the deer would perish and thousands of wild ducks and geese would starve.

A Red Cross official at Phillip, S. D., said ranchers will suffer "tribulations" unless even if roads are "opened soon. Five bulldozers working round the clock have broken through to only one-fifth of the snowbound ranches in the area, he said.

Ranchers in some areas were suffering from lack of fuel. Their stoves were equipped for bottled gas and would not burn wood.

In placing federal grants at the disposal of the five storm-battered states, Fleming said he realized the sums were "far short of the need." For that reason, he held back $25,000 to be granted later where most needed.

PROSECUTION in the treason trial of Mildred E. Gillars, "Axis Sally," in Washington, D. C., federal court called Adelbert Houben (above) former broadcast manager of the German radio, who told the court that Axis Sally got the second-highest pay. He said she averaged 2,000 to 3,000 marks a month. This would be all German radio personnel, be $800 to $1,200. (International)

Carnegie Medal To Fort Wayne Youth*Posthumous Award
For Heroic Effort

Pittsburgh, Jan. 27 — (UP) — Eugene H. P. Frey, 18, Fort Wayne, Ind., was honored posthumously today by the Carnegie hero commission for his heroic attempt to save a drowning girl in Indiana last year.

Frey was among 13 persons in nine states and Canada honored by the commission for heroic attempts to save the lives of others. The youth's father, Henry Frey, received a bronze medal award.

Officials of the commission said Frey died while trying to save Ruth Schmidtke at Lake James, Ind., on July 5, 1948. Witnesses said Miss Schmidtke was thrown into deep water when a wave lashed the boat in which she was riding with Frey and several other companions and overturned it.

They said Frey swam to the drowning girl, who grasped him by the shoulders and pushed him under the water during the struggle that followed. A group of sportsmen in a nearby motorboat rescued the girl. Authorities did not find Frey's body until the following morning.

Medals To 13

Pittsburgh, Jan. 27 — (UP) — The Carnegie hero fund commission today awarded bronze medals to 13 persons in nine states and Canada for heroic efforts to save the lives of others.

The commission granted pensions totaling $1,440 annually and directed disablement benefits totaling $400. The awards were voted at the 49th annual meeting of the commission, established by the late Pittsburgh steel magnate, Andrew Carnegie.

Peacetime Record Set In Bond Sales

Orville R. Maxfield, state director of the U. S. savings bonds division, reports that last year set a peacetime record for the sale of U. S. savings bonds in Indiana. Sales totalled $184,503,601, a gain of $1,200,000 over 1947.

Series E sales were $112,372,032, a gain of $3,243,000 over 1947 sales. Redemptions of series A to E, plus accrued interest, in 1948 amounted to $105,209,503. This is $2,028,000 less than were redeemed in 1947. E Bond sales, alone, exceeded redemptions of series A to E Bonds, plus accrued interest by $7,163,000.

but we are watching it closely." He said that crests already have been reached at most points along all Indiana streams except at the extreme low ends. But even though the crests are past, the water will not recede fast because all storage basins and tributaries are full to top carrying off a heavy excess of rainfall this month.

At Vincennes this morning, the Wabash apparently had crested at 23.9 feet. The west fork of White river had crested all the way down and was falling slowly.
