The general resolution to which Millikin referred is a proposal now being urged in both the senate and house to instruct Mr. Truman to make an arbitrary cut of 5 to 10 percent in spending in this new fiscal year.

Today as never before prayer is a binding necessity in the lives of men and nations.

Kathryn Kohne Wed Today In Church Rite

Miss Kathryn Ann Kohne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond B. Kohne, 327 Mercer avenue, became the bride of Joseph Barbieri, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Barbieri, 4701 Stratford road, Fort Wayne, at nine o'clock this morning in St. John the Baptist church, Fort Wayne.

The Rev. Ambrose Kohne, of Goodland, uncle of the bride, officiated at the ceremony before an altar banked with huckleberry foliage and beauty vases of white delphinium and majestic daisies. George Nichter, organist, presented the musicals preceding the ceremony, and Miss Peggy Gardner of Chicago, friend of the bride, sang the Ave Maria, Panis Angelicus and the Agnus Dei during the mass, and "On This Day Oh Beautiful Mother," as the bride presented a bouquet at the Blessed Virgin's altar.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white bridal gown with a bateau neckline and cap sleeves, both edged with a scallop of rose-point lace. The full circular skirt was fashioned with narrow satin paniers over lace, which cascaded down the sides and fell into a chapel length train. Rose-point lace mitts tapered to points over the hands and her fingertip veil was a mantilla of imported French illusion, edged with scallops of matching lace. She carried a bouquet of white butterfly orchids.

The maid-of-honor, Miss Rosemarie Kohne, sister of the bride, wore a gown of white percale over lime green taffeta. The low round neckline was edged with chantilly lace and the full puffed sleeves were held to the arm with a band of lace. The bouffant skirt fell gracefully from a tight bodice finished with a sash of the taffeta. She wore a bonnet of layers of tulle faced with green taffeta, and carried a basket of peruvian lilies and orchid ester reed daisies.

The bridesmaid, Helen Preece, schoolmate of the bride from Waterloo, Iowa, was gowned identically to the maid-of-honor. She carried a basket of peruvian lilies and gerber daisies. The attendants carried crystal rosaries gifts of the bride.

Robert Barbieri served his brother as best man. John McCormack and Robert Kohne ushered the guests to their pews, which were marked with white satin bows and variegated ivy.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Kohne chose a grey silk dress and wore a navy blue picture hat trimmed with lilac colored flowers. Her corsage was of deep purple orchids. The groom's mother was attired in a gown of navy blue lace and a matching lace hat. Her corsage was of fuchsia throat- ed white orchids.

Immediately following the ceremony, a breakfast was served at the Bluffton country club for seventy-five out-of-town guests and the bridal party. The T-shaped table was beautifully decorated with low bowls of white delphinium and majestic daisies and garlanded with variegated ivy. The bride's reception was held at the home of her parents, Mrs. Gerald Kohne, Mrs. Ed Bosse and Mrs. Frank Buttenbach presided at the dining room, where the table was centered with a three-tier white wedding cake and silver candelabra. In the living room, the receiving line formed in front of the fireplace, which was banked with an arrangement of white delphinium, daisies and huckleberry foliage. Assisting in serving were the Misses Kathryn Ann Edwards, Ruthie Holthouse, Joan Zeser, Nancy Bell, Dorothy Kohne, Catherine Schmitt and Mrs. James Egly.

When the couple left for their wedding trip, the bride wore a tailored white linen suit. Her hat was of natural straw trimmed in brown and her other accessories were brown and white. She wore a corsage of orchids from her bridal bouquet.

The bride was graduated from Decatur Catholic high school and attended St. Mary's college, Notre Dame, for three years. Mr. Barbieri was graduated from South Side high school and the University of Notre Dame in the school of engineering.

Mr. and Mrs. Barbieri will make their home in Fort Wayne where the bridegroom is associated with Pollak Brothers.

Guests from a distance were Miss Anne Reynolds, Memphis, Tenn.; Miss Mary Ellen Black, Battle Creek, Mich.; Miss Mary Cuel and Miss Judy Morris, Detroit, Mich.; Miss Mary Ruth McGee, Chicago; Miss Joan McCabe, Rockford, Ill.; Miss Rosemary Schilling, Lafayette; Miss Sally Cantwell, Columbus, O.; Miss Elsa Vellutino, Crown Point; Miss Margie McKeon, Chicago; Tom Hellmuth, Alexandria, Va.; Walt Hauser, Hartford, Conn.; Jack Snyder, Tom Brady and Patrick Stanton, Chicago; Joseph Beck, Little Rock, Ark.; Misses Marianne and Virginia Lutz, Louisville, Ky.; Mrs. Frank Buttenbach, Omaha, Neb.; Roger Cole, Dayton, O.

counselor.

There is no indication that she suffered from being an ugly duckling. She is much prettier than average with large dark eyes and fine white teeth. Her tiny figure is trim and she has a likeable personality.

Her bosses called her "Judy" and they obviously liked her. They gave her a farewell luncheon before she went to Europe for a vacation in the spring of 1948.

At the age of 27, Judy Coplon might have been a proper subject for a modest success story. She was earning $4,149.60 a year and she appeared to be going places.

Then came the information—still undisclosed — which started FBI agents on her trail and led to the unfolding one of the most astounding espionage cases in the country's history.

And the way she took it suggested that she was no green hand.

But when and why did the break come? What turned her to Russia and away from her native land?

At this point, only Judith Coplon knows the answer.

LEWIS DEMANDS

Lewis and soft coal operators in their efforts to negotiate a new contract to replace the one which expired Thursday midnight.

Lewis has been carrying on separate negotiations with northern and western soft coal operators and with U. S. Steel in White Sulphur Springs and with the Southern Coal Producers Association in Bluefield, W. Va.

All conferences are in recess until July 12. The miners are now enjoying their annual 10-day vacation. They are scheduled to return to the pits Tuesday under a Lewis order, directing them to work three days a week.

SUBVERSIVE

The article was written before the Judith Coplon spy trial, during which Condon criticized the FBI for a loyalty report on his wife.

Investigation of disloyalty and treasonable acts of government employees is an "important function of government," Condon said.

"But many persons are using, or trying to use, or would be willing to see used this proper activity for partisan political purposes, for the trumping-up of attacks directed at persons whose only offense is that they think differently on some policies than do the attackers."

Condon also charged that: 1. A particular vindictiveness is being shown against atomic bomb scientists for supporting civilian control of atomic energy. 2. Isolationists are trying to attack scientists who have "one-world" concepts. 3. Some honest and sincere persons "genuinely believe that scientists are untrustworthy fellows."

Change Operations In Office Of VA

Changes Caused By Budget Reductions

Max C. White, officer in charge of the veteran's administration office in Fort Wayne, has announced changes in the operation of that office which have become necessary due to budgetary reductions.

Vocational rehabilitation and education activities which have been administered by the local office, have been transferred to South Bend Training officers and training facilities officers will continue to operate out of Fort Wayne but will maintain records and files in South Bend.

Herbert Snyder, formerly in charge of the educational section has been appointed training facilities officer. Guy Hite and Robert Porter will continue as training officers.

Advice and guidance operations, under the supervision of Dr. Lawrence V. Hess, have been discontinued. This work will be carried on at Muncie or South Bend, whichever is nearer to the veteran's home.

These changes which recently became effective will not affect the work of the contact section, which will continue to assist veterans and their dependents in all phases of claims for benefits. This section, under White, Donald V. Smith, and Russel N. Marchant, has approximately 20,000 cases in its files, and assists from 1,500 to 2,500 veterans each month in filing and developing claims for compensation and pension, death benefits, education, training, hospitalization, medical and dental treatment, national service life insurance and all other benefits.

The veterans administration office will remain in its present quarters in the Purdue University Center at 220 East Jefferson street, Fort Wayne, telephone Anthony 8289.
