

CLAIM ROYALL

(Cont. From Page One)

gan with the army secretary asking the American correspondents questions about the situation in Japan. But they gradually reversed this process and began questioning Royall about matters relating to "American world strategy."

The AAP correspondent said

ASTHMA

Don't let coughing, wheezing, recurring attacks of Bronchial Asthma ruin sleep and energy without trying MENDACO, which works thru the blood to reach bronchial tubes and lungs. Usually helps nature quickly remove thick, sticky mucus. Thus alleviates coughing and aids freer breathing and better sleep. Get MENDACO from drugist. Satisfaction or money back guaranteed.

Royall "spoke with frankness that would be unpollitic in any international conference."

He said Royall referred to the Australians and the Filipinos as "surprising people" who would "scream" if the Americans left Japan.

"The impression left with the majority of listeners was that Royall had made clear that Japan now was relegated to a most minor position in the United States strategic set-up, and that withdrawal of United States forces from Japan now was being considered by the war department," Warner wrote.

Two Philadelphia Drivers Attacked

City Still Stricken By Transport Tieup

Philadelphia, Feb. 16 —(UP)—Two motorists, who gave rides to stranded pedestrians, were attacked by roving groups of men today in this transit-stricken city.

The incidents were the first reported since 11,000 transit workers left their jobs last Friday and were joined yesterday by 3,500 taxi drivers.

Claire Reed, 33, was struck on the head by a brick thrown through an open window of his automobile by one of seven men who pulled up alongside in another car. Reed, already blind in one eye, may lose the sight of the other, physicians at Wills eye hospital said. He had just given two sailors a ride to the navy yard when he was attacked.

Emanuel Taylor, 33, a Pennsylvania railroad employee, reported that four men in an auto forced his car to a curb in a side street and pushed him out. Taylor, who has been taking workers to their jobs during the strike, was not injured but the men broke all the windows in his car and ripped off a door.

Meantime, the crowd-weary or foot-sore residents struggled through the sixth day of the transportation tie-up.

Deadlocked negotiations between the Philadelphia Transportation Co. and the CIO transport workers union meant meeting train schedules, hitch hiking, or coming into work by auto-truck pool arrangements.

For those having cars, there was the inevitable central-city traffic jam.

The 3,000,000 daily commuters in the metropolitan area have been without toll-free, bus and subway-elevated service since last Thursday midnight.

The 11,000 PTC operating and maintenance employees walked out in support of contract demands that included a 20-cent hourly wage boost. Last Monday night they shaved the wage request to 17 cents. The company offers a three-cent boost and "money concessions" involving working conditions.

the public welfare association have been similar.

Social security administrator Arthur P. Altmeier told a reporter the administration would be prepared to present its entire social security recommendations when the ways and means committee hearings start. The committee's plan is to take up the public assistance phase of the program first.

Democratic members of the days and means committee went over various social security proposals at a White House meeting with President Truman, Altmeier and Ewing yesterday.

Committee chairman Robert L. Doughton, D., N. C., or some other Democratic member of the committee ultimately will propose a measure along the lines recommended by the administration.

G. O. P. Cool To Wage And Price Control Plans

Inflation Control Plans Are Received By Cool Reception

Washington, Feb. 16 —(UP)—Republicans and some Democrats were cool today to the modified wage-price controls proposed in President Truman's new anti-inflation legislation.

Rep. Jesse P. Wolcott, R., Mich., ranking GOP member of the house banking committee, said congress should sit on the administration plan for 60 days "until we see where the country is heading."

Sen. John J. Sparkman, D., Ala., a member of the senate banking committee, said he believes "it would be very hard to sell a program of inflation controls to the country at this time."

The administration recommendations were sent to Capitol Hill late yesterday by agriculture secretary Charles F. Brannan, coordinator of the President's anti-inflation campaign. The legislation would authorize the government to clamp ceilings on prices which threaten to go above last December's level. It also proposed creation of a six-man board to regulate wage increases.

In addition, "the administration asked for broad powers to relieve or prevent shortages of critical materials. It sought authority to make long-term, low-interest loans to private industry to boost production capacity, and, as a "last resort," to build and operate plants of its own.

The legislation was introduced in the house by chairman Brent Spence, D., Ky., of the banking committee. Shortly before, one of the President's economic advisers, John D. Clark, had warned that inflation still is a threat and "the risk in delaying action is too great."

Chairman Joseph C. O'Mahoney, D., Wyo., of the joint congressional economic committee said "the President wants to act in such a manner as to stimulate production, bring lower prices and to stabilize by ordinary and normal forces. The question is shall we drift or shall we act."

The Wyoming senator said Clark gave "very persuasive arguments" that the recent price dips are only temporary.

However, Sen. Ralph E. Flanders, R., Vt., a member of O'Mahoney's committee, said that if the price declines are only temporary, "this program will not be helpful." In his opinion, he said, neither wage nor price control is necessary now.

Layoffs Announced By Three Railroads

New Layoffs Total Near 3,000 Workers

Chicago, Feb. 16 —(UP)—Three more railroads announced layoffs totaling almost 3,000 workers today.

All three roads said the layoffs were the result of declining traffic.

The Milwaukee road announced that 1,500 will be laid off for three weeks beginning Monday. All the road's repair shops will be closed, officials said.

These include shops at Milwaukee, Minneapolis, Dubuque, Ia., Tacoma, Wash., and Terre Haute, Ind.

At Philadelphia, the Reading road announced the layoff for an indefinite period of 400 mechanics in its locomotive and car shops. A Reading official said business had declined and labor costs had increased.

The road said 289 men are being laid off at the Reading car shops and 100 at the locomotive unit. The remaining 20 are being furnished at the St. Clair shop near Pottsville, Pa., officials said.

Jersey Central lines announced at New York that it is closing down its locomotive and freight and passenger car repair shops at Elizabethport, N. J. The freight car shop at Ashley, Pa., also will be closed.

Jersey Central officials said the shutdowns would be effected Feb. 21 and would continue to March 5, necessitating the layoff of about 775 men during the two-week period.

E. T. Moore, chief executive officer, said the road has incurred "substantial deficits" since the first of the year.

Three major railroads previously had announced layoffs. On Feb. 10 the New York Central announced the biggest single layoff since the 1929 crash. About 8,100 repair and maintenance men were given notice of temporary dismissal.

The week before, the Pennsylvania announced the layoff of 2,500 maintenance workers, and early this month the Southern Pacific's western division laid off 2,520 men.

The Reading was the latest of the eastern anthracite-hauling roads to announce layoffs. The Delaware and Hudson laid off 131 men this month, the Lehigh Valley road laid off 180 and the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western 25.
